Company goes bankrupt - village is out $14,000

By STEVE GOMBOS

Madoc Village Reeve Terry Pigden recently announced that the village unknowingly paid a $14,000 hold back fee to Lightfoot Construction Company twice, and probably won't be able to get it back.

The troubles for Madoc started when Lightfoot declared bankruptcy in early summer of last year. The well digging and pump house project Lightfoot was contracted to do were not completed, so a $14,000 hold back fee traditionally kept until completion of the project remained unpaid.

Upon the advice of solicitor Andre Philpot, the village put all money owing Lightfoot into a trust fund, until the courts decided who was actually entitled to it. The matter was taken to court because there were a number of creditors, including a variety of sub-contractors, who said Lightfoot hired them in connection with the project, but were not paid.

"We sought legal advice, and were advised to put all monies into trust because there were a lot of demands being made for money from various sub-contractors. We put all payments due into a trust account," explained Reeve Terry Pigden.

By that time it was already December. Clerk Doug Parks had fallen ill and was temporarily replaced by Marilyn Stephem.

About the same time the engineering firm handling the project, J.D. Lee, Kingston, started having financial trouble. In November, 1983, engineer Jim Hayes of J.D. Lee quit.

Hayes was the engineer in charge of the Madoc project.

By then the well and pump house project was in a complete freeze. There was no way for the village to continue, said Pigden, because the sub-contractors had put a number of liens on equipment and work done at the site.

Society salutes Tobin for long service

Last Thursday night at the Madoc Agricultural Society Banquet, Francis Tobin of Madoc received a plaque in recognition of his long-time service to the society. Mr. Tobin first joined the Agricultural Society 50 years ago, then became a director. He later became president for two years.

After his presidency, he was appointed secretary and held the position for the past 26 years. This January at the society's annual meeting, Francis Tobin retired from his position as secretary. Since he was appointed secretary, he worked under 14 different presidents and six treasurers, he said. His wife, Kathleen, was given a table arrangement during the banquet in recognition of her work also. Seen in the picture is Francis Tobin holding the plaque presented to him last Thursday night.

1984 village tax remains stable

During their annual budget meeting last Thursday, the Village Council decided not to raise the village millrate.

The village auditor reported that since 1982, the millrate charged by public schools has gone up 13.6 percent, secondary schools have gone up 8.65 percent and the county millrate has gone up 5 percent. This means that taxes have gone up about 6 percent in the county since 1982.

"We have decided to keep the same millrate as last year for our use here in Madoc," said Reeve Terry Pigden. "We could have decreased our millrate to absorb county increases, but we didn't think it would help the people of Madoc -- it eventually means less money for the village."

Pigden said that with the millrate the same as last year, the village will still be able to undertake a number of projects in 1984, including the old water tower removal, sidewalk repairs, possible cemetery expansion, and cemetery maintenance.

This has been the third budget put together by present council. In the first year the millrate did not go up. In the second year, there was an increase of 5 percent, and this year they held it at the same level as last.

"It's been our policy to hold the line for our purposes," said Pigden.

During a private meeting with The Review last weekend, Reeve Pigden said he personally sympathized with the county school board's plight. He said the board's argument for increasing taxes is their grants have not kept pace with their needs.

"The board is quite capable looking after the taxpayer's needs in education. One reason for the decline in the grants is enrolment. The system is designed for the baby boom, so they have a problem with the excess space and cost for staffing," said Pigden. "But I don't know for sure if I'm right, that's just my opinion."

Bomb squad called to Becker's

A Peterborough bomb explosive unit was called to Madoc Becker's on St. Lawrence Street last Tuesday after Manager Tony Willemssen discovered what he took to be an explosive planted in the ice cream freezer. The bomb squad removed the explosive and discovered it was a 2½ inch fireworks mortar. It was taken from the scene and exploded.

At about 3 p.m. last Tuesday, Tony Willemssen walked up to check the ice cream freezer for the first time since the Sunday before and noticed the device which looked like an explosive. He said that written on it were the words, "Danger, Explosives, Do Not Light" and "Contact Police Force to Explode".

Willemssen then called Madoc Ontario Provincial Police Detachment headquarters who sent down some officers and called the Peterborough bomb squad.

Tony Willemssen said that when he first noticed the explosive, he did not become afraid. But about half an hour later he said his legs "got a bit rubbery".

"I saw the word 'explosives' and I did not know what it was," said Willemssen. "It turned out to be some kind of firecracker, but it looked quite real."

He added that he didn't know whether the incident had been some kind of "prank" or whether it was some kind of diversion tactic. He said "it just happened and might never happen again."

Investigating the matter is Sergeant Cain, Corporal Dixon and Constable Bush of Madoc OPP Detachment. So far they report the motive is unknown and there are no suspects.

Willemssen summed up the incident in one sentence: "It just lived up to the town for a while."

Arena to get ice in August

At the special Madoc and District Recreation Centre board meeting held last Wednesday, members decided to put ice in the August 15, of this year.

The approved motion outlined that ice was to be put in on that date, and a new condenser of the same capacity as the one already in operation was to be purchased. The new condenser will cost $14,000 plus approximately $1,000 more for the base and electrical hookups at the time of installation.

Board members hope that the new condenser will help take the load off compressors at the arena during the hot periods. They also hope to back the system up further by insulating the cement base of the south wall. They are still investigating insulation costs at this point.

After discussion with

Laverne Pounder, a painter living in Madoc Township, board members decided not to get the floor of the arena painted before the early start. They plan to put a thin layer of ice on, skate it white and then put more ice on to see if this method be a satisfactory method.

"My information is that it is not a good idea to paint the floor white because it will mark up—skuff, with See Arena page 2.

For the past few months, John Mitchell of Madoc has been exterminating pigeons at the old church located across from Trinity United Church on St.

Lawrence Street. Last Tuesday at the council meeting, the village authorized payment to Mitchell of $200 and asked him to keep up with the extermination. It is unclear exactly how many of the birds have nested in the loft of the church, but Deputy-Reeve Tom Barton said that on some days he can see dozens of them perched on the hydro wires in front of the old building. So far Mitchell reported that he has killed about 25 birds.

Letter from editor - bad luck mail is junk

Over the past year the Madoc Review has received a number of complaints from local residents that they are receiving disturbing unsigned mail. This mail, in the form of a letter, has arrived at homes written in various types of hand/writing, with slightly different wording, but generally meaning the same thing: if recipients do not send out a number of copies (often the number is 20) then they will have bad luck.

A copy of one letter turned into The Review last week said it was "good luck" if the directions were followed, but "bad luck" if they were not. It demanded 20 copies be sent out, preferably to friends, so everyone, basically, would have good luck.

The letter read: "You will receive good luck within 4 days of receiving this letter provided you in turn send it back out. This is no joke. You will receive it in the mail, send no money as fate has no prize. Send out copies to people you think need good luck. Don't keep this letter. It must leave your hands within 96 hours." "An RAF officer received $70,000. Joe Elliot received $40,000 and lost it because he broke the chain. While in the Philippines, Gene Welch lost his wife six days after receiving this letter which he failed to circulate. However, before her death he received $7,755 and lost it all."

This letter reads like it was written by someone misinformed and uneducated. While transcribing the editor made a number of spelling and grammatical corrections and it is still bad. For anyone planning to follow the orders of this letter or a similar letter, we recommend you think again. Is it worth the time and money? Are you superstitious enough to believe that it means bad luck not to comply?

The facts given in the letter are not strong enough to convince us here that we should not just burn the letter and go on with life.

Constable Norman Papi of Madoc, Ontario Provincial Police Detachment put it quite frankly: "As far as I'm concerned it's junk mail."

He said the detachment has not received any complaints about the letters. But he said that if any of the letters make a direct threat against the health or well being of the recipient or recipients then it should be reported to police.

The letter we have a copy of here is postmarked Belleville. Locals have reported that they have got letters from Tweed, Toronto and others. None of them were signed.

I guess it just goes to show you how many gullible people there are in this vast country of ours...

other than Tuesday.

Around Madoc

Mr. and Mrs. Max Trotter of Madoc spent a few days in Toronto with friends and family. They celebrated their 48th wedding anniversary.

Some of the new projects the village is planning for 1984 include removal of the old water tower behind the post office, more sidewalk repairs, village cemetery expansion, and more.

"We are putting approximately $12,000 away for future waste disposal plans, as the dump is rapidly being filled," said Reeve Terry Pigden. "We put $10,000 away for a new fire truck if it is needed. We will be hopefully expanding the existing cemetery at the east of the village as part of the budget, but there are a lot of ifs yet."

The village put $10,000 aside for the cemetery expansion and grounds maintenance, said Pigden. The water works reserve was set at $47,283 for 1984, and $5,000 was allocated for working funds reserve in the general government account.

About $7,400 of the water works account will go towards removal of the old water tower.

During the budget meeting, councillors also decided to grant the Madoc Chamber of Commerce $750 for use towards the manning of the Tourist Booth. The chamber originally asked for $1,500.

Reeve Pigden said the sub-contractors received approximately 95 percent of the actual amount owed them for work they had done to the project. And now that a settlement has been reached, the liens have been removed and the project can be completed.

He said the money for St. Peter Street North part of the project is still in the budget, so they can go ahead with that work this year. The project will involve running water lines to houses on that street who are now using wells. It was discovered that when the new village test wells are turned on, the water in private wells along St. Peter Street are drained.

As far as getting the $14,000 back, Pigden is doubtful. He said the village has already been told by Andre Philpot that he can't see any way of recovering it. He said there is a possibility that a village errors and omissions insurance policy will cover the loss, but only if it was the fault of the council or village employees.

"There were so many different people and companies involved, it might be impossible to determine whose fault it was," said Pigden.

He did say the insurance will be contacted to see if a claim can be made.

"There were so many different people and companies involved, it might be impossible to determine whose fault it was," said Pigden.

He did say the insurance will be contacted to see if a claim can be made.

Reeve Pigden said the sub-contractors received approximately 95 percent of the actual amount owed them for work they had done to the project. And now that a settlement has been reached, the liens have been removed and the project can be completed.

He said the money for St. Peter Street North part of the project is still in the budget, so they can go ahead with that work this year. The project will involve running water lines to houses on that street who are now using wells. It was discovered that when the new village test wells are turned on, the water in private wells along St. Peter Street are drained.

As far as getting the $14,000 back, Pigden is doubtful. He said the village has already been told by Andre Philpot that he can't see any way of recovering it. He said there is a possibility that a village errors and omissions insurance policy will cover the loss, but only if it was the fault of the council or village employees.

Antique Auto Flea Market - Stirling

Spare time is a rare commodity for everyone and Roy Solmes, our local building inspector and contractor, is no exception. Any spare minutes he has had lately have been poured into restoring the body of his 1937 Ford convertible which he hopes to have on sale at the thirteenth annual Antique Auto Flea Market to be held at the Stirling airgrounds next weekend. The event is sponsored by the Antique Auto Club of America (Ontario Region) and last year there were over 200 exhibitors on hand in Stirling. The first show was held in Orono and the second was staged in Roy's backyard in Springbrook. That location was suitable for about five years until the crowds and traffic became too much to cope with and consequently the annual event moved south to Stirling where it has enjoyed continued growth for the last six years.

An added bonus is the fact that there is over 12,000 square feet of indoor floor space for exhibitors to use so that the weather does not spell complete disaster for the flea market. The organizers have attempted to get enough variety in their exhibits to entertain the whole family with displays of toys, furniture, antiques and other collectible items so that while the car enthusiasts in the family are busy bargain hunting there is plenty to keep the attention of everyone else.

Roy Solmes does the legwork for the Ontario Region of the club and helps set up and stake out the field. Funds raised by the Antique Automobile Club through this spring flea market are used to finance the events they host throughout the year.

If the weather co-operates anywhere from "three to five thousand" people should be visiting Stirling next weekend, so if you've got any old parts out in the garage that you would care to part with, now is the time to dust them off and you can be part of the largest car flea market east of Toronto.

More Summer Student Grants

Bill Vankoughnet, MP for Hastings - Frontenac - Lennox and Addington announced recently that projects have received grants under the Summer Canada 1984 Student Employment Program.

The grants, totalling $325,000 will provide employment for 147 young people working a total of 1,613 work weeks and will help furnish a wide variety of services for the riding.

Among the projects that will be operating this summer are several concerned with community recreation and restoration; activities encouraging greater awareness of local heritage during this Bicentennial year.

"Local residents are aware of the needs in their own communities and have put together programs to meet those requirements, and I am pleased that these projects are being funded for the benefit of the communities in the constituency and wish those who are participating in the programs a most successful summer," Mr. Vankoughnet stated.

In Madoc the Cadets 1984 received a grant of $3,775. In Marmora the Children's Creative Centre received $7,515.

Area musician plays and writes his kind of music

By JEANETTE MOORE

A former Marmora resident, Ray Edge, is making a name for himself in Toronto's music world as a singer and song writer and was recently given a very favorable review in a Toronto suburban newspaper. A solo performer since 1967 and an award-winning writer of original music since 1975, 35-year-old Ray Edge was described by writer Ellen Dechesne as a "Skinny guy with prominent cheekbones bracketing a boyish, angular face looking like a slightly self-conscious grade 13 student with a voice that comes from somewhere else. It comes from a face that belongs on a hefty, thick-armed, tattooed, the blues are my-life style rocker. Ray Edge's quiet, understated manner completely contradicts the musical persona he has shrugged on like a great coat."

His mother and father, Edward and Mary Edge, RR 2, Marmora, are justifiably proud of their son, who in addition to his performances in bistros and coffee houses has cut two recordings, one in 1975 featuring David Woodward of the Powder Blues Band and one in 1981 singing his own composition, Don't Worry About Tomorrow, with Downchild Blues Band back-up and national air play. But like the better part of his career the recordings' potential was not fully realized. He prefers not to play in bars where the audience is tuned out and a friend who works at a major recording company has told him that although he likes his music it will never make the AM stations since it has "no synthy-pop, no new wave sound". But Ray persists in continuing with the type of music he prefers and says, "If no one likes the demo tape I've just sent out to four publishers, I'm prepared to put out another 45 RPM record on my own label."

His mother and father moved from Toronto to the Marmora area in 1976 and Ray also lived here for a while and would like nothing better, according to his mother, than to live here permanently, but even in an urban centre like Toronto he is unable to support himself on his singing alone. He has had to take a job as waiter at the Shopsy's Restaurant opposite the O'Keefe Centre and waits on tables days there while he takes on engagements at the various bistros at night.

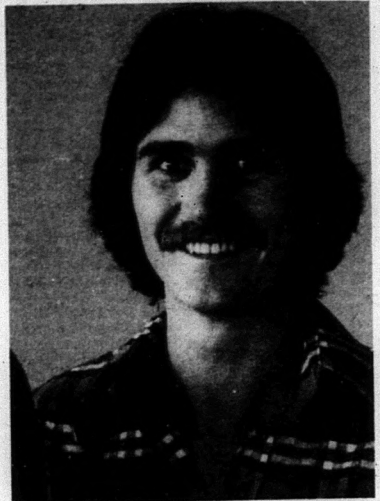

Ray says he never actually decided to 'become a musician'. As a Mimico teenager he played rhythm and lead guitar in garage bands that got regular playing engagements and has concentrated on music and singing ever since.

"I don't know what else to do," he says. "When I was on the road touring Northern Ontario with my bands, Dollars and Dealer's Choice, a few years ago, I was taken with the showbiz aspect of being a singer, but that wore off after the 101st hotel room and too much booze. We were hardly making any money and I finally decided I didn't want to go out on the road again unless it was with my own material and on my own terms."

"I got a job in a restaurant to keep going and started playing there and in other cafes as a solo and acoustic performer. I've been doing that for a few years now because I enjoy the intimate atmosphere of a crowd that's more intelligent than I can reach. In the bars everyone's so numbed by alcohol that it's hard to reach them."

He says that recently his music has gone in a different direction, that it's more spiritual, more lyrical.

"My girl friend Helena has been inspiring and encouraged me to write and play songs about the occult and the spirit world. She's helped me believe in myself and so I've sent another

Ray Edge, a former Marmora area resident, is now attempting to make a name for himself singing in the restaurants and cafes of Toronto. He has been told that the type of music he prefers is not commercial, but he has confidence in his song writing and singing ability and prefers the atmosphere in coffee houses to that of bars where "everyone's so numbed by alcohol that it's hard to reach them."

Holy Week observed

BY NORMA RILEY

A wonderful and spiritual Holy Week was enjoyed by the members of St. Mark's, Bonarlaw, and St. Paul's, Marmora, Anglican churches. The week of remembrance and spiritual renewal, as we followed the Passion Story and relived our Lord Jesus' Passions, began on Palm Sunday with the blessing and distribution of Palm crosses to commemorate our Lord's triumphant entry into Jerusalem. The Sunday School children were also blessed by the Rector, The Rev. Stan Riley.

This was followed by special Holy Communion services Monday and Tuesday evenings at St. Mark's, Bonarlaw.

On Wednesday evening, 40 members attended a Seder Supper at St. Paul's, Marmora. The Seder is a meal and service of worship which has been carried on every Passover for a few thousand years by our friends of the Jewish faith.

Happy Wanderers Sr. Citizens Club 473

The Happy Wanderers Senior Citizens Club 473 enjoyed a potluck dinner April 25, at 12 o'clock. There were 30 present for the dinner.

The flu bug seems to be keeping members absent. Following the dinner the meeting opened at 1:30. The president, Bernice Clarke, opened with a poem If You Love, You Will Be Loved, then read a prayer of St. Francis. O'Canada was sung with Mr. John Muir at the piano.

A minute of silence was rendered for the loss of a member, Fred Moorcroft. The sick was inquired about. Jessie Holmes is sick with the flu. Mrs. Ellen Slingerland is a patient of Toronto hospital. Ron Denyer is a patient of Kingston Hospital Hotel Dieu. Katherine Warbrick is a patient in Belleville hospital. We are pleased to hear Mrs. Hazel Beatty is home again at Mapleview Chateau.

The minutes were read by Helen Wannamaker. The correspondence was read by Hilda Anderson. A letter was received from the secretary of the Trinity United Church concerning the use of the church hall.

On May 5, a tea and bake sale will be held at Trenton, to which we have been invited.

The Zone 18 picnic will be held July 5, at Pictou. A donation of food products are to be brought to the meetings to be put in the food basket.

The bus report was given by Costan Parauik. He gave out lists of trips from June until December. There will be a bus trip to Trenton, to tour the Cheese Factory April 30th, then on to Quinte Mall, leaving the Wellington St. apartments at 8:45 and 9 o'clock at the church.

The Bicentennial quilt was put on display and sold to Mrs. Ilene Chambers. A picture was also taken of the quilt with Evelyn Rollins and Grace O'Rourke displaying it. The USCO convention will be held August 7-8 at Windsor with Bernice going as delegate and others are welcome to attend.

Bon Voyage to Mrs. Lily Bagshaw who is leaving for Australia for six months to visit a son.

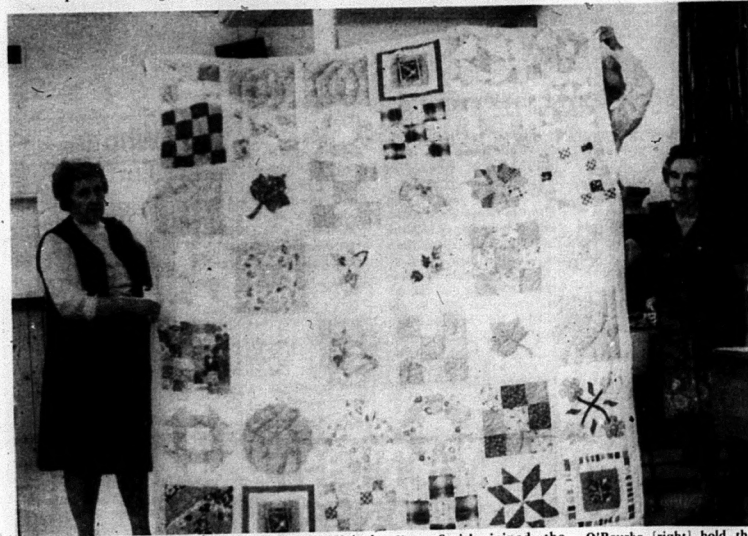

Irene Gordon thanked the club for a sympathy card received when her sister Mabel Adams passed away.

The door prize was won by Geno Chomaki. The meeting closed with God Save The Queen. Bingo was played completing the afternoon.

Holy Week observed in Anglican churches

It recalls God's deliverance of the Jewish peoples from slavery in Egypt to freedom, so that God could present them with the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai. Our Lord Jesus Christ would have shared such a supper with his disciples before His crucifixion. It was a unique and very enjoyable experience to assume the part of an Israelite and relive one of God's greatest miracles. Following the supper, we did as our Lord Jesus commanded us to do, we broke bread and drank wine as we celebrated Holy Communion.

Authenticity was maintained to the best ability of our rector, Rev. Stan Riley, who narrated the meal and wore a Yamulke (traditional Jewish Kippie) and a very beautiful blue and white Tallith (prayer shawl) both of which came from the Holy Land. All the foods were original, symbolic and very tasty, and of course, very meaningful.

The meal was completely and wonderfully prepared by Mrs. Selina Fulton, assisted in the preparing of the tables by Mrs. Gay Pattison. Our thanks to these two ladies.

Maundy Thursday evening we celebrated the Solemnity of the Lord's Supper and the altar was stripped for the commemoration of Good Friday.

Good Friday began with some of our members joining our brothers and sisters in Christ at Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church for the "Stations of the Cross". Following this, at noon, we gathered together in St. Paul's, Marmora, to remember the crucifixion of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ in a three-hour service.

Holy Saturday saw the members attending an Easter Vigil at which service we had the lighting of the Paschal Candle, and continuing in candlelight, Evening Prayer, the Vigil and Compline.

And to bring our week of Christian renewal to an appropriate ending, Easter morning saw the members of St. Mark's and St. Paul's celebrate the Resurrection of Jesus from the Dead. Yes, Jesus lives. He still lives and is with us always, to help us, to sustain us, and to guide us.

Truly, Jesus is King!

Shell leasee says ground is sinking

At last Tuesday's Madoc Village Council meeting Jim Malisch, new leasee of the Shell service station on Russell Station requested some help with his property. He said that the land next to Deer Creek is sinking and taking part of his driveway and building. What Malisch wanted to know was if the village or Moira River Conservation Authority was responsible for maintaining the river banks, or if it was his private responsibility.

Malisch proposed a joint effort to improve the situation at his property with the installation of gabion walls on the river bank. Also, he said, there should be some kind of railing put on the walls to ensure the safety of children who venture along the banks of the river.

"The other day I babysat for over an hour when some kids were playing by the river," said Malisch. "Will my insurance cover accidents in that river?"

At the Village budget meeting held last Thursday night, members did not budget for work to that portion of the river, but did refer the matter to Environment and Health Committee.

"If I don't get the local support, I won't win," said Malisch later.

Seen in the picture is Deer Creek running past the Shell property.

Federated W.I. Gift to Queen's Park

On June 11, 1984, a quilted wall hanging will be presented to the Province of Ontario; destined to hang in the Main Legislative Building, Queen's Park. At their semi-annual meeting from April 16-19, 1984, the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario Board members viewed the completed article which the organization has created as a Bicentennial project.

The centre of the embroidered wall hanging features an illustrated map of Ontario with the Ontario Bicentennial logo and the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario crest appearing in opposite corners.

Women's Institute members from across the province designed and embroidered 48 other blocks which depict highlights from the counties, districts and regional municipalities, a picture of the province's diversity.

After the Institute colors of gold and royal blue were used to assemble the finished portions, a number of skilled workers from Bruce Centre District quilted and added the finishing touches to this co-operative effort of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario.

The formal presentation to the Premier of Ontario will be Monday, June 11, 1984, from 3:30 to 4 p.m. in the Main Legislative Building, Queen's Park, Toronto. Following the presentation, members of the Women's Institute Provincial Board and the women who worked on the wall hanging will be welcomed at a tea.

Women's Institute members from across Canada will be visiting in Ontario from June 16-20, 1985, when Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario hosts the 10th National Convention of the Federated Women's of Canada. The expected 800 delegates will be in residence at Saugeen Maitland Residence, University of Western Ontario, London.

Wednesday, June 19, will be "Ontario Day" when delegates will visit the Erland Lee (Museum) Home, Stoney Creek and the Adelaide Headless Homestead, St. George. Also included on the tour will be the Niagara Area and the Mennonite Area.

580 delegates are expected at the Officers' Conference at Waterloo University on May 1, 2, 3, 1984. This will be a learning experience for secretaries, treasurers and members at large.

Rob Donald and Rick Jewell, salesmen at Jones Pontiac Buick Ltd. in Madoc received salesmanship awards for their performance in 1983. Rob Donald

G.M. Salesmanship Awards

GM District Manager G.J. (Gilles) Frappier presented the awards last Thursday, April 19.

Frappier presented Rob Donald with the "Grand Salesmaster" award, which is GM's most highly recognized award for salesmanship. Donald sold the most units at the Jones dealership in the 1983 year.

The Grand Salesmaster plaque reads: "In recognition of exemplary initiative and achievement of the highest possible standard in automotive salesmanship."

Rick Jewell received the plaque which is the second highest salesmanship award given by GM. Rick sold the second highest amount of units at the dealership last year in only 11 months.

"Being a Grand Salesmaster myself for three years in a row, I know what it is like being at the top. Both Rick and Rob work well with the dealership and their own personal clientele. Both men reached this plateau in less than two years," said President Dan Jones.

Donald and Jewell both agree that they achieved their goals by working hard and long hours, and maintaining good customer relations. They say they have both enjoyed it.

Harts Riggs WI hold annual meet

BY C. PARANUIK

A bountiful potluck luncheon amid floral decorations was a lovely beginning for the annual meeting of Hart's Riggs' Women's Institute on Monday, April 16.

The business portion of the meeting got under way shortly after with the Opening Ode and Mary Stewart Collect. Roll call, pay your fee and join again, resulted in 12 members and 10 life members joining for another year.

Following the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report, a thank you card was read from Wanda Franks.

During the business portion of the meeting, a poll was taken which showed the members were unanimously in favor of holding the annual officers' conference in Waterloo University as has been done in the past few years.

The four delegates to the district annual to be held in Carlow on May 29, are Lamoine Foley, Linda Watson, Elsie Franks and Vera Burnside. Their meals will be paid from the Branch funds.

President Lamoine Foley announced that the May meeting will be a trip to the Pinnacle Playhouse to see "The Skin of Our Teeth" after dining out in Belleville. Seventeen members will be attending the outing on Wednesday, April 25.

The short course, entitled More Cents than Dollars will be held at the home of Elsie Vierich on May 7, for the first meeting and on May 9, for the final session at the home of Helen Trotter.

A motion was made by Vera Burnside that we increase the amount allotted for floral tributes to sick members from $12 to $15 as the need arises.

A motion was made by Elsie Franks, seconded by Linda Watson that Reid Morrison be paid for finishing the floor of the hall as soon as the job is completed.

During the annual portion of the meeting, the Auditor's Report was given by Elsie Franks.

The president's report showed that she has had an ambitious year with several projects accomplished and funds raised to make important improvements to the hall. The sign mounted on the front of the building, the strawberry social, the yard sale, catering to a banquet, the printing and refilling of cookbooks, and refinishing the hall floor were all a part of the busy year.

Each convener gave a report on her work of the year, and once again it appears that several interesting and informative meetings were enjoyed by the branch.

The nominating committee, Winnifred Ketcheson and Pearl Foley, reported all offices filled. The following executive were installed by Elsie Franks: Past President Lamoine Foley, President Linda Watson, 1st

Vice President Elsie Vierich, 2nd Vice President Lamona Howard, Secretary Carol Paraniuk, Treasurer Marion Devolin, District Director Lamoine Foley, Alternate D.D. Wanda Franks, Public Relations Officer Carol Paraniuk, Branch Directors Pearl Foley, Eleanor Fleming and Winnifred Ketcheson, Auditors Lamoine Foley, Elsie Franks, Linda Watson and Vera Burnside, Delegate to the Area Convention Lamoine Foley. The conveners are: agriculture, Gayle Ketcheson; Canadian Industries, Pearl Foley; Education and Cultural Activities, Wanda Burnside; Citizenship and World Affairs, Lamoine Foley; Resolutions, Elsie Franks; Family and Consumer Affairs, Ruth Sexsmith; Curator, Doris Pigden, Assistant Curators, Mary Trotter and Kathleen and Francis Tobin; Pianist, Elsie Franks; Social Committee, Gayle Ketcheson, Wanda Franks, Carol Paraniuk and Denelda Foley.

Immediately following the installation of officers, a crystal bowl was presented to the past president in appreciation for all her work.

Trinity UCW meet

The UCW Unit 1 held their meeting April 18 at the home of Verna Empey at 2 o'clock. There were 12 members present and one visitor.

We were pleased to have Mrs. Ringleman present. The leader Mrs. Vera Smith welcomed all present, and opened the meeting with an Easter poem "Easter Message". Hymn 763 "Christ our passover" was read followed by "The Lord's Prayer". The roll was answered with the reading of St. Luke Ch. 22 verses 2-13, followed by prayer.

The Worship was led by Viola Wannamaker, opening with Hymn 87 "There is a Green Hill" followed by reading "Jesus Crucified" and "The Glorious Easter Story". Hymn 479 "God loved the world of sinners lost."

The minutes were read by Verna Empey. A card was signed by all the members to be presented to Mrs. Florence Love for her 85th birthday.

The UCW have been invited to Bethesda, June 6, for a potluck dinner and to have an item for the program.

The reports were given by the treasurers of the General and UCW, Eva Brownson and Ruby Brady. Verna thanked the unit for a sympathy card for the death of Lindsay's brother. An Easter card will be sent to Mrs. George White and Lizzy Empey. Easter Lilies were mentioned.

The rummage sale will be May 18 and 19 from 9 o'clock. On the 19th, summer clothes will be brought in.

The program was conducted by Lou Parks, opening with Hymn 15 "For the beauty of the earth." A poem "Easter Customs" was read of the different countries Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Netherlands, Germany and Belgium. A reading "The hope of the world" was read by Ruby Brady. Hymn 618 was read in unison.

A contest on the word Easter was enjoyed by all.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. Vera thanked the hostess and assistants for her home and the dainty lunch. A social half hour was enjoyed by all.

Signed by Viola Wannamaker.

Belleville Squad downs Lakefield Junior Ramparts

A very smooth Belleville squad downed the Lakefield Junior Ramparts 5-0 at the provincial Bantam play-downs April 14. The play was much closer than the score would suggest, as three Belleville goals came on deflections.

The Rampart shooting was too high for a Belleville goaltender whose "first base style" was the heart of her game.

"What's a place as small as Lakefield doing here?" asked some Belleville supporters. But after the game they expressed surprise that the Ramparts could skate with their crack outfit. "A few more games at this level of competition, and they could play us even."

That, of course, is the heart of the problem. In the eight-team United Counties league, the Ramparts and their friendly rivals from Otonabee simply drew away from the competition. At the end of the year the Ramparts were winning by even wider margins, which is contrary to the usual development of most leagues.

At the end of last year there was a movement for the entire league to select an all-star team to compete in the provincials. At least four Ramparts were guaranteed spots on the team. However, the girls chose not to divide their team loyalty, but rather to concentrate on their own team which rose from last place early in the year to third best at the end. This year the team ranked number one, but improvement has been slower because of a shortage of solid competition.

For the provincials, the Ramparts added three good and cheery players from Otonabee. Lynn Ann Adamson and Nancy Hunter played forward and Tassie Witanen played defence.

Coach Murray Dewdney chose not to play them as a separate line because he and the Ramparts wanted these girls to feel that they were full members. Their play at Scarborough would have made Bill Hutchinson, their Otonabee coach, proud.

So how close to arrival are the Ramparts? They are already selected as one of only 12 Bantam teams in the provincials. Nevertheless, they appear to be still about 3 or 4 goals short. In girls' hockey that is not insurmountable, but that deficiency may encourage the Ramparts and Otonabee to seek a tougher league next year.

A final word on the play of the Ramparts at Scarborough. The basic stick work and passing, the usual strength of the Ramparts was not up to its usual standard. An improvement in this area will produce results at the world's largest girls' hockey tournament at Brampton, April 20-25.

The Rampart girls want to express through The Lakefield Chronicle a cheery "Welcome Aboard" to Lynn Ann, Nancy and Tassie!

The Stirling hockey season finales were held at the arena and Senior School on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights last week. Awards nights and banquets were sponsored by the Stirling Minor Hockey Association in recognition of the local teams' performances on the ice last winter.

All of the events were well attended with parents and friends of the players

7th Annual Colgate Women's Games

The seventh annual Colgate Women's Games, the largest track and field event for women in Canada is to be held June 16, 17 1984 at Etobicoke Centennial Stadium in the City of Etobicoke.

Colgate-Palmolive Canada initiated the Colgate Women's Games in 1978 after recognizing that women had not been given the same opportunity as their male counterparts to develop their athletic skills.

These Games provide a forum of competition at the grassroots level, perhaps the single most important area of development in the future of track and field in this country. The Games, as well as offering our young women a high level of competition, provide an opportunity for the novice to compete with our country's top calibre athletes. That in itself urges our young athletes to aim for the top.

The event, open to all females ten years of age or older, now attracts over 2,000 entries annually.

The first day of competition features those athletes 15 years of age and under and as past history has indicated, it will be from this group that many of Canada's future stars and Olympians will emerge. The enthusiasm and eagerness exhibited by these youngsters is obvious to all, and the Games provide an opportunity for parents, other family members and friends to watch those they personally know.

Day two of competition is directed to those young women 16 years and older and feature some of Canada's top athletes.

The meet is noteworthy in that it is the only corporate sponsored event that does not require an entry fee from the competitors. In addition, each female that competes in the Colgate Women's Games will be the recipient of a free T-Shirt.

For those athletes finishing in the top three of their particular event, Colgate-Palmolive offers Grants-In-Aid of Education in varying amounts depending on the athlete's age category and overall placing. The philosophy of Colgate-Palmolive in offering these grants (which total over $76,000 in the past six years, is to provide financial assistance to encourage young women to continue to expand their knowledge in the activity of their choice.

The top three athletes in each event will also receive a Colgate Women's Games medal and finalists will receive special awards of Tote Bags.

For those wishing to enter the Colgate Women's Games, the entry deadline is May 20, 1984 and entry forms may be obtained at local schools and track and field clubs, or by writing: Colgate Women's Games, P.O. Box 55, Postal Station "G", Toronto, Ontario M4M 1A8. Additional information is available from either Meet Director Frank Mann at (416) 261-0587 or Meet Manager Murray Brioux at (416) 461-8234.

The Tall Ships

In the first three weeks of July, Ontario is the place to be for a once-in-a-lifetime chance to see the most beautiful of ships on a visit to a freshwater sea.

The 29 tall ships are huge craft, square-rigged barques and sloops, some up to 150 feet in length, with masts as high as a 10-storey building. Coming from seven countries, some are actually relics of the age of sail; others are full-size reconstructions of craft from the days of pirate vessels and clipper ships.

The gathering of the ships will be the event of the century on Lake Ontario, perhaps the last happening of its kind. Some of the ships may be retired soon, while others will continue to sail the oceans, serving as training ships for young crews. This summer they are here to help celebrate the Bicentennial of Ontario and take part in Kingston's celebration of the provincial birthday. Molson Ontario Breweries Ltd. is the major corporate sponsor of the event and is working with the Provincial Bicentennial Committee and the federal government to bring the tall ships. The Bicentennial Flotilla of about 10 vessels will be showing the flag in other parts after the main event concludes in Kingston.

Toronto visitors will get their first look at the ships as they begin arriving in the Outer Harbor on July 6, and start preparations for the pageantry of the sailpast in the early afternoon of July 7. More than two dozen tall ships will circle the Toronto Islands, saluting the official Bicentennial vessel near Ontario Place, before mooring along Harbourfront Park.

Then the ships will be ready for three days of public visits free of charge. These ships only seem to be relics of another age. Actually they are working ships, sturdy craft that have literally sailed the seven scrapers themselves. The public is invited to come aboard, walk the decks, run their hands along the smoothly varnished rails, watch the sailors working in the rigging and almost smell the ocean's salty air. Toronto's highrise skyline will be a dramatic backdrop, towering over ships that were once sky-

The ships represent countries that have strong historic and emotional ties to Canada. One of the French ships is the Dieppe, from the town at the site of the WWII invasion of Europe. Poland is represented by the four-masted schooner Zwawista Czarny, one of the most attractive ships in the rendezvous.

On July 11, the tall ships leave Toronto, in an American Sail Training Association-sanctioned race beginning at Ashbridge's Bay. After visiting Rochester the ships will race back across the lake to Kingston, with the winner receiving the Molson Challenge Cup.

When the tall ships arrive in Kingston, they'll dominate the skyline, yet blend in perfectly, as if this is where they really belong - in a city as old as the ships themselves.

Kingston's sailpast will take place on July 17, with the ships sailing from Amherst Island along the waterfront and under the guns of Old Fort Henry. Kingston's restored 18th century fort. This sailpast may be joined by the Royal Yacht Britannia.

Ships will set sail out of Kingston Harbor. As some head homeward bound and others sail to smaller Lake Ontario ports in the Bicentennial Florida, they'll disappear around the western tip of Wolfe Island, the end of the most spectacular sail regatta ever held on Lake Ontario.

The ships will remain in Kingston, along the downtown waterfront, available for viewing and visiting through July 20. The sailors will have a parade, a special sunset ceremony at the old fort, and a chance to socialize with the residents of Kingston.

Finally, on July 21, the

The cholesterol controversy goes on

"I don't eat eggs" said the student, pouring cream into his coffee and spreading butter on his bread. "They're high in cholesterol and heart disease runs in my family," with that he bit into his sausage.

Many people such as this student associate cholesterol in food with the development of heart disease. Is there such a connection? Will eliminating foods that contain cholesterol prevent heart disease?

Food advertisers have taken up the 'great debate'. Manufacturers whose foods are low in cholesterol (vegetable oils, margarine) are quick to warn us of the dangers of cholesterol. On the other hand, producers of cholesterol containing foods (meats, eggs, dairy products) argue that there is no proof of the cholesterol-heart connection. Who should we believe? What do the medical experts say?

Let's start with the basics, to begin to understand the issue: What is Cholesterol?

Cholesterol is an important fat in the human body. It plays a number of roles and is a normal constituent of the blood. It is a vital component of brain and nerve cells and is required for synthesis of certain sex hormones such as estrogens. In other words, cholesterol is a good thing!

It is only when there is too much of it and the body cannot dispose of the excess that it becomes a problem. Where does cholesterol come from?

Surprisingly, most of the cholesterol in your body is made within the body itself. About 1/3 of total body cholesterol is provided from food. Since plant foods do not normally contain cholesterol, animal products (meat, dairy foods) supply most of the dietary cholesterol.

Why the confusion about cholesterol?

Over the years there has been a great debate among researchers over the relationship between high cholesterol levels in the blood and heart disease. The study of cholesterol and heart disease is like a huge jigsaw puzzle. Many "pieces" are still to be found.

For example, we don't know exactly why some people have high blood cholesterol. Do they make too much cholesterol? We don't know precisely what happens to cholesterol as it travels through different parts of the body. Heart disease itself is hard to study because it has so many contributing causes. To prove the risk of one factor (such as cholesterol), all other factors (e.g. physical activity, smoking, dietary fat intake) must be unchanged in the study group.

A lot of research people are working on the jigsaw puzzle and guessing on how the pieces will fit. That's why we hear so many opinions and so much debate. The debate won't end until one puzzle is complete.

New additions to the "puzzle" create a lot of excitement. The latest study results were released in January, 1984. The 10-year "Lipid Research Clinics Coronary Primary Prevention Trial" provides strong evidence that cholesterol does have a role in the development of heart disease. Subjects of this study were men with high blood cholesterol levels. The men who received a cholesterol lowering drug together with a diet moderate in cholesterol had a reduction in blood cholesterol levels and a 19% reduction in the risk of coronary heart disease. The study was not designed to assess directly whether a change in diet alone prevents heart disease but it does add support that it may be helpful.

The Diet Dilemma

Should we change our diet now or should we wait until all the evidence is in? That's the dilemma facing nutritionists. Therapeutic diets will lower cholesterol in people with high blood cholesterol levels. However, there isn't sufficient evidence to recommend that the population at large should severely restrict their intake of eggs, shellfish or organ meats; they should aim for a diet moderate in total fats. The total composition of a person's diet should be evaluated, not just one dietary ingredient (such as cholesterol).

Nutritionists are encouraging moderation, not martyrdom, when it comes to eating. To ease into a lower fat diet, try the following: choose low fat milk and milk products; count the number of times this week you've had fried foods (french fries, donuts, fried chicken, egg rolls, etc.) and aim to switch to baked or broiled alternatives; meat should contribute to your protein needs and not be used to "fill up on". Check portion sizes (2-3 ounces a serving will suffice). Large serving sizes contribute to excessive dietary fat intake. Watch for hidden sources of fat such as baked goods, pastries, granola, ice cream, sauces, gravies and luncheon meats.

The student mentioned at the beginning made a common mistake. A single food can neither cause nor cure heart disease. Many aspects of the diet must be considered in the complex puzzle of cholesterol and heart disease.

If the Shoe Fits

by Ralph Heron, Manager

How can I be sure my children's shoes fit when I buy them? Most women, when they buy a hairdo, don't rush downtown at 15 minutes before closing time and let the first operator they come to give their hair a fast sizzle. Hardos are too important. Mother knows before she leaves the house not only which beauty parlor she is going to, but which beautician will give her the kind of hardos she wants. She will read magazines waiting for the operator to take her, and she may tip if she is especially pleased with the result.

"Who fits your children's shoes?" should be as commonly asked as "Who does your hair?" Try it. You will find that your shoelifters, who realize the health importance of children's shoes, will be pleased to know that you are not primarily interested in speed, low price, or high style.

OFA suggest Grossman and Timbrell should resign

less there is immediate financial assistance for pork and lamb processors, Ontario Treasurer Grossman and OMAF Minister Dennis Timbrell should resign, the board of directors of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA) decided today.

Much has been reported at the healthy recovery of the general economy. Unfortunately, the farm economy isn't getting better," OFA President Harry Pelissaro said.

Pelissaro added that the OFA decision is a signal of the tremendous frustration in the farming community. "We've been hit with delay after delay in introducing stabilization programs. And now we're hit with higher interest rates that no farmer can afford."

The board said support payments for red meat producers should be increased to match payments in other provinces. The board also said the payments should be retroactive to 1981.

In a near unanimous vote, the 125-member board also demanded the introduction of a "meaningful" stabilization plan by the provincial government within 30 days. If the plan is not introduced in that period, the board called for the resignation of Grossman, Timbrell and William Doyle, an assistant deputy minister of the ministry of agriculture and food.

"Governments have spent billions of dollars in the past few years bailing out big business," Pelissaro said. "At the same time, farmers have been told that programs to help agriculture are on the way."

"We can't wait any longer. Today's farmers don't have the financing options open to the farmers of 10 years ago."

1 in 7 broke

One out of seven Ontario farmers cannot meet their loan payments to the Farm Credit Corporation (FCC), the board was told. To make matters worse, the FCC recently increased its interest rates on loans to a minimum of 14 percent.

Although the FCC is a federal agency, the OFA board feels that assistance for agriculture must come from both the federal and provincial governments.

"The sense of frustration by the farm community in general has never been higher," Pelissaro said. "This frustration comes both from concerns over low commodity prices and staggering debt costs."

The OFA is the largest general farm organization in the province, with 25,000 individual members and representation from two dozen commodity groups, marketing boards and other farm organizations. The OFA board meets monthly to debate major issues of concern to the agricultural community.

Letter: Imitation dairy products

Ontario dairy producers processors must use every avenue available to them to ensure that imitation dairy products remain in accordance with present provincial legislation, available for sale in Ontario.

The Ontario Dairy Industry can be proud of their success in providing Ontario consumers with a consistent supply of quality nutritious products produced with most efficiency. However, recent research done by the

IV and the dairy industry revealed that American companies, who at present produce imitations in the USA are showing keen interest in establishing in Canada. Their intention is to produce and market "cheese" with a "cheese" taste. It also has been learned that the whey used in the process will be exported from the USA.

Of course, the "beverages" will be of a type that will fit under present legislation. But Ontario dairy farmers take heed.

The potential for pressure to put on our government to alter the legislation to allow imitation milk to become legal for sale in Ontario would logically be the very next step.

Ontario dairy producers presently supply one billion dollars of milk to the Ontario market. This one billion dollars of products results in seven billion dollars in job "spin-offs" to the people of Ontario. Is the potential loss of part of our dairy industry compatible with Canadian Industrial and Economic Policies?

It is estimated that in the United States, imitation dairy products have acquired over 31% of the market formerly held by natural dairy products. In recent years, imitation cheese has already captured the equivalent of almost two billion pounds of milk. There are also substitutes for cream, for butter, for fresh liquid milk - a never ending list. In total it is estimated that substitutes in the USA have displaced the equivalent of over 55 billion pounds of milk - that is over three times the total milk production of Canada.

Will farmers in Canada allow our sales of milk and dairy products to be eroded by cheap imitations as has happened with our neighbours to the south?

Has Agriculture Canada given any consideration to the efforts these Dairy Substitutes could have on the diets and health of Canadian families.

The NFU has made this a top priority issue. We are seeking the support of the entire dairy industry to assure a future for our dairy farmers, our dairy processors, and the economy of our province.

Stabilization Plan from the Feds

Bill Vankoughnet, MP for Hastings-Frontenac-Lennox and Addington, is pleased to confirm that the Federal Cabinet has approved, in principle, a new stabilization program for Canadian producers of beef, pork and lamb.

Legislation amending the existing Agricultural Stabilization Act is now being drafted to be presented to Parliament this spring.

Key features of the proposed program include: provinces and producers may join the program on a voluntary basis; the federal government, participating producers and provinces will contribute equal amounts of money to an actuarially-sound stabilization fund; separate plans will be offered for cow-calf producers, beef back-grounders, slaughter cattle, hogs, and sheep.

Payments will be made from the stabilization fund when market prices fall below the national support levels.

Crop Insurance

One way of reducing the risk in farming is to insure against crop loss. Crop insurance programs are available for most crops grown in the province. Insurance protects against such perils as hail, wind, frost, flood, drought, insect infestation and disease. In addition, some perils which are specific to crops may be covered in individual plans such as excessive moisture causing sprouting in wheat. The crop insurance program See News & Views page 5-A

Schizophrenics' friends

Peterborough Friends of Schizophrenics will hold May 8th as Schizophrenia Awareness Day in affiliation with Canadian Friends of Schizophrenics Awareness Week May 7th-12th, 1984.

The Peterborough Friends of Schizophrenics is working to educate the general public about this clinical illness that has been concealed by embarrassed families, ignored by a large segment of the medical profession and completely misunderstood by the vast majority, for whom it conjures up false images of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, and the Three Faces of Eve.

In fact, schizophrenia is now believed to be caused by a chemical imbalance in the brain and can usually be controlled by prescribed drugs. Schizophrenics are rarely a danger to themselves. The suicide rate is high. Sufferers rarely show signs of the disease until they have reached their teens and it is often mistaken for drug and alcohol abuse or teenage rebellion. While the illness can be controlled, at present there is no known cure.

Families with a schizophrenic member are now beginning to "come out of the closet", to talk freely of their sufferings, their difficulties in obtaining help, their struggles to cope. Schizophrenia - not the attacker, skulking unseen and unheard, waiting to pounce at random on sons, daughters, brothers, sisters. No one is immune: rich, poor, happy families, healthy children - are all vulnerable to this agonizing and misunderstood illness.

For further information you may call 745-6747 or attend meetings held on the second Monday of each month, 7 p.m., except July and August at St. Giles' Church, Park St. S., Peterborough, Ont.

Property Pointers

John Ward
Ontario Land Surveyor

The last property pointer dealt with the inherent 'brokerage cost' commensurate with a real estate sale. This aggregate charge can be up to 10 per cent of the property value. It is routinely disbursed as professional fees to realtors, surveyors, appraisers, bankers and lawyers. Recently in some large centres the home inspection service has been added.

In future articles the individual function of these consultants will be outlined. Today's column will consider selecting the players on your land management team. The significance of careful selection is often overlooked. Don't forget that while professionals are insured and licenced, recovery of losses due to poor advice can be costly and time consuming.

Selection on the basis of fees alone is a poor practice. Too often the old adage "free advice is worth what you pay for it," proves painfully true. However, requesting a written estimate of fees is a reasonable business practice. Most professionals are willing to outline their services and their fees. If one fee is considerably lower - find out why. Ask the low bidder and one of the competitors to comment. Most professional associations provide information pertaining to the selection of practitioners.

Information is also available from the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations (Land Registry Office).

Seek references from at least two services. Ideally from regular users of the service; 2. Acquire written estimates of fees. Insist that all contingencies resulting in an increase are listed. All 'extras' should be included in the estimate. The estimate should also include the date the project is due. Conditions for extension of the due date should be listed if relevant; 3. Take advantage of the professional's expertise. Share your concerns. Consider the practitioner's specialty. The best corporate lawyer may not be a real estate specialist.

When the players are chosen, select a team captain. Real estate transactions are fraught with potential for overlaps and gaps in services. The project manager co-ordinates the services. This serves everyone's interest. Some practitioners assume this responsibility as matter of course. Others argue that co-ordination is the client's problem.

Provide the manager with names; address and estimates of the professionals you have selected. Ask him or her to confirm the estimates and due dates on your behalf.

Finally, keep your fingers on the communication buttons. Call your project manager periodically. He or she is responsible but you are still in charge.

Continued from page 3-A available to farmers is heavily subsidized through the Federal and Provincial governments so that the actual costs to the farmer is reduced to approximately 50 per cent. The principle of the crop insurance program is to guarantee a certain level of production. If production is less than the guarantee there is a claim for the difference - the amount depending on the price option chosen. Coverage is based on a percentage of the average farm yield as determined over a period of time. For new producers the county average is used. In 1984 the price options for corn range from $1.75 to $5 bushel, with the farmer premium ranging from $4 to $7 per acre. For spring grains, the price options range from 3 to 5 cents per pound with premiums at $3.25 to $5.45/acre. For new forage seedings, the price option this year is set at $40 acre with premiums at $2.80/acre. The deadline for enrolment for most spring crops is May 1st. The agent for Northumberland is Gordon Jimm of #6, Cabourg telephone (416) 342-3282.

Nutrition -

get the facts

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit warns you to be wary of some claims of nutritional supplements.

Bee pollen is an example of a supplement where beneficial effects have been claimed by its users for some time. Most claims made by promoters have no basis and, on the whole, reveal a lack of the most basic nutrition principles. Bee pollen does not contain sufficient amounts of any nutrients. For example, it would take 250 bee pollen tablets to equal the protein in one egg. People with allergies should be cautioned against taking bee pollen. There have been cases of anaphylactic shock following ingestion of bee pollen.

Plant a rock garden for natural beauty

A rock garden can be a thing of natural beauty. It may be any size, limited only by the area available to you and your budget. But remember, there are some rules to follow, says Horticulturist Jim Lounsbury at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's Horticultural Research Institute of Ontario, Vineland.

A southeast exposure is preferred, giving protection to more delicate types of alpine plant materials. The garden should be placed in a sunny or partially shaded location.

Good drainage is a necessity. Irregular contouring of the garden is best with a backdrop of large shrubs or trees. Many types and forms of rock are available. You may do your own collecting or buy rock. Try to use rocks from your locality; they are easier to find and fit in more naturally.

Select various sizes of stone. Dig away the top soil, weeds and roots. The top soil can be used for backfill.

Draw a plan, locating the highest and lowest points around the pool area, paths, etc. Paths, built using flat stones, should be slightly lower than surrounding ground.

Arrange your stones to resemble natural rock formations, burying them at least half their depth with the broadest face in the earth for stability.

Fill in soil around the rocks to the desired level and pack tightly. Determine what types of plants you wish to grow, then prepare the soil that will be needed, he says.

Examples are plants such as Dianthus and saxifraga, which prefer a more alkaline soil; primula, trollius, anemone which like lots of organic matter; ericaceous plants and rhododendrons which prefer more acid conditions.

Do not plan a formal design for your rock garden because plants in nature never grow this way. Keep in mind the plants' growth habits, especially their size and shape. Plan the color of your garden for all seasons.

Remember, a rock garden is not maintenance-free. Weeding, insect and disease control, pruning and dividing must still be done.

Listed here are a few of the many hundreds of plants available for rockeries: Perennials: Dianthus alpinus; Phlox subulata; saxifraga; sedum; thymus; Veronica repens; geranium; primula; Evergreen and Broadleaf Evergreens: Juniper horizontalis; Juniper chinensis procumbens nana or Japanese dwarf garden juniper; cedar dwarf varieties; dwarf boxwood; rhododendrons, dwarf varieties.

Recycling: Its time has come

If the provincial Ministry of the Environment has its way, most Ontario families in the next year or so will be separating recyclable newspapers, bottles and cans from their garbage.

The reason for this is that the government is in the final throws of deciding to set up recycling by allowing high-scrap value containers such as aluminum cans onto the market.

This means the recovery of recycled scrap aluminum, glass, plastic and paper will have a tremendous impact on reducing household waste now clogging landfill sites.

In addition, 1,100 brand new jobs will be created in a born again recycling industry. The Environment ministry is excited about the prospects because in one fell swoop Ontario will reduce municipal dumping and generate new jobs without having to dip into the taxpayer's pocket. How will this work, and will householders co-operate?

"You're darn right it works," says Nyle Ludolph, manager of Total Recycling in Kitchener, Ont., who already collects separated recyclables from the city's 35,000 houses and who has just begun to collect from high-rise apartments.

"After just eight weeks we had four out of five households separating their garbage. People want to pitch in. Secretly they've always known we've been tossing valuable materials into the dump, but until now no one has convinced them they shouldn't."

Each Kitchener household is provided with a free rectangular plastic container, about the size of a laundry basket. The family then puts its newspapers, bottles and cans out for separate collection, on regular garbage day, by a special truck.

A group of companies including Alcan, Domglas, Consumers Glass and Twinpak are already doing special depot containers to a number of pilot recycling programs in Ontario including Kitchener. These are specially designed for high-rise applications.

A third component of this multi-material recycling will be the buy-back centre in which householders, rural ones in particular, will be able to sell their recyclables by taking it to a depot themselves. Obviously this has the biggest application in areas without regular garbage collection.

"Right now we need a government subsidy, but with these new materials on the market recyclers should be home free," says Mr. Ludolph.

Colin Isaacs, executive director of Pollution Probe, Canada's most prestigious environmental group, says:

"I hope Ontario doesn't miss any waste management opportunity. Obviously manufacturers want into the Ontario market; so the government can certainly make sure non-refillable cans and bottles are recycled, in return for allowing them onto the shelves."

Today virtually all of Ontario's three billion empty food, beer and pop cans sold each year end up in the dump. Prices for old newspapers, glass bottles and jars have not been high enough to encourage widespread recycling.

But with the advent of aluminum the economics for recycling changes completely. Allan Wakefield, vice president for business development of Alcan Canada Products Limited, says:

"Alcan's guarantee to buy back all aluminum cans in Ontario for three years at a minimum $900 a ton means suddenly the government has a way to implement subsidy-free recycling and generate new jobs simultaneously."

"Aluminum cans are the backbone for recyclers in the U.S. Over 56 per cent of aluminum cans there are already being recycled, and this is increasing yearly."

"Ontario consumers should have the right to choose recyclable aluminum cans and we hope the Ontario government will very soon give us the right to market our product."

"How can the present regulation granting a monopoly to steel be justified?" he asks.

MEMORIALS

ORRISON - In loving memory of our dad & grandfather, Charles, who passed away May 4, 1970. Sunshine passes, shadows fade, but your remembrance outlasts death. Though the years be long, or a few, they will be filled with memories of you. Lovingly remembered by the family. -11

ASON - In loving memory of our dear grandpa, Malcolm Mason, who passed away on May 6, 1983. The time we spent together, the happy times we knew, are lived again so often in our memories of you. Always in our hearts. Kim & Kevin Bradshaw. Derek & Julie Mason. -11

ARIE - In loving memory of a dear husband & father, Malcolm Arie, who passed away on May 21, 1983. I did not know that he was suffering from the hills were hard to climb. He closed his weary eyelids, and whispered, "Peace be mine." I was in the beautiful hills of the Valley of Rest so far away, and we know not where. We will meet our loved one there. Always remembered. Hilda, Lois & Ross, Lynn & Carol. -11

EMBURY - In loving memory of a dear husband, father, grandfather, Emerald, who passed away April 28, 1981. What we would give if we could say, Hello Dad in the same old way. Hear your voice, see your smile. Sit with you & chat awhile. Remembered by wife Lois & family. -11

BEHIND THE HEADLINES

Flora MacDonald, MP

Canada's social policy is linked to economics

(NC) - One of the most satisfying parts of my job is getting to know the people who make up this vast land of ours. Our cultural and regional diversity is one of our most enduring strengths.

Yet, even as we differ, we share the same concerns: the times we live in, unemployment, technological change, economic recovery, the threat of nuclear holocaust. We also share the same basic aspirations and ambitions.

Right to work We want to be able to provide and care for our families. We want the right and dignity of work, and to be adjudged in our work according to our performance and abilities - not by our sex, color, age, or any other discriminatory factor.

As Opposition critic for Social Development, it is my job to bring attention to those areas where we have failed to ensure that all Canadians can pursue these basic aspirations. It may be on behalf of the million women who will bear the brunt of technological change and job displacement. It may be for the 600,000 pensioners who live below the poverty level.

I am often questioned, however, about my responsibilities. "Flora," they ask, "what do you mean by social policy? We don't have a department of social policy, do we?"

Indeed, we do not, although some would argue that if there was, we would not have the tragedy of more than 500,000 young Canadians out of work.

Two sides of a coin I picture social policy as one side of a coin, the other being economic policy. The difference is that for economics, we do have a national policy and mechanism of evaluating and adjusting it - the budget. For social policy there is really no overall strategy or evaluation. The result generally is hit-and-miss.

It seems obvious that all of our economic policies have a social impact. An increase in taxes affects your ability to spend or to save. High interest rates lead to bankruptcies and to unemployment.

And unemployment can lead to many kinds of tragedy - from family stress, violence, and divorce to the erosion of savings and retirement plans.

However, by taking into consideration the social consequences and costs at the time we set our economic strategy, we can do much to avoid this sequence of events.

Showing the way The Pension Reform Task Force has helped show the way. We have proposed a system that will allow Canadians to retire in dignity. The measures and initiatives we have recommended - such as homemaker contributions to the Canada/Quebec Pension Plan - make both sound economic and good social sense.

The same holds true for high technology. If we do not plan for it adequately today, the age-old right of every Canadian to a paid job - if he or she is willing to work for it - will be lost. We can all imagine the consequences.

Economic policy, social policy - they are two sides of the same coin, both equally important to our present and to our future. And both to be protected if we want to keep Canada in 'mint' condition.

on Rambouillet triplets last year. The natural family was united for this picture.

Quadruplets born to local ewe

On April 3, a local ewe at the farm of Don McEwen, survived in that, four other lambs were born on the same day to make this the first quadruplet ever for the farm.

A lot of lambs were born on the farm, and there were also some quadruplets, said Don McEwen.

The mother lambs will be able to take care of her fourth little lamb at immediately after birth, and the other three lambs, reported without incident.

Review went to the farm for the next day, already been born. One was a triplet.

The best year for the farm -- the best year for the farm, said McEwen.

He said that during the day and night, the lambs are born exposed to the air for an length of time, he said that there was no incident on April 3 was the beautiful day, he said if it had later, there may be some casualties.

Why sheep farming is a family business because you have to be checking and night.

McEwen said.

The McEwens have two lamblings a year, one in February and one in spring. The 80 or so births in February are primarily for the Easter market. In the spring, there are about 400 lambs.

There are two main factors that McEwen thinks have caused the outstanding spring: one is that the dry summer last year kept the sheep free of parasites; and the other is an increase in feeding at time of breeding.

"The dry summer last year probably kept the sheep free of parasites and when it comes to breeding, they are more healthy. On a wet year, the ewes get run down with parasites," explained McEwen. "We also tried flushing this year -- raising their consumption of grain at breeding time which causes them to ovulate more eggs."

The McEwens utilize about 470 acres for barns and pasture land. They now have a total of about 500 sheep on the farm. They have been sheep farming for the past seven years.

Dennis Timbrell, minister of agriculture and food was keynote speaker last Thursday night at a PC fundraising dinner held in Tweed.

PC's wine and dine in Tweed

Minister of Agriculture and Food Dennis Timbrell said he will soon be announcing the details of development initiatives for red meat producers.

"We're going to provide an incentive for you as the producer to help yourself," said Timbrell, keynote speaker last Thursday night at Tweed Curling Club where 400 Hastings-Peterborough riding conservatives wine and dined to raise money for the party.

Timbrell said he directed his ministry to "Look long and hard" at the red meat sector and come up with plans to improve returns to producers. He said they will announce initiatives which will help the red meat producers to improve quality, efficiency, productivity and profitability.

He said the red meat initiatives were the next step for his ministry after it broadened the Ontario Farm Adjustment Assistance Program (OFAAP), and now calls for National Tripartite Stabilization. He said federal legislation is ready to introduce Tripartite Stabilization initiatives since negotiations between the province and federal government have ended.

"Bringing greater economic security to the business of farming has been one of my principal goals. OFAAP has helped, stabilization will help," Timbrell said.

Timbrell also said that the Beef Cattle Protection Plan is helping the industry, and soon a similar plan for grain corn will help as well.

Most of Timbrell's speech was spent praising the David Government, and outlining some of the progress the province has made since he was elected. Timbrell was sworn in as a member of the cabinet in 1974. At that time he became the youngest member in history to be Minister of Energy. Next he became the Minister of Health, then in 1982 became Minister of Agriculture and Food.

"Our party under Davis will meet the issues head on," he said.

Timbrell stressed that over the past 41 years, the Davis government has had good 'Shop management', and has spent money where it was needed. He said emphasis started with hydro, went to roads, then health care, then education and finally economics.

"We've been on a steady progressive restraint program since 1975, and now we are the lowest spending provincial government in Canada, and have the lowest debt in the Canadian Government," said Timbrell. "It would now take about six months to pay out provincial debt."

NO ELECTION

Timbrell said that there will be no election this spring. He said, however, that if there was an election, MPP Jim Pollock would be ready. He said Pollock has worked hard.

BLUE BIRD

During the fund raising dinner held at Tweed Curling Club last Thursday, the Toronto Blue Jays' mascot, 'The Blue Bird' made a surprise appearance. The bird ran to the head table where he cart wheeled and danced. He also gave special hugs to Minister of Agriculture Dennis Timbrell and MPP Jim Pollock.

Last Friday night the public was entertained by grade five students at Madoc Public School, who put on a bicentennial musical called "Canada Goose". Both boys [above] and girls [below] performed equally well in front of the large crowd. [Photos by James Friel].

Law Reform Commission says, 'videotape confessions'

The Law Reform Commission of Canada has recommended the harnessing of videotape technology to record statements and confessions made to the public by suspects.

This is just one of the recommendations contained in a Working Paper entitled Questioning Suspects released recently detailing the tentative views of the Commission.

The videotape process would serve as an alternative to the current procedure used throughout Canada in which the suspect's comments are written by the police officer in a notebook or are typed by the officer on a standardized form.

The Working Paper argues that use of audio and video technology would provide a substantial improvement over current procedures.

Trials would be shortened as the more reliable record provided by the camera's eye replaces the often, laborious, approximative and time-consuming procedure of reconstructing an interrogation by oral evidence in court, often many months after the event.

Police officers would be protected from unwarranted allegations of misconduct.

Suspects would benefit because the recording procedure would provide an accurate record of what was actually said and the circumstances in which the statement was made.

Judges would be in a far better position to evaluate the admissibility of a statement if it is on tape.

Jurors would be better able to evaluate the 'weight' to be attached to a statement or confession. They would have the extra benefit of observing the suspect's expressions and mannerisms as the statement is given.

Justice Allen Linden, President of the Law Reform Commission, stated that modern technology should be used more frequently to improve the quality of the criminal justice system and added that the Commission is actively considering means of bringing this process to Canada in the near future.

Videotaping of confessions is now routinely carried out in the Bronx and other boroughs of New York. The procedure has spread to many areas of the United States, where video taping technology is used for a variety of purposes such as filming of crime scenes, identification line-ups, surveillances and sobriety tests. Special adviser to the Commission, Harold J. Levy, has visited the Bronx and Manhattan to study the manner in which videotape technology is being used in the criminal justice system in the jurisdictions.

"I am confident," said Mr. Justice Linden, "that these uses of videotape technology will be commonplace in Canada within ten years. The work of the Law Reform Commission, with the cooperation of the courts, the police, prosecutors and the criminal defence bar, can greatly accelerate this process to the overall benefit of our criminal justice system and all parties concerned. Properly employed it can lead to more accurate, more expeditious, and higher quality justice."

In a departure from the existing law relating to the admissibility of confessions, the Working Paper recommends that Parliament enact detailed rules and procedures governing the taking of statements from suspects by the police rather than administrative guidelines which do not have the force of law. Under the Commission's tentative proposals judges would be required to ensure that the legislature rules for taking statements have been complied with.

If these rules have not been followed the judge would be required to reject the confession from the evidence - unless it is established that the contravention is merely a defect of form or a trifling irregularity of procedure.

As noted by Patrick Healy, principal consultant to the Commission on the Working Paper, judges are currently required to determine only whether the statement has been given voluntarily, in the sense that it has not been given under fear of prejudice or hope of advantage offered by a person in authority.

Mr. Healy stated that the enactment of legislative rules and procedures will have a number of benefits: Accountability will be introduced into the process of taking statements.

The public will have the assurance that the investigation and prosecution of crime are being conducted according to the fixed public standards.

Crown prosecutors will have greater success in introducing statements into evidence.

Another noteworthy aspect of the Working Paper is its recommendation that the prosecutor continue to be required to prove the voluntariness of a statement beyond a reasonable doubt as in the law now.

This conflicts with a provision in Bill S-53 which was before Parliament in the last session, providing that prosecutors meet a less onerous burden of proof for the admission of statements - proof on the balance of See Commissioner Page 6.

Lakefield girls compete at 'world's largest'

The Lakefield Junior Ramparts divided their two games at the world's largest girls' hockey tournament held at Brampton and Mississauga on Easter weekend.

The tournament demonstrates the continuing development of girls' hockey in the urban centers as the older age groups (senior and intermediate) are dominated by smaller centers, but the younger groups (Bantam, PeeWee and Atom) are dominated by larger cities. One can see that some day it will be possible to divide teams by population as in boys' hockey. However, that day has not arrived yet.

In the first game, Lakefield Junior Ramparts drew the Mississauga Chiefs and scored what Jack Rutherford, manager for Peterborough's Bantams described as "the upset of the tournament". The Ramparts' fierce checking and crisp passing confused a team that was deep in talent but overconfident.

In the first period, the corner work by Robyn Dewdney, in the Rampart end, spilled the puck to Andrea Melaney who rifled it to Rampart Captain Christine Collins. Her instant pass put Christina Melaney in the clear. The Mississauga goalie made a great save and the puck slid to the side as Christina's momentum carried her to the puck again.

Christina passed it to Chris Collins whose shot flattened the goaltender. As the puck trickled through the crease the ever alert Lynn Ann Adamson tipped it home. From the moment that play started, no Mississauga player except the goalie touched the puck and every Rampart skater was in on the play and deserved an assist.

Once Mississauga started to take the Ramparts seriously, they began to carry the game. However, goalie Stacy Dewdney was again heroic at the bridge. Any rebound from her sensational sprawling saves were instantly cleared by the Rampart defence of Robyn Dewdney, Heidi Whetung, Tassie Wirtenen, and Andrea Melaney. Finally Mississauga tied it on a deflection. On and on went the furious action, as the gritty forechecking of Marcie McCauley, Wendy Whetung and Nancy Hunter started to bottle up the Chiefs.

Tough corner work by Maria Bullock sprang Kelli Chittick loose on a great chance near the end of regulation time.

Then came 5 minutes of scoreless overtime in which Kelli Chittick began to place her stamp of dominance of center ice on yet another game. No goals were scored but it was apparent that Mississauga was tight with the fear of upset.

Shootout time produced three straight saves by Stacy Dewdney, the star of the game. Rampart Chris Melaney scored the winner with a blistering shot into the upper right corner.

In the next game the Lakefield Junior Ramparts faced the Provincial "A" champions from Scarborough. This team has lost only one game by one goal all year. That loss was to the magnificent Peterborough All-star team coached by Doug Cumming.

Peterborough ranks eighth number second or third in the "A" ranks. Scarborough is a Bantam team of 15 and 14 year olds selected from several hundred girls.

The Ramparts, in contrast are essentially a PeeWee team (12 and under) with only four Bantams and one Atom (nine and ten). March McCauley, who is better than any Atom we saw at the tournament.

As the girls skated on the ice the spectators were treated to a special village moment. The senior Ramparts, the idols of the Juniors began a responsive song of encouragement to their little sisters. As the Junior Ramparts skated around they sang the response back to the Seniors. One Scarborough parent was heard to remark "It must be great to live in a village." A touching moment indeed.

As the game began, it was apparent that the Ramparts were playing a whole team of girls of the outstanding calibre of our See Ramparts page 6.

Confessional evidence has 'great impact' on juries, says Commissioner

Commissioner Joseph Maingot, responsible for the Commission's research program in the field of Criminal Procedure, explains that the higher standard of proof beyond a reasonable doubt is necessary because confessional evidence has great impact on juries, and often raises the strength of the Crown's case to proof beyond a reasonable doubt.

As stated in the Working Paper: "The Commission believes that diminishing the burden of proof would effectively strip the courts of their ability to preserve the integrity of the judicial process insofar as judges would be obliged to put less reliable but very damaging evidence before the trier of fact. Hence we urge that the Crown's burden to prove voluntariness should remain at proof beyond a reasonable doubt."

Mr. Maingot also pointed out that a provision of the Working Paper requiring a police officer to advise a suspect of a right to remain silent before any questioning takes place, where there are reasonable and probable grounds to believe that the person is implicated in the commission of a criminal offence, confers a statutory duty not specifically covered by the Charter.

"This is necessary," said Mr. Maingot, "because it is only fair that a suspect be told of a right which has been recognized by law for centuries."

Another noteworthy provision of the Working Paper according to Mr. Maingot, will invalidate certain statements of confessions which have been obtained by trickery.

A police officer posing as an inmate, and that the statement need not be proven voluntary as the officer was not believed to be a 'person in authority'.

The Working Paper proposes legislation that would require the statement to be proven voluntary whether or not the suspect was aware that he was dealing with a police officer.

"Legislation is necessary" according to Mr. Maingot "because such deceptive practices are exploitive, especially where persons have been charged with an offence or have invoked the right to remain silent. Surely a person in custody must be treated fairly and openly by the police. The use of such trickery doesn't belong in our criminal justice system, for it compels an accused person to incriminate himself."

The Working Paper presents the views of the Law

Reform Commission at this time.

The Commission's final views will be presented later in its Report to the Minister of Justice and Parliament when the Commission has taken into account comments received in the meantime from the public.

This Working Paper is part of the Criminal Procedure project currently being conducted under the direction of Criminal Procedure

Co-ordinator Dr. Winston McCalla.

The Law Reform Commission of Canada was established in 1971 for the purposes of modernizing Canada's federal laws and making them more meaningful, relevant and effective.

Copies of the Working Paper are available by mail free of charge from: Law Reform Commission, 150 Albert Street, 7th Floor, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0L6.

Junior Ramparts split two at tourney

own Kelli Chittick and Christina Melaney.

The Ramparts knew they must score first, and while goalie Stacey Dewdney kicked out shots, Kelli, Christina and Chris Collins all nearly scored on the surprised and jittery Scarborough goaltender.

However, it was just a matter of time before Scarborough's talent found ways to score. The Ramparts held until two minutes remained in the first period. "That's the longest we've been held off the scoreboard this year," remarked another parent from Scarborough.

From that moment Scarborough kept pressing and scoring in a great display of talent until the game ended 10-0. And yet through all of this the Ramparts refused to fold right up to the end. When it was over they sounded like winners. On an earlier occasion they had seen this magnificent Scarborough team flatten a team by 17 goals, one which supposedly better than the Ramparts.

A Belleville parent who had seen the Ramparts' flat performance a week ago could hardly believe this was the same team. "They've proved they belong," he said. And the Junior Ramparts now know it.

Overcharged tenants get rebates

Tenants who were overcharged on rent last year negotiated or were awarded more than $800,000 in rebates through the Residential Tenancy Commission, Consumer and Commercial Relations Minister Dr. Elgie announced April 26.

Between April 1 and December 31, 1983, the Commission determined rebates for 1,426 tenants involving $819,108. The average rebate was $574.

In the previous 12-month period ending March 31, 1983, the Commission determined rebates in 1,140 cases involving $513,000. The average rebate was $450.

Dr. Elgie attributed the hike to an increased awareness by tenants of the limits on rent increases imposed by Ontario's Residential Tenancies Act.

Under the Act, rents in most privately-owned rental accommodation cannot be increased more than once a year, regardless of amount. Rent increases cannot exceed six percent unless the landlord receives approval from the Residential Tenancy Commission.

"If there is evidence suggesting an overcharge, a tenant can apply to the Commission to have it determine the lawful rent, and to have the landlord ordered to rebate the overcharge," Dr. Elgie said. The application can be made by the current or former tenant, he noted, whether or not they knew of or had agreed to the overcharge.

"Applying for a rent rebate is not a difficult or costly step," added Dr. Elgie. "There isn't any application fee, and the form to be filed with the Commission is very easy to complete. In most cases, it can be completed on the spot in the local Commission office."

Tenants often inquire whether they need a lawyer, accountant or other professional to represent them if they are seeking a rebate. The law doesn't require a tenant to have a professional representative, and the Commission says that in most cases, tenants are able to represent themselves.

However, in some cases, a tenant may find it advisable to have professional representation if their case is more complicated than most.

About 75 percent of all rebate cases are settled with the Commission acting as a mediator between the tenant and the landlord. If mediation is unsuccessful, the application is forwarded to a Commissioner, who holds a hearing where the tenant presents evidence to support the claim. The Commissioner then issues a written order specifying the lawful rent and the amount of rebate owed.

It is an offence under the Residential Tenancies Act to knowingly disobey an order of the Commission, and prosecution can result. Upon conviction, a court can levy a fine up to $2,000 in the case of an individual or up to $25,000 in the case of a corporation.

Tenants can learn about their rights under the rent review legislation by obtaining a brochure published by the Commission titled RENT REVIEW: HERE ARE THE FACTS, available at local Commission offices throughout Ontario.

Police Week set for May 14-18

During Police Week, May 14 to 18, every Ontario Provincial Police officer will be holding an annual open house to show the public how the provincial force operates.

OPP Commissioner Archie Ferguson is inviting members of the general public to see first-hand the efforts being made by police officers to protect the community.

Police forces across Canada are using the slogan: "Police and Community Working Together." It represents the continuing focus of police forces on a form of protection which encourages you to take steps to protect your own property and for one neighbor to look after the interests of another.

"Our slogan illustrates the need for the public to take an active role in the protection of their community," said Commissioner Ferguson. "Police Week affords us the opportunity to show that by working together we will have safer communities in which to live. Drop in to see your local police office and meet the officers who patrol your neighborhood."

This year, the OPP

celebrates its 75th anniversary. The history of the OPP will be the theme of displays in shopping malls in some of Ontario's larger centres.

Two OPP units with full itineraries for Police Week are the OPP Pipes and Drums Band and the Golden Helmets Motorcycle Precision Team. They will be appearing throughout the Province during this time.

Trenton conservation allows for public access

In Trenton, the Greenbelt conservation areas allow for public access to the water along the west bank of the Trent River. There is a boat launching area, parking and picnicking facilities. There are also finger docks for those who do not have boats but would like to fish. The LTRCA office is located on the Greenbelt in Trenton at 441 Front Street.

Further upstream on the east bank of the Trent is the Glen Miller Conservation Area. This area also has a boat launch, picnic facilities and washrooms.

Sager Conservation Area is just east of Highway 55 between Frankford and Stirling. The area is located at the edge of the watershed on the watershed divide, in the Oak Hills. From the lookout tower at the top of the drumlin, one may see as far as Marmora, Picton and Napanee on a clear day. The only publicly owned viewpoint in the Oak Hills, the area also has picnic facilities and washrooms. A portion of the Quinte-Hastings recreational trail crosses the site. The trail extends from the Bay of Quinte to the northern part of Hastings County.

King's Mill Conservation Area is on Squire Creek in Rawdon Township. It may be found by following signs from either Hastings County Road 8, east of Stirling, or Highway 14, north of Stirling. The old mill, built in the 1840s, is presently used as the LTRCA's workshop. Just across the creek from the mill is a picturesque picnic area and washrooms.

Two other Conservation Areas Horstop and Haldimand, provide public access to the Lake Ontario shore in Haldimand Township. Horstop is just west of Grafton and Haldimand is between Colborne and Grafton.

Information on these and other areas may be found in brochures available at the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority, 441 Front Street, Trenton, and at various tourist information booths throughout the area. All conservation areas are open from sunrise to sunset on a year round basis. There is no overnight camping permitted at any conservation area.

The LTRCA hopes that you enjoy your visit to one of the local conservation areas but asks, "Please take nothing but photographs; leave nothing but footprints." And, when you are there, remember...there's more to conservation areas than meets the eye!

How to dig a flower bed

To prepare your flower bed this spring, spade the earth to a depth of 14 centimetres to 20 centimetres (six inches to eight inches). Loosen heavy clay or clay loam soils by adding peat moss or compost. Fertilize with a garden fertilizer at the recommended rate. Turn the soil over again and rake smooth. Then visit your local nursery and purchase healthy plants for a beautiful display this summer, says Tony Hoger, horticultural coordinator with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's rural organizations and services branch.

Realities of Huntington's disease

Huntington's disease is inherited and everyone with the disease carries the defective gene. A gene is a unit of inheritance and all our genes are obtained from our parents. In an inherited disease, like this one, a normal gene has been altered in some way so that it causes a disturbance in the chemistry of part of the body, which in time produces the symptoms of the disease.

It is a disease of the nervous system, and two main parts are affected: some of the nerve centres concerned with the control of bodily movements are involved, so that one of the main symptoms is a disturbance of movement and, in addition, some of the centres responsible for mental functions are affected and patients can sometimes behave irrationally or have serious emotional difficulties.

The disease is named after Dr. George Huntington, an American family doctor who in 1872, first drew the attention of the medical world to his disorder. The medical term for the disease is Huntington's chorea. The term 'chorea', a Greek word for dance, describes the involuntary movements that are typical of the victims of Huntington's disease.

Huntington's disease affects males and females equally and can only be inherited by the sons or daughters of affected mothers or fathers. In most patients, the first symptoms appear between the ages of 30 and 45, the prime years of life, usually after the gene has already been passed on to a new generation. There is a wide variation in the age of onset and occasionally the first symptoms may occur in childhood or even in old age. Each child of an affected parent has a 50-50 chance of inheriting the disease and is known to be 'at risk'. Nearly 15,000 young people in this country know the horror of watching a parent or relative become a patient with Huntington's disease and must live with the fear and uncertainty that they too may inherit the disease.

The initial symptoms of the condition can be very subtle. They may consist of a mild fidgetiness or perhaps a little unsteadiness when walking. In other patients, the earliest signs may be a difficulty with memory or an alteration in mood. Because these early signs can be difficult to detect, a firm diagnosis cannot always be made until the disease has progressed for some time. However, this may all change with the development of a predictive test and it may soon be possible to detect the disease by means of a blood test using recombinant

DNA techniques.

As the disease progresses, the fidgety movements in the limbs become more pronounced and eventually if they are not suppressed by drugs, they can become quite marked. Simple acts like writing or walking may be disturbed and everyday actions can become difficult and frustrating. Speech may become slurred or indistinct. See Symptoms page 15.

Stamp to honor Red Cross

The Canadian Red Cross Society's humanitarian work at home and abroad, since it was founded 75 years ago, will be commemorated on a stamp to be unveiled at the Society's annual conference in Regina May 28.

The Honorable Andre Ouellet, Minister responsible for Canada Post Corporation, noted that in addition to operating a network of blood donor clinics, "the Red Cross touches the lives of all Canadians through a variety of health and safety courses and other humanitarian services."

The Red Cross Society's history goes back to Italy in 1859 when, following the Battle of Solferino, fought between the armies of France and Italy against the Austrian army, 40,000 soldiers lay dead or wounded, uncared for and abandoned.

Henri Dunant, a young Swiss and a witness to this inhumanity, organized a rescue and aid service for the wounded. His determination to assure more humane care for the wounded in all wars led to the founding of the Red Cross four years later in Geneva.

The Red Cross flag first flew in Canada during the Northwest Rebellion of 1885. Surgeon Major (later Major-General) George Sterling Ryerson, of the Canadian Army Medical Services, felt that a horse-drawn wagon used as an ambulance on the battlefield needed some mark to distinguish it from the other wagons. The makeshift emblem he put together consisted of two strips of red cotton stitched in the form of a cross on a white background.

Dr. Ryerson became the founder of the Canadian Red Cross Society which was established as a corporate body by an Act of the federal parliament in 1909.

The stamp, designed by Toronto artist William Tibbles from a photograph by Clive Webster, also of Toronto, features the Red Cross Service Award, a medal awarded by the Society for long-standing and meritorious voluntary service.

Wagon wheels, gas lights, rubber tires or weight scales, you name it, it was there, at the Stirling Auto

Flea Market held this past weekend. Thousands of people, both curious and serious bargain hunters,

Madoc O.P.P. Report

Officers of the Madoc Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated 64 general occurrences and six motor vehicle accidents during the week of April 22-28. Five people were charged with impaired driving and seven had their licence suspended for 12 hours. Five charges were laid under LLA.

As a result of an investigation by Constable D.C. Bush and Constable R.V. Bonter on April 23, 1984, Fabian Eric Cooney, 78 Madoc St., Marmora, Ontario, has been charged with five counts of Break and Enter which occurred in the village of Marmora during the month of April 1984.

On Tuesday, April 24, 1984, Edward Beattie reported an overnight Break and Enter to his business, the Country Kitchen Restaurant on Highway 37, where a quantity of cash and merchandise was stolen.

On April 25, 1984, John Evans, 65 Dingman St., Madoc, reported the theft of approximately 20 tapes and a tape caddy from his motor vehicle, valued at $280.

On April 25, 1984, William Jones, RR 1, Marmora, Ontario, reported the theft of a 14 foot Sportspal canoe from his cottage on Crowe Lake.

On April 25, 1984, a 1979 Pontiac Sunbird was found submerged in a quarry north of the Harold Cheese Factory. This vehicle was owned by Rodney White of Mississauga, and had been reported stolen to Peel Regional Police on April 24, 1984.

On April 26, 1984, the residence of Penny Tomlinson, 100 Rollins St., Madoc, was forcibly entered and ransacked. No theft was reported.

On April 27, 1984, a break-in was reported at the canteen at the Madoc ball park. A considerable amount of damage was done to the interior with cupboards being emptied, a urinal broken and 15 bags of talc ripped open and strewn about. The break-in occurred some time since last October, when the canteen was last used.

On Sunday, April 22, 1984, at 1:30 a.m., a two vehicle accident on the 10th Concession of Hungerford Township resulted in minor injuries to four people and total property damage of $4,000. A 1981 Pontiac, driven by Steven Shirley, age 21, CFB Petawawa, was southbound on the concession road and collided head-on at the crest of a hill with a 1976 Pontiac being driven northbound by Michael Courneyea, age 20, of RR 1, Tweed, Ontario. # Symptoms of Huntington's disease and for some patients chewing and swallowing can be difficult. The combination of mental and physical symptoms makes it difficult for patients to perform their work efficiently. The speech difficulties may cause trouble in communicating with others so that the patient may appear to be more confused than is in fact the case. The involuntary, jerky movements make everyday tasks difficult and the patient often feels embarrassed because his actions make him conspicuous, and unkind or thoughtless remarks made by neighbours or co-workers only serve to aggravate this embarrassment. These frustrations and self-consciousness may quite understandably lead to depression.

Eventually, men and women affected may grow irritable or hostile; their personalities change. Some become manic, some apathetic, some suicidally depressed. Powers of reason, memory, and judgment fade, often leading to dementia. Physical symptoms accompany the mental changes. They lose control over normal body functions. Their restless movements become exaggerated and incessant. They twist, writhe and lurch; they make flailing movements of head, trunk or limbs, even on the verge of falling. However, variations can occur in the symptoms and progress of the disease; not even members of the same family are always affected in the same way.

Most patients have to go into hospital, usually because it is increasingly difficult to nurse them at home and because of the problems that may arise from the behavioural or emotional difficulties. Because of the lack of availability of suitable accommodation for patients with this type of disease, it is usual for them to be accommodated in geriatric hospitals, although in most cases, this is not the ideal place. The progressive deterioration of the patient leads to total incapacitation and eventual death, usually between 10 and 20 years after the onset of earliest symptoms.

There is no cure or as yet successful treatment of Huntington's disease, but drugs are now available which are useful in reducing the severity of abnormal movements and other drugs are helpful in controlling the moodiness, anxiety, irritability and depression that can occur. A great deal of research is in progress in centres throughout the world to discover more about the disease, and in this country research has been funded by the Huntington Society of Canada at several medical centres including the Universities of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Toronto, McMaster, Western Ontario, Queens and Sherbrooke, as well as the Clarke Institute of Psychiatry and the Clinical Research Institute in Montreal.

Interest in the disease is increasing and it is felt that the solution to Huntington's disease will open the door to solving many other genetic, neurologic, and psychiatric disorders. Many families (and professional people) unfortunately do not know of the important recent advances in HD research.

A public ceremony recently launched construction of a $1.9 million addition to the Veterinary Services Laboratory building in Brighton.

Platform and ground-breaking activities featured provincial dignitaries and local officials. A back hoe was used to scoop up earth, symbolically starting development on the site.

"This project is funded by the Board of Industrial Leadership and Development (BILD) program," said Government Services Minister George Ashe. "BILD dollars have ensured the immediate start of the addition. The new building will provide much needed facilities to help answer an increasing demand for professional services. Its construction will also create as many as 70 local job opportunities."

Dennis Timbrell, Minister of Agriculture and Food said, "The new laboratory addition is a very important project for my Ministry. In particular, it will contribute to the improved delivery of pathology services to veterinarians, livestock farmers, producers and animal owners in eastern Ontario and, as necessary, to other areas of the province."

The Ministry of Government Services recently awarded a $1,644,000 construction contract to Ball Brothers Limited of Kingston, about 60 kilometres east of Brighton. The firm submitted the lowest of six bids following a tender call, the highest being $1,799,000.

The new, single-story addition will contain four laboratories, refrigeration and post-mortem rooms, animal receiving and holding areas, and related facilities. Gross area of the building will be approximately 685 square metres (7,350 square feet). Completion of its construction is expected by the spring of 1985.

In addition to Mr. Ashe and Ron McNeil, Parliamentary Assistant to Mr. Timbrell, members of the platform party included: Howard Sheppard, MPP, Northumberland riding; William K. Ferguson, Warden of Northumberland County; His Worship William M. Pettingill, Mayor of Brighton, and Reverend Donald Strutt of Evangel Temple, President of the CoBright Ministerial Association, as well as senior officials from the Ministry of Agriculture and Food. Glenn Thompson, Deputy Minister, Ministry of Government Services acted as chairman of the ceremony.

Planning for Ontario's bicentennial celebrations has been underway for some time. As part of the celebrations, the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources is offering to the public specialty grown, landscape-quality bicentennial white pine trees. These are available to schools, youth groups, conservation authorities, and service clubs that are sponsoring celebrations with their member of the Provincial Parliament or a Ministry of Natural Resources official. Seedling trees are also being made available to plant larger areas as part of outdoor education projects. Trees are available at no charge on a "first-come, first-served" basis. Organizers of bicentennial events are urged to place orders now with the nearest office of the Ministry of Natural Resources. Ministry phone numbers are listed in the blue pages of the telephone directory.

Organizers are also reminded that National Forest Week will be celebrated May 6-12, 1984. This year's theme is "Tomorrow's Forests...Today's Challenge."

St. John's Brigade marks 75th

The St. John Ambulance Brigade is marking its 75th anniversary in Canada. It was formed in London, Ontario in 1909. Through all those years, the Brigade has had the support of the medical and nursing professions as advisors, teachers and examiners.

The Brigade is now looking for RNs who are willing to provide a few hours of volunteer time to become Nursing Officers.

Members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade must train steadily in first aid, cardio pulmonary resuscitation, family nursing and child care. Nursing Officers help to oversee the training, and provide nursing advice.

Brigade units are small and friendly, and they do a real service in augmenting a community's emergency capabilities. Last year the 4,172 volunteers in the Brigade in Ontario did nearly 600,000 public duty hours, and provided first aid treatment to 80,000 people at a wide variety of public events. They are also part of the emergency response program in many communities.

If the Shoe Fits
 by Ralph Heron
 Manager

Do we exaggerate the problem of fitting shoes?

Sometimes I think I may be too enthusiastic about the subject, but I have a defense against such thinking. Newspapers frequently carry stories of cab drivers who pinch-hit creditably for doctors at the birth of a baby. "Mother and child are doing fine." Do we exaggerate the role of the doctor in maternity cases?

There probably are many instances when the doctor has little to do during a delivery, but can you visualize the chaos if doctors turned all maternity cases over to cab drivers or lawyers or teachers or students.

Selling shoes has always been a job to which anyone can turn when pleasant jobs are not to be had, but selling shoes and being a shoe-fitter are as different as clerking in a drug store and being a pharmacist.

Mother's Day: A North American Tradition Since 1914 So Present Mom with the Number 1 Favourite - Flowers

Colander In Bloom.

Give Mom the new Colander Bouquet. Colorful flowers inside an 8-inch, white enameled metal colander. She'll love it on Mother's Day... and use it long after. Just tell us. We'll send it anywhere in the country, to make her day.

Send the Colander Bouquet for Mother's Day Sunday, May 13.

Teleflora

Mother's Day is a holiday which has been observed since 1914, when it was proclaimed as a "public expression of our love and reverence for the mothers of our country."

The idea of honouring mothers was not new. It existed in England as Mothering Sunday. It was especially popular with British servants and apprentices, who looked forward to the day when they were permitted to "go a-mothering" to visit their homes and mothers. Many walked long distances to be home for the holiday which was a family reunion. Thus England was observing Mother's Day long before we were.

On Sunday, May 13, Canadian mothers will again be the centre of attention. Sheila & Linda Frost, owners of The Sheiling Flowers & Gifts, have a Mother's Day gift that will please any mom. Flowers are, after all, the number one gift purchased for Mother's Day.

Teleflora's Mother's Day special features fresh flowers that come in a white vitreous enamel colander decorated with an original colourful strawberry design.

"It is an attractive gift of gourmet kitchenware, which, after the arrangement is gone, is ideal for rinsing fruits and vegetables, or draining pastas," says Sheila.

The Sheiling Flowers & Gifts is taking orders early for this busy holiday.

To place an order by phone, call 613-473-4555 or stop by the shop at 101 Durham St. (Sears Location).

They can have a Teleflora Colander Bouquet conveniently ready for you to pick up, or they can deliver your floral order around the corner or across the country.

The Sheiling is open 6 days, 9 a.m. till 5:30 p.m. It has been serving the Madoc & District area for 3 years.

AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the County of Hastings:

We have examined the balance sheet of the trust funds of the Corporation of the County of Hastings as at December 31, 1983 and the statement of continuity of trust funds for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances, except as described in the following paragraph.

The trust funds of the Corporation of the County of Hastings derive receipts from residents, which are not susceptible to complete audit verification. Accordingly, our verification of such receipts was limited to accounting for the amounts recorded in the records of the trust funds.

In our opinion, except for the effect of adjustments which might have been required had receipts from residents been susceptible to complete audit verification, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the trust fund for the Corporation of the County of Hastings as at December 31, 1983 and the continuity of trust funds for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles prescribed for Ontario Municipalities applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Huntingdon mill rate remains at same level as last year

gndon Township recently announced y will not be rising kes this year. Last township tax rate by 4.6 per cent. re quite proud of hat there will be no e at all," said

Councillor Ken Yarrow. "Our services will not suffer at all. A lot is due to the fact that the clerk (Bonnie Jones) and deputy clerk (Linda Danford) have increased their workload and have been able to take advantage of grants."

Although the township mill rate is not going up this year, the overall county rates will increase by about 5.9 per cent.

At a budget meeting held April 30, council reported a $17,303 surplus from 1983. Clerk Jones reported that they put that money into an account for future capital expenditures.

The road department applied for a supplementary subsidy to purchase a new loader at an approximate cost of $80,000. Jones said the Ministry of Transportation and Communications should pay 100 per cent of the cost for the new loader unless they change their format.

It cost a total of $242,100 to maintain 110 miles of roads in Huntingdon Township last year. The council has allocated $258,300 for the regular road subsidy this year. Jones said the total does not include $80,000 for the loader.

"We're proud that we can maintain the same level of services as last year without increasing taxes at the township level," said Yarrow.

Leadership candidate John Turner answers questions following his luncheon speech at Trenton Ramada Inn last Thursday.

Turner visits Trenton

Thursday afternoon leadership candidate John Turner received standing ovations from approximately 200 Liberals at Trenton Ramada Inn. He received applause when he said it's time to get Liberal back in power from Ottawa.

Turner's speech to party members and delegates confronted the topics of accountability, tax reform and the revitalization of the party confidence on a national level.

He said he wanted the party to be stable. When elected, he would report to the party and the people," stated Turner.

"The affairs of our party should be run by our party."

Turner said that as prime minister he would "simplify" the tax system to "focus reward to the entrepreneur." He said the small business man created 70 to 80 percent of our jobs, and for that reason should have a reduced tax burden. He said the main purpose is to ease the early tax burden for businesses starting up.

In the same vein, he said that he is "committed to family farming", because it is the most "stable" form of agriculture in Canada. He said when he was finance minister he removed the capital gains tax on farms being inherited by offspring to preserve family farms.

"The strongest bastion of the family is a farm family. I'm going to see that it's preserved," said Turner.

He said that the greatest risk takers in Canada are farmers. Farmers' marketing is often weakened by the amount of imports coming into the country. He said he wanted to see agricultural imports into Canada cut in half, while at the same time finding new markets abroad for Canadian products.

Youth Unemployment

John Turner said major industry demands new skills from the work force, and for that reason the work force must be retrained.

"With 700,000 people between 18 and 24 out of work, we've had a mismatch in Canada between the style of education and needs for jobs," Turner said. "We must take a look at education."

He said the most difficult jump for young people is to get from school to their first job.

Why? "Why do I want to lead the party?... I want you to join my crusade because I think we can restore the confidence of the country," said Turner. "I would lead a government of less confrontation and more conversation, and a government of reform and equal opportunity."

Box of Cheese

After Turner's speech, Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington Liberal riding president Irene Backholm of Amherstview presented him with a box full of locally produced cheese.

Junior C Lottery continues

For the 1984-85 season, the MTM Junior C Hurricane lottery draws will be held on the third Thursday of every month at Pigden's television studio, starting at 9 p.m. The first draw of 12 this season will be held on Thursday, May 17.

The draws will all be televised on community cable channel 4. Winners will be announced in the Madoc and Marmora newspapers and will also be posted at IGA stores in Madoc, Marmora and Tweed.

The hockey club recently announced that the usual 400 tickets at $60 were sold out. They thanked locals for their participation.

The same rules will apply this year. Those winning the monthly $1,000 jackpot will immediately get their tickets put back in the drum for another chance. A total of $12,000 will be given away. For those involved—good luck.

Heart Foundation gets good response

Madoc Village and surrounding communities responded well to the canvass for the Ontario Heart Foundation during February and March. The amount donated was $2,342.75.

The "Heart Foundation" and "Canvassers" would like to say a "Hearty" thank you to all who donated.

Office closed Victoria Day

All offices of Cembal Publications (1981) Ltd. will be closed on Victoria Day, Monday, May 21. The papers will come out a day late that week, as production will take place on Tuesday, May 22 in Marmora. The display advertising deadline for that week will be 11 a.m. on Tuesday, May 22.

Bicentennial events draw near

Madoc Bicentennial committee is setting the date in motion and planning dates for events that they have received.

of the parade, originally set to run July 1. She said that there has been difficulty booking people to participate because Trenton is having a parade on the same day. She said they still need someone to co-ordinate the event also.

Although the committee has received the $5,000 funding from Wintario, the $5,000 from Madoc Village Council has not been put into the account. Councillor Jim Watson said council needed "something in writing" before they could come across with the lump sum of $5,000. See Bicentennial page 12.

Irene Backholm, federal liberal party leader for Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington presented him with a box full of locally produced cheese.

was very interesting.

Mrs. Allan Ramsay, resolutions convener, was in charge of the program. She gave a reading on the duties of a WI member and how our meetings could be improved. Current events were given by several members.

Mrs. Ramsay then conducted a contest in the form of a panel discussion on historical events that had happened in our community in the past 20 years. This proved very interesting and there were two first prizes won by the groups of Mrs.

H. Tolley and Mrs. K.
Cassidy.

The meeting closed with The Queen, and lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

Ontario farmers frustrated

Dear Sir:

Ontario farmers through their major lobby, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, have called upon the provincial government for stabilization payments to the red meat industry within 30 days or face demands for the resignation of the agricultural minister, Mr. Dennis Timbrell and the Ontario treasurer, Mr. Larry Grossman. Farmers are demanding that Ontario place its meat producers on an equal footing with farmers in all other provinces who are being assisted by their governments.

Sheer frustration has provoked Ontario farmers into this uncharacteristic call for political resignations unless immediate help is forthcoming. Ontario farm bankruptcies run at an all time high. Third and fourth generation farm families are being forced off their land in traditional beef growing counties in western Ontario. Presently 26 per cent of all Ontario farmers, one in seven, who hold mortgages with the Farm Credit Corporation are in arrears with payments. The farm share of the consumer's food dollar has slumped well below 50 per cent.

Hot water weighs more than cold.

Summer Hawks down Ottawa 4-3

At 6:15 a.m. Saturday, May 5, a convoy of four vehicles left Stirling carrying excited boys and brand new red and black uniforms. Their destination - Smith's Falls - where they would play a very competitive team from Ottawa. As this was the first game of the season, the boys had a lot to learn, including the names of the players. They made an impressive beginning and improvement could be noted from the first game to the second.

In game 1, Brad Phillips (Madoc) did some fancy stick work and scored the first goal unassisted for Bay of Quinte. Ottawa evened the score near the end of the opening period.

Early in the second, Scott Wager (Napanee) accurately passed to Phillips who netted another. The scored tied again as Ottawa shot one in the corner. During the final period of play, Ottawa put in the winning goal.

With one game under their belt, the Bay of Quinte Atom Minors learned a lot from their mistakes and were ready for the Ottawa Selects. The play was end to end until 4:09 of the opening period when Ottawa put one in. Within seconds, Reg Gallagher (Wellington) assisted by Watson (Kingston) evened the score. A minute later Ottawa added a point.

There was no lack of action in the next period. Eric Manlow (Stirling) set up Jeff MacRae (Stirling) who completed the play to tie the game 2-2. By this time, the Bay of Quinte team was gaining confidence. Watson assisted by Neilson (Kingston) put the Hawks ahead. Galvin from Jason Hughes (Napanee) gave us a 2 point lead. Ottawa put in the final shot bringing the score to 4-3 for the Hawks.

Todd Reid (Stirling) played well on defence and Scott Sharpe (Stirling) made several key saves.

The Bay of Quinte Summer Hawks are looking forward to their next tournament in Toronto May 26.

At Stirling's 1984 Awards Night the above players

to R: Most Sportsmanlike .. Chad Bradshaw, Most Improved .. Wendy Brough, Most Valuable Player .. Jodi McMullen, Top Scorer .. Trevor Cooney.

Sr. Blues in Buffalo

Stirling 8, South Indiana 1.

Stirling scorers were Tom Pierce, R. Vandervoort, Doug Bolty, Murry Brydson, Paul Rutan, each with singles, and Frank Pinder with a pair.

Saturday: Game Two
Stirling 2, Gattineau, Quebec 3.

Pete Bosniack and Marvin Reid scored for the Blues, while Pierce, Pinder and Bolty were given assists.

As the score indicates the game was very close with end-to-end action.

Sunday: Game Three

Stirling 0, Brantford 1.

The Blues gave an all-out effort in this game and had eleven shots in the first six minutes. One of the six was a tip in by Rob Vandervoort but it was disallowed because the net was ajar.

Brantford's goal came after defensive miscue in the Stirling end.

The Brantford goaltender Bob Aitkens, sensing victory, closed the doors on the Blues for the last ten minutes.

The Stirling team received jackets and a trophy. The team record for the eight game tournament was: 5 wins, 2 ties, 3 losses.

R2000 - $241 to heat your home next winter

Last Wednesday afternoon the first R2000 home to be built in Stirling was toured by local councillors, real estate dealers and Mr. Jim Pollock MPP.

This Open House at 175 Holly Drive was a small celebration of the completion of the home featured in the News-Argus last January 18th where the outstanding qualities and energy savings of the home were considered. At that time only the shell was up and the energy audits were yet to be completed.

Bill Bosiak, builder of the house, was pleased to announce that all of the tests required by the Ministry of Energy have been completed and from those computer analysis they estimate that the 1,400 sq.

ft. home will have an annual heating bill of $241. The heating is accomplished by a forced air electric furnace and a heat exchanger is employed to keep the air fresh and the humidity under control in the airtight, highly insulated dwelling. Construction was carried out in co-operation with the Ontario Ministry of Energy and had to comply with their standards in order to be classified as an R2000 home.

right] Project Assistant for the Canadian Home Builders' Association.

CHSS students travel to Washington

Thirty-seven Centre Hastings Secondary School students and four supervisors, Mr. Armstrong, Miss Fulcher, Mrs. Ostman and Mrs. Simpson, immersed themselves in American culture and history over the Easter weekend, April 19-23, travelling by coach to Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Virginia.

On Friday, in Washington, they explored the Capital Building, Arlington Cemetery, the Kennedy

Centre for the Performing Arts, and the non-denominational Washington Cathedral where Martin Luther King preached his last sermon. They also enjoyed a half-day escorted bus tour during which they viewed such sites as the Watergate complex, Embassy Row and Georgetown. In the evening, after attending "On Shiloh Hill", a musical play about the Civil War, at Ford's Theatre (where Lincoln was shot), they visited the illuminated Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln monuments.

Saturday's itinerary included three hours at the Smithsonian Institute's Aerospace, Fine Arts, Modern Art, and American History museums, a trip to George Washington's plantation on the Potomac, Mount Vernon and a drive through Virginia to Williamsburg.

Easter Sunday, after church services, there was an escorted tour through colonial Williamsburg, the American capital during the American War of Independence, and a trip to Jamestown, the earliest English settlement in what was to become the United States.

Most of the students had Easter dinner at Chowning's Tavern or the King's Arms Hotel, famous historical restaurants where authentic specialties of the area are served.

The return trip included a drive through the Civil War battlefield of Gettysburg.

The cost of the tour, excluding food and souvenirs, was $210 for each of the participants.

Sex abuse workshop to be held

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit in Madoc is holding a sexual abuse workshop on May 28, starting at 12 noon.

The two-hour brown bag lunch special will feature a guest speaker from the Crisis Centre in Kingston. She will be talking about the recognition, signs and symptoms of sexual abuse as well as her work at the Crisis Centre.

In addition to the speaker, interested locals and social workers will watch a video called "Your Private Body", which will further inform people of the nature of sexual abuse.

"A lot of effort has been put into this workshop so let's see you there. We are asking a small registration fee of $1 to cover her travelling expenses from Kingston," stated a report from the unit.

4-H members to attend leadership week

Two 4-H members from Hastings County will be attending the 1984 Provincial 4-H Leadership Week from June 23-29 near Huntsville. Delegates are: Dawn Wiggins, Madoc, Ontario and Debbie Stiles, RR 4, Marmora, Ontario.

Leadership Week is designed to develop the leadership potential of the 100 participants, involve them in discussions on the 4-H program and have them meet fellow 4-H members from across the province. Each morning will be spent in a leadership training program covering parliamentary procedure, program planning and effective meetings. Afternoon sessions will feature interest groups on various topics from careers to outdoor survival. The entire program is based on the 4-H motto of "Learn to do by doing."

Delegates must be 16 to 21 years of age, have completed at least six 4-H projects and have contributed a great deal to the success of the 4-H program. 4-H is a personal development program for young people from 12 to 21 years of age. There are 22,000 4-H members in Ontario.

Bicentennial celebrations to start

$3,000. Hudson said she would send council a letter.

When Brenda Hudson originally asked council for backing of $5,000, council passed a motion to go ahead. But, according to Councillor Linda Matchett and Deputy Reeve Tom Barton, they did not know the money had to be paid in a lump sum.

"Council just doesn't give out $5,000 without something in writing," said Watson. "They need something in writing."

Telephone calls

Chairman Hudson said that since word came through about funding for bicentennial celebrations, she has been overwhelmed with calls from people who would help the committee spend it. But in some cases, things were offered free.

In one case a stone carver from Bloomfield called Hudson and said they will come to Madoc on a specified date and make a special carving for the bicentennial free.

"It seems to really be true," said Hudson.

To recap on the coming bicentennial events: May 26 will be a bicentennial Liliac Tea at Madoc Presbyterian Church, with a garden party to follow; June 13, Mohawks dance at Madoc Public School with community invited to attend; June 15, Public School Bicentennial Ball - children in the community will perform traditional dance demonstrations for the public; free; June 23 is the Skaters and Oldtimers dance at the Madoc Arena starting at 8:30 p.m., band will be Thurlo and prizes will be awarded to people with best bicentennial costumes; June 24 will be an interdenominational service at Trinity United Church, with a community choir led by Paul Kompass; June 25 will be a lunch and Strawberry Social at Trinity United Church; June 25 is Public School graduation where youngsters will dress in bicentennial costume; June 27-28, Gold Rush Days for children; July 1, tentative date for memorial dedication of Thomson Park; July 2, merchants' "Scratch 'n Save" day; July 4, street dance, midnight madness, fireworks display, beef barbecue; July 8, Chamber of Commerce Bicentennial Picnic at Crystal Beach with pavilion rented in case of rain, discount for entry;

July 4, Rebekah's yard sale in back of stores near IGA parking lot; July 6, Ladies of Eastern Star lunch at St. John's Anglican Church; July 7, tentative date for cowboy shootout on Durham Street, and Bicentennial Committee wine and cheese party.

Chairman Hudson said one of the main costs for the committee will be paying for the advertising of events.

The next bicentennial meeting will be held June 1 at 4 p.m. in Madoc Hotel, north side.

White Water Raft Races

Norwood Lions are roaring for good weather this Sunday, but rain or shine the sixth annual white water race will take place on the Norwood pond. Race time is 1:30 p.m. The problems with sand bags and regulations imposed by the Otonabee Region Conservation Area have been resolved and everything is go for the chilling event.

"We are already to go, thanks to some hard working Lions, the co-operation of the Conservation Authority to whom we are grateful for the sand bags and of course the council is helping greatly," said Race Chairman Alex Davidson.

He had four pre-registered raft teams by late Friday afternoon and couldn't say whether or not that was good. "I've never been in charge of the race before and no one has told me what to expect, but anyone who wants to enter can, right up to race time. All they need is a raft, life jackets and $20, and nerve," explained Davidson.

Spring is mating time

By Arlin Hackman

The annual rite of spring -- that is, mating -- involves some very exotic traditions around the world. And Canada's own "gathering of the garter" rivals the best. With each passing year, the quite rural area of Narcisse, Manitoba hits more and more headlines for the pageant of nature it hosts between late April and early May.

I'll grant you the name I've given it is a little misleading. It's not, as you might have expected, an ancient Elizabethan custom, or a variant of that strange wedding tradition of stealing an item of bridal attire. No, I'm talking about snakes. Thousands upon thousands of snakes. Garter snakes. For probably as many years, they've gathered to hibernate in the limestone pits and underground caverns that riddle Manitoba's Interlake district, 50 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

As the spring sun begins to warm the pits, the snakes emerge in unbelievable numbers to mate and then "slither" away into marshy areas and fields nearby. Scientists from far and wide come to study the phenomenon, claiming the area may have the highest density of snakes in the northern hemisphere.

No one knows the whole story. But once the females start emerging, they are individually perused and literally wrapped up by a dozen or so males, forming a "mating ball". Somehow in all this mayhem, the female manages to mate with one of the males, then roams afield for the summer, giving birth to as many as 60 baby snakes in mid August. In late September, the return migration takes place.

To naturalists, the annual garter snake gathering is a natural wonder. Tourists also arrive in increasing numbers both spring and fall.

by Ralph Maron
Manager

The role of motherhood grows increasingly difficult in modern times. Answers to children's questions are not so simple any more (not that they ever were). Problems of health and morality become more complex and difficult. The strain on mothers is often very great. Let us be more aware of the many sacrifices of motherhood and honor her with love and thoughtfulness on her special Mother's Day.

Belleville UCW Spring Fling

More than 170 enthusiastic United Church Women registered at Grace Street United Church, Napanee, on May 9th, for their spring meeting.

Irene Wellman, president, very capably presided over the meeting, and announced that the theme for the day was "You Make It Happen!!" How??, which would be carried, through the day's program.

Following a lively sing-song, including the theme song "The Church Within Us," Grace St. UCW president, Mary Jackson, welcomed everyone to their church.

A very thought-provoking devotional was conducted by Heather Hines, Associate Minister of Tabernacle Church, Belleville, who suggested God might be hought of as a woman.

Offering was taken and dedicated by Rednersville, UCW.

Presbyterian officers, wearing tri-cornered hats depicting Bicentennial Year and carrying banners naming their office and duties, introduced themselves.

The roll call was answered with donations for "Three Oaks Foundation", battered women's shelter, Belleville, in the amount of $1,356.50.

Jan Sills introduced Jackie Nuen and Marion Minifie, who through speech, slides and artifacts gave an insight in the way the poor people of Mexico are existing.

Thoughts of the theme were given by Nina Tucker, Leadership Development Convener in the form of a skit where God answers her as she is preparing a program.

Comments on how "YOU"

Can Make It Happen" were given by Dorothy Fisher, Social Action; Dianne Cole, Christian and Missionary Education; Aleita Moore, Stewardship; and Eileen Demoreest, Supply and Service.

The meeting was closed with the theme hymn "The Church Within Us" and benediction.

Agricultural Society banquet report

On April 24, the Madoc Agricultural Society sponsored a banquet for their supporters at St. John's Anglican Hall. Approximately 100 members sat down to a sumptuous meal served by the ladies of the congregation. Mr. Ross Moorcroft was chairman for the evening and introduced the head table. Mrs. Doug Pigden, President of the Ladies' Division, Francis and Kathaleen Tobin, Mr. McCracken, District Director and Mrs. McCracken, President Lawrence Trotter and the guest speaker Mrs. Marjorie Morgan.

The President recalled the events of the past year, thanked all for assistance to make 1984 another successful year. Mrs. Pigden reviewed the ladies' exhibit and the arrangement set up which drew many favorable comments.

Miss Sandra Franks 1983 Fair Queen gave a very interesting account of her attendance at the convention in Toronto and appreciated assistance extended to her. Mr. McCracken expressed thanks for the invitation and as provincial director extended all help possible through his departments.

The ladies of the parish were extended many thanks by Grant Ketcheson for the lovely meal provided and also gave great credit to Ross Moorcroft for organizing the event from the beginning.

Allan Ketcheson, former president, with a few well-chosen words, presented the retiring secretary Francis Tobin and Kathaleen with a scroll and a table arrangement of flowers for the long service with the society. Francis, in thanking all those responsible for the presentation, he referred to his 50 years of affiliation with the Society. He said it was a wonderful experience and education. There were many changes between the moving of the fairgrounds from the old Marmora Road to the present location in 1922, the building of the arena in 1976.

Ladies division organized in 1960. Dates of the fair were changed from Tuesday and Wednesday to Friday - Saturday in 1965 and also in 1965 the Society went from Class C to Class B status while Ken Holland was president.

In 1974 the fair was extended to a 5-day event.

Mrs. Mary Barton, with very informative remarks, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Marjorie Morgan of Brighton. The audience was kept in a very joyous mood with her remarks and told of many groups she has communicated with for their charitable contributions. She concluded her address with the theme of co-operation is the way to success and congratulated the Madoc Agricultural Society in using this method over the past years.

Thanks to the Madoc Merchants for prizes donated to the holders of lucky numbers and also to Don Bailey and his group for musical selections.

Design your own personal flower garden

Creating your own personal flower garden can be fun and satisfying if you do a little bit of planning before you start, says Professor Jim Tsujita, department of horticultural science, of the University of Guelph.

Take advantage of the natural surroundings which presently exist — trees and shrubs can be made the backbone to a well-harmonized flower garden. A fence, wall or hedge can also be used to your advantage in framing your personal garden.

Allow at least 0.5 metres to one metre between these structures and plantings to ease maintenance such as weeding and staking.

If a diversity in plant height, form and color is desired, ensure that the plan allows a minimum width of 1.0 metre to 1.2 metres for the flower border.

Depending on location, available space and personal choice, borders may be designed for natural, informal, appeal. This can be accomplished by creating a free-flowing effect by using height variations and natural contours and curves in the flower bed.

Geometric form and sharp contrast in plant color, form and texture can be used to create a more rigid, formal garden. Do not use informal and formal design in the same border — keep these separate within each bed to ensure harmony in design.

After consideration of design, color is what personalizes your garden. Color is a matter of personal choice and taste — everyone has a favorite color. Color can be used to create a feeling of coolness and temper the heat of summer. Pastel shades of blue, purple, lavender, pink and rose coupled with white can be used for this purpose.

The use of closely related harmonious colors will help avoid unpleasant clashes in color. For example, orange and yellow, red and violet, orange, bronze and red are harmonious, whereas, blue and yellow or blue and orange are contrasting colors.

Select plants that are suited for the location. For hot, open areas, choose plants that are heat-tolerant such as zinnia, petunia, verbena, marigold, geranium, portulaca and cleome. Balsam, impatiens, coleus and fibrous, tuberous or non-stop begonias are best suited to shady locations.

For best showing, arrange plants according to their height. A flower bed viewed from one side should have the tallest plants in the background, intermediate height in the centre and low growing plants in the foreground. Allow plant height to drift into each zone to create a natural appearance avoiding sharp, step-like patterns.

Arrange plants according to form and texture to maximize their potential show. Mix plants with vertical and horizontal forms. Interplant spike flowers such as snapdragons and stocks with horizontal forms such as petunias.

Use foliage texture and color to enhance composition. Foliage can soften harsh color clashes and blending plant form and texture leads to natural appearance of the garden.

To create a massive appearance of less prominent or less showy plants, arrange these in groupings of three, five and seven, etc.

Planning a flower garden should begin by thumbing through seed catalogues to familiarize yourself with the vast selections of annual flowers which are annually available in the market. Your

Compost refuse into rich soil

Don't throw away those grass clippings, and potato peelings. Make a compost pile; your garden will love you for it.

Soil from a compost pile is exceedingly high in humus content and rich in plant nutrients.

Use it as a top dressing for lawns or improve the soil texture in your flower and vegetable gardens. Compost is also valuable as potting soil for houseplants and in the preparation of seed flats.

Occasionally add a sprinkling of ground limestone (available at garden centres) to the pile as you build it to reduce acid conditions which can impede decomposition.

Keep the compost moist but not wet. Once a month, turn the pile, rebuilding so that the outer portion is placed in the centre of the pile.

Breakdown of organic matter occurs as the heat in the pile increases from zero degrees

Celsius to 35 degrees Celsius (32 degrees Fahrenheit to 95 degrees Fahrenheit).

During winter months cover the pile with clear plastic to allow sunlight to heat the pile and prolong decomposition. Remove plastic occasionally to allow air into the compost pile.

Time required to convert raw organic materials into a good humus suitable for garden use depends on a number of factors. See Compost on page 4A

Building a compost pile is simple, says Mike Bladen of the University of Guelph's grounds department.

Choose a partially shaded location to maintain a more even degree of moisture in the compost pile and protect from the coldest winds.

Most important, choose a site that is easily accessible; not much household waste is going to be composted if you have to walk through wet grass or climb a snowbank.

Be sure the location is well drained. On a waterlogged site, a different type of decomposition can take place that causes foul-smelling gases. Dig the area over well or pave it with patio slabs spaced to leave drainage channels.

You can construct a wooden container or build your compost pile of a convenient, workable size, about 122 centimetres to 183 centimetres (four to six feet) wide, and 81 cm to 122 cm (three ft. to four ft.) high and of any desired length.

Use a coarse material such as inverted sod or weed stalks at the base. Then alternate layers of organic refuse and soil. Almost any organic material, including animal manure if available, can be used. Avoid very woody materials and diseased plants.

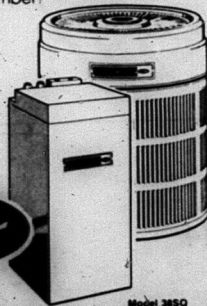

Make the top of the pile concave to catch as much rain as possible. If you use dry materials such as hay or straw, soak the pile thoroughly as you are building the pile.

Put down roots — plant a tree

Put down some roots this year — plant a tree.

Spring and fall are still the most satisfactory times to plant a tree, says Extension Horticulturist Burke McNeill of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's soils and crops branch, Milton, Ont.

"Today, trees are sold with their roots bound in burlap so they can be planted throughout the growing season. But planting in mid-summer requires special care and often the results are not quite as satisfactory as planting during the dormant spring and fall period."

Choosing the proper site for your tree is important. Be sure the site is compatible with the species of tree to be planted.

For example, white birch trees require moist, cool soil and should be planted on the north or east side of your property.

Avoid planting your tree too close to property lines; a species that drops seeds, fruits, or leaves on your neighbor's property could cause hard feelings.

Watch for overhead powerlines too which could obstruct the tree's growth. Prepare your site by digging a hole slightly larger and deeper than the root system on the tree to be planted.

Use new topsoil around the roots to backfill the hole. Excellent results can also be achieved by mixing some of the existing soil in a 50:50 ratio with peat moss.

Take special care to place soil completely around the roots to avoid air pockets from forming and impeding root development.

Soak the area well after planting to help settle the soil around the roots and eliminate air pockets.

After planting, it is wise to stake your tree, particularly if it is more than 175 centimetres (six feet) high. If your tree is not secured, the wind will rock the tree back and forth, breaking off the new roots as they attempt to attach themselves to the surrounding soil.

Once these steps have been taken, tender loving care is all that is needed. Water your tree well once a week, keep weeds and grass away from the base (at least for the first year) and remove any dead or broken branches.

Check the ties used for staking and loosen these off as the tree grows. Otherwise, the ties, if not expandable, can girdle the tree and cause it to break off.

If a tree does not survive transplanting, it is usually because the roots have not regenerated. Hence the need for all the help you can provide when transplanting.

Bringing back the simplicity and elegance of the gazebo

For some people, the sight of a gazebo brings to mind the Gay Nineties — the days of the Gibson girl and her straw-hatted beau, of concerts where the band played the newest hits of Sousa and Strauss.

Nowadays the gazebo is no longer relegated to the center of town. And, for many people, these Victorian-style shelters represent everything that's good about the great American backyard.

A gazebo like this one, which is particularly sturdy and easy to build, could well become your whole family's favored spot for warm-weather rest and relaxation.

Gazebos differ as widely as the backyards in which they're located, but they seem to share one characteristic: The little bit of extra effort put into detailing makes their commonplace materials look ornate.

Cedar was used for the gazebo as shown. You could easily use pressure-treated lumber for all the structural members.

Pressure-treated lumber is less expensive than other types of wood recommended for outdoor projects, yet it's highly resistant to damage from moisture and insects.

Use galvanized nails with pressure-treated lumber, aluminum nails with cedar and redwood.

This six-sided gazebo measures 8 feet from any two parallel sides of the hexagon. The materials listed are for a gazebo of this size; alter the dimensions to suit your needs.

Here tongue-and-groove decking was used for the gazebo floor. You can substitute 1x or 2x lumber if you like. Support the floor boards with three 2x6 joists as shown in the drawing.

Nail a skirt made of 2x4s to the perimeter.

Toenail six 8-foot-long 4x4 posts to the floor boards. Measure the space between the posts and assemble the sections of railing and top trim to fit. The crosspieces of the railing are 2x4s; those of the top trim are 2x4s and 2x2s. The vertical slats are made of 2x2s, which have been angle-cut.

Toenail these sections in place. Note that the four posts on the two open sides of the gazebo are trimmed with 2x6s.

Also note the little shelf shown on the far side of the gazebo. If you choose to include a shelf, make it from a 2x6 and a 2x4.

Angle-cut and bevel the 2x6s that run around the top of the gazebo. Nail these together at 90 degrees, forming what looks like giant-size molding. Nail these pieces to the posts.

Make the lower rafters of 2x6s. (This section of the roof has a pitch of 10-12 — that is a 10-inch rise for every 12 inches of span.) Notch them as shown to accommodate the 2x6s atop the posts.

To the rafters, nail twelve 2x4 beams as shown. Make the upper rafters of 2x4s. (This section of the roof has a pitch of 17-12.) Toenail these rafters to the lower ones.

Into the space between the ends of the upper and lower rafters, insert a central spike made from two laminated and beveled 2x6s. Nail it in place.

Cover the rafters with sheathing made of 1x10s and 3/4-inch exterior-grade plywood. Top the sheathing with cedar shakes.

Check your local building codes before beginning construction to be sure you meet local requirements.

Be sure to follow the manufacturers' instructions when using power tools. And don't forget to wear safety goggles when using a hammer or power tools.

SUMMER FUN is as easy as one, two, three in this open-air gazebo.

How to give the aging bath a gracious lift

BY LIS KING

You needn't take out a hefty loan to give that aging bath a spectacular facelift.

So claims the Tile Council of America, an organization which has studied bathroom design for almost 40 years. Imagination and willingness to tackle do-it-yourself projects count more than cash, says the Council and backs up this statement with a series of ideas for affordable bath improvements.

• If yours is a really old-time bath, accentuate its age rather than hide it... particularly if it is Victorian.

Think of giving that footed tub new stature by raising it onto a tile-clad platform. Ceramic mosaics, those tiny tiles that lend themselves so well to charming patterns and borders, would be picture-perfect for the platform.

Epoxy-paint the outside of the tub some rich, traditional color, perhaps burgundy or deep green, and add brass fittings. Now you're ready for a regal soak.

• Don't despair over old tile walls or floor in hideous colors. If they are structurally sound, you can put new tile right over them. New setting materials developed by the Tile Council makes this dream a beautiful reality.

• First aid for mirror frames: a row of tiles, or a checkerboard coverup of 1" ceramic mosaics.

• Mosaics cover-ups for tissue box and wastepaper basket are good beginners' projects.

• Tile a wall shelf—or two—to hold bath paraphernalia, books and plants.

• Remember, plants love humidity, so by all means treat your bath to greenery. If the room has a good size window, install a window box on the sill and fill with flowering plants. Tile the sill for worry-free watering and misting.

• Build wall-to-wall tile steps to the edge of the tub to create the illusion of a sunken bath. Besides looking luxurious, the steps will come in handy for towels and bath accessories.

• Decorate a plain painted wall with a row of fancy tiles around the tub, at chair rail height, and/or framing door and window openings. Americana tile motifs—such as Pennsylvania Dutch hearts and flowers, birds and seashells—are great for today's popular country decors.

• The hand-crafted tile look, which is established with deliberately uneven edges and/or textured surface variations, is also ideal when you want to give a bath that country feeling.

CERAMIC TILE with a hand-crafted look, barnwood and wicker accessories updates this bath to today's popular country look.

Pool care program designed to supply water in right condition

Unlike your drinking water, your pool water is captive in your pool and used over and over again. With evaporation, these minerals and metals become more concentrated in your pool. While these products may not be a problem in your drinking water, mineral imbalance, improper pH and stain-causing salts can deteriorate the surfaces of your pool and lessen the effectiveness of the chemicals in the water.

Your pool care program is designed to provide water in the right condition—water which is properly balanced. Water balance is the term used to describe the interaction of pH, total alkalinity, calcium hardness and total dissolved solids and their overall effect on your pool equipment, water quality and the pool itself. Each factor is described in detail. Before going into pH we should discuss testing your pool water. There are many kits available on the market.

some test only chlorine and pH while other kits also test for stabilizer, total alkalinity, calcium hardness, etc.

It will be mandatory to at least test for chlorine and pH. The other factors may need to be tested occasionally but if you are not having any problems you may not need to test for them at all. If you are concerned about your pool water, take a sample to a dealer and have them do these tests for you.

• A tiled-vanity top is a terrific improvement. It looks wonderful, is easy to care for, and that hot curling wand won't scorch it.

• If the bath has some unused space, create a special dressing table. Cover any small table with ceramic tile, add a pretty skirt, hang a mirror on the wall, and finish with overhanging lamp(s).

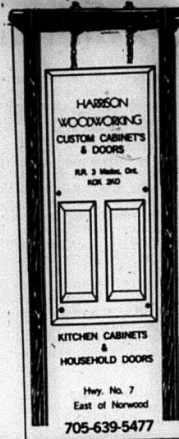

• Put in a skylight if your bath is under the eaves and has a southern exposure. Install dark-colored quarry tile or pavers on the floor, and you will have a solar-heated bath.

• Color is an important consideration when you are facelighting a bath. For year-round sunny mornings, try yellow tile walls, melon-colored towels, white louver shutters.

For a "tropical look," go with white or green tile, a jungle-print shower curtain, a ceiling fan light and wicker accessories. Dark greens, blues, browns and grays promote a masculine look, while the pastels set a feminine mood.

• Grouts, the filler material used between the tile now come in a rainbow of colors, so they must be considered, too. In a quiet, monochromatic scheme the grout simply matches the tile, but if you like the grid effect of tile, use a contrasting grout color for emphasis. White wall tile with bright blue or red grout joints are cheerful examples.

Can your home possibly be too airtight? The experts say yes

In the days before airtight homes, ventilation was accomplished largely through cracks and leaks in the home itself. Of course, the home was likely to be a bit drafty in the winter and rather warm in the summer.

Now, with ever-increasing heating and cooling costs, homeowners across the country are tightening up their homes. Plugging leaks and adding storm windows and doors, along with increasing insulation, saves money and keeps homes cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter.

But a too-tight home can cause problems. Problems like musty smells, stained ceilings, crumbling plaster and peeling paint can be traced to a lack of proper ventilation.

Simple solutions

What can a homeowner do to maintain an energy-efficient home and avoid these problems?

Experts at Manville, one of the nation's major fiber glass insulation manufacturers, say the answers are simple.

The problems may arise when more water vapor is produced in the home than is dispersed to the outside through ventilation. Water vapor in the home develops from a variety of everyday activities such as cooking, cleaning, laundry and bathing.

If this water vapor is allowed to collect in the attic or walls, it can soak the insulation, thereby decreasing its effectiveness. Water vapor can also soak into the internal structure of the home. Once the insulation dries, it regains its insulating qualities, but other parts of the home may not dry out as easily.

The way to avoid these problems is to prevent too much water vapor from collecting and to provide a way for it to escape to the outside air. (Some extremely airtight homes may need a heat-recovering air exchanger.)

Important areas to consider are (1) sufficient ventilation and (2) vapor barriers, if needed. (Vapor barriers are materials which retard the movement of water vapor.)

Insulate to save

Home energy experts agree that adding fiber glass insulation to your attic is probably the easiest and most cost effective way to lower heating and cooling bills, so let's look at how ventilation and vapor barriers should be used in the well-insulated attic.

Consider attic ventilation first. Proper ventilation lessens heat build-up in the summer and lets moisture escape in summer and winter. At least two vent openings, located so air can flow in one and out the other, should be provided.

Recommended minimum

As a basic guide, the recommended minimum amount of attic vent area your home should have is one square foot inlet and one square foot outlet for each 300 square feet of ceiling area.

Second is the use of vapor barriers in the attic between the inside air and the insulation. Manville insulation in batts and blankets can be purchased with a vapor barrier already attached to one side.

New homes or those without attic insulation should be fitted with this type of fiberglass insulation with the vapor barrier (facing) side installed towards the warm-in-winter (heated) part of the home. Attics with some existing insulation require unfaced fiberglass insulation with no vapor barrier.

PROPER VENTILATION is essential for the well-insulated home. Write to Manville for free information.

Water samples

chlorine and pH. When collecting your sample pre-rinse the test kit comparison tube several times with the water to be tested. This will remove contamination from the tube. Take the water samples from as far as possible below the surface of the pool (at least 18 inches). This will give a more uniform sample to test. The surface water is more affected by sunlight and may give slightly different readings.

Test your water sample promptly. If you are taking a water sample somewhere to be tested make sure the container is clean and did not contain chemicals that could alter the tests. Keep the sample in a relatively cool, dark place.

Corrosion to metal parts in the pool and in the filtration and recirculation system which may create brown, blue, green or sometimes almost black stains on the pool. Corrosive water seeks to satisfy its hunger by dissolving everything in sight especially copper and iron.

Remedy your garden problems at pest clinic

Are insects bugging your plants? Are weeds infesting your lawn or garden? Are your tomato vines dying before the fruit matures?

Answers to these and other questions about pests and diseases are available from the Pest Diagnostic and Advisory Clinic, located at the University of Guelph.

The service, funded by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, has dealt with more than 20,000 inquiries since it began in 1978.

Staffed with competent diagnosticians, this laboratory provides information, identification, and control recommendations for plant diseases; weeds and poisonous plants; insects, mites and other small critters, and even for larger varmints like raccoons, bats and groundhogs.

Just less than half of the problems handled by the clinic are insect-related, especially the common nuisances such as earwigs, sap beetles, and mosquitoes, says Rick Wukash of the university's environmental biology department. Another 25 per cent are related to plant diseases and the remainder concern weed control and general requests for information.

Because of the number of inquiries, clinic staff cannot make housecalls, but rely upon samples received by mail, courier, or drop-in.

However, the accuracy of any diagnosis depends upon the quality of the specimen received, and the information sent with it.

Often it's difficult to figure out what's wrong with a tree or houseplant by looking at only one leaf. Choose a typical sample, including as much of the plant as possible.

For example, dig up the tomato plant, sending the root system as well as the vine. Enclose these roots in a separate plastic bag to avoid drying out, or soil spilling onto the leaves.

Put the entire plant or parts into a plastic bag, between waxed paper, or newspaper.

Avoid adding moisture, which usually encourages decay in transit. If a potted plant, send a cup of soil also for testing. Weed and plant identification is easier if entire plants are sent when flowering or producing seed.

Package the specimens with padding in a strong carton or mailing tube. Mail between Sunday and Thursday to avoid weekend delays in transit, or send it by courier.

Refrigerate specimens or collect them just before sending. Special instructions and a questionnaire are available from the clinic for lawn samples.

Insects, spiders, and other critters can be sent live or preserved in alcohol. Cushion them in vials or boxes with tissues, cotton, or paper, with or without the plants they may be feeding on.

"Unlike a medical clinic, our patients cannot talk, so it's important to send complete background information along with the specimen to provide clues for clinic staff to get to the root of the problem," Wukash says.

For example, if a plant is diseased, describe what your concerns are, where and under what conditions it is growing, how many or what plant parts are affected, the soil characteristics, how the plant is cared for, including the history of pesticide and fertilizer use.

For insects, explain when, where, and how many were found, and what control measures have been attempted. For weeds, describe the plant type, where growing, and what crops it is infesting.

A nominal fee of $3 per specimen is charged for routine diagnostic services. An additional rate of $20 per hour is charged for specimens requiring culturing or more difficult procedures for accurate identification.

Persons bringing specimens to the clinic will be required to pay at the time diagnosis is made. Clients sending specimens by mail or courier will be billed with the letter providing advice.

Clinic business hours are 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon, and 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday to Friday. Telephone inquiries are received only in the afternoon when diagnosticians are available for consultation.

If your garden problems have you baffled, and you want accurate, reliable advice, contact the Pest Diagnostic and Advisory Clinic, located in Room B14 Graham Hall, University of Guelph, Guelph, Ontario N1G 2W1, (519) 824-4120 ext. 2701, 2700.

Improper pH problems

is 7.6 the pool water is in complete harmony with your body and therefore you have the maximum comfort in the pool. As the pH becomes lower there will be increased irritation as your body adjusts to the change in pH.

Excessive sanitizer use. Chlorine is almost completely effective at a pH of 7.0. When the pH is less than 7.0 chemical reactions occur which speed up the loss of chlorine.

will need to add much more chlorine to get the same sanitizing effect in your pool.

It is easy to see that improper pH can cause a lot of problems. With the pH at 8.5 the following occurs:

- pool is cloudy - calcium and magnesium precipitating out.
- possibility of infection increases because chlorine is only 10% effective.
- green algae will probably start to form on surface of pool.
- burning eyes and skin irritation.
- scale forming on metal parts and in filter.

SWEET TREAT

Nothing tastes better first thing in the morning than fresh, juicy strawberries you have grown yourself, says Tony Hogervorst, rural organizations co-ordinator (Horticulture) for the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's rural organizations and services branch. Grow strawberries in the flower garden or in hanging baskets to decorate your patio or terrace.

When pH is Too High [Basic]

Scale formation occurs in the pool and in the filtration and recirculation equipment. In effect, there is a "dumping-out" of the excess minerals/salts which the water no longer requires. The higher the pH the faster the dumping-out will occur. The scale is mainly calcium carbonate and magnesium carbonate.

Cloudy water results as this dumping-out process takes place. The calcium and magnesium carbonate particles are starting to come out of solution and become visible creating the cloudy effect.

Eye and skin irritation will again take place as the pH increase from 7.4. Again the body fluids are reacting and adjusting to the change in pH as the pool water comes in contact with your body.

Pool sanitizer inefficiency. As the pH is increased, chemical reactions take place whereby at a pH of 7.5 only 50% of the available chlorine is in a sanitizing state. At a pH of 8.5 only 10% of the chlorine is effective. As a result you

Designer suggests nine ways of uncluttering your kitchen

③ "If your kitchen suffers from 'terminal clutter,'" says C. Jean Mattingly, certified kitchen designer (CKD) and manager Home Modernization for General Electric, "don't blame it entirely on too many utensils, appliances, boxes, bottles, furnishings and gourmet gadgets."

"Most likely," she says, "your problem lies in poor organization. And the way to solve that problem is to uncover every square inch of extra storage and work-space in your kitchen and put it to work."

An expert advises

To help you find and exploit hidden spaces, Miss Mattingly offers nine suggestions:

1) Delete the unnecessary: It is not always the items you use every day that clutter up your kitchen; it is the cumbersome ones you rarely need or use that keep getting in the way.

Make a thorough inventory of all your pots, pans, small appliances, utensils and dishes to sort out the items you don't use. Then arrange your remaining kitchen equipment according to frequency of use—put daily priority items close at hand, others in progressively less accessible storage spaces.

2) Inside cabinets: Widely separated cabinet shelves are prime space wasters. Try adding shelves to get more levels of storage. Or use portable, rubber-coated wire shelf organizers that are available in any housewares department or hardware store. Try putting hooks on undersides of shelves to hang cups and mugs.

Never leave the inside of a cabinet door empty. You can attach spice and condiment racks there or hang wire caddies that hold everything from cleaning supplies to utensils, wet towels to soap bars.

3) Below and above cabinets: Your backslash—the space between the upper wall cabinets and the countertop—is a good place to build long horizontal cabinets with sliding doors.

These shallow cabinets, sometimes called "garages" or under-cabinet storage, can house your small appliances—mixers, can openers, toasters, juicers, blenders—right where you need them, yet completely out of sight and out of the way when not in use.

The backslash is an ideal storage space because most countertops are 25 in. deep and only the first 14 or 15 in. are normally used for work space.

You generally find a foot or two of empty space between the top of your wall cabinets and the ceiling. This is a good place to store bulky, seldom-used articles, such as cake pans, punch bowls, chafing dishes or woks.

4) Looking up: One of the most overlooked and underused storage spaces in the kitchen is the ceiling. If your ceiling is high enough, you can hang lots of pans and tools from existing beams or commercial pot-hanging racks and grids.

It is also a good idea to use your ceiling for hanging three-tiered baskets to hold such odds and ends as food coupons, recipes, mail or pads, so they do not clutter up your counters and work-space.

5) Against the wall: Do not limit yourself to traditional storage places. Hooks and shelves can be put up anywhere. Kitchen walls offer spacious opportunities for storing cooking and dining equipment.

Hang it all!

Just about any flat wall will support horizontal or vertical strips of wood with hooks to hold everything from frying pans to towel racks, pot holders to plants. Plastic hooks with adhesive backs will stick to virtually any surface, so you can create instant storage on wooden walls, wallpaper or paint without making holes.

When you plan wall hanging storage, do not forget the walls behind doors. Most doors, when open, leave a 6- or 8-in. wall space that is unused and seldom ever seen.

6) Pegboard: One of the best examples of kitchen wall storage is the perforated hardboard—commonly known as pegboard. These inexpensive, easily-worked boards can hold a wide variety of kitchen tools. And because pegboard hooks can be moved around so easily, you can create any arrangement that suits your need and then change the hangings whenever you like.

7) Refrigerator top: Unless your refrigerator is recessed into the wall, you probably have several feet between the top of the appliance and your ceiling—an excellent space for extra storage.

Tile's good looks, easy care suit today's busy kitchens

By LIS KING

Of late, Americans are learning what Europeans have known for centuries: ceramic tile is great for kitchen floors, countertops, backsplashes, rangehoods and other surfaces that must stand up to hard wear with minimal care.

But, according to the Tile Council of America, an organization that has studied design trends for almost 40 years, the rapidly increasing use of ceramic tile in U.S. kitchens isn't merely related to practicality.

"Tile's new fashion talent is what's really attracting today's consumer," notes Council president Rudy Thornberry. "The range of colors, shapes, patterns and textures now on the market is simply overwhelming. . . . So much so, that the consumer just might find it difficult to make a choice."

Further complicating the selection is tile's well-known durability, which means that homeowners will be living with their choices for a long, long time.

For this reason, the Council recommends a conservative choice for large surfaces, such as floors and whole walls, especially in rooms where you spend a lot of time.

In a family kitchen, for example, you are best off with a floor in a neutral hue. It won't tire the eye in just a few years, and it will go with countless generations of appliances and other kitchen elements.

But don't be afraid to use bright colors and decorative designs for small areas and accents. They are just great for dressing up rangehoods, backsplashes and such.

The color choice

Choosing a neutral kitchen floor needn't mean just going for something beige or brown. American manufacturers are now producing a wealth of new textures and shades.

Beige, for example, may be a quarry tile in peachy tan, rosy taupe or palest sand. And the browns range from caramel to espresso.

White, that all-time classic of the non-colors, is usually a luxurious dream for floors, but ceramic tile makes it a practical reality, even for busy kitchens.

An array of greys has also expanded the neutral palette, and there are also numerous new greyed-off shades of the blues and greens that put them in the muted category so ideal for floors.

There's no law that says you have to use identical colors on floors and walls. Perfect matches from floor to countertop to backsplashes are often seen in contemporary kitchens where crispness is of the essence.

But, going to different colors for countertops and walls offers delicious design options that country buffs and more traditional souls find it hard to resist.

Remember, that most kitchen wall and counter areas are relatively small, so here you needn't feel restricted.

Go with tile colors and designs that you will really love to look at. A romantic flower hue, such as cherry blossom pink or cornflower blue, is sure to bring relief from rows of dark wood cabinets, for example.

And you can warm institutionally white metal cabinets with backsplashes in yummy pastels or hot primaries.

Lots of tiles with decorative themes, such as herbs or wildflowers, are available, and they are terrific as accents in backsplashes, on rangehoods or as borders around windows or doors.

If you like a bit of drama, think of using two or three contrasting tile colors together. Run just a single band of bright color on a white counter and backsplash, for example. Or run stripes vertically, horizontally or diagonally on an accent wall.

For designer flair underfoot, consider combining two tile sizes or colors in a pattern. Ceramic mosaics lend themselves particularly well to designer patterns.

Plaids and stripes in neutral colors are interesting for informal kitchens. Checkerboard floors in black and white have an air of formality and suit tiled kitchens.

A border in a contrasting color running all around the kitchen floor is an effective custom touch.

Savings tips...

Add fiber glass insulation for comfort and savings

If you were among those caught with high heating bills this past winter, now is the time to prepare for next winter, and guarantee your family a more comfortable summer as well.

Energy bills don't have to spiral up endlessly. There are methods for taking control of your home heating and cooling bills, and adding insulation is one of the most effective methods.

Increasing the amount of insulation in your home reduces the temperature loss from the inside to the outside. So, you provide a more comfortable home and pay less to heat or cool it.

(warmed by the treated air cooled by the air conditioner) is kept where you want it.

For existing homes, the easiest and most cost effective place to start re-insulating is the attic. Fiber glass is the recommended form of insulation because it is light and clean, easy to handle and non-combustible.

The amount of energy savings realized will depend on the climate, the amount of insulation installed, the amount of existing insulation, the type and size of the home, living habits and family size.

Many local utility companies, if asked, will conduct a home energy audit and recommend measures for reducing energy consumption.

The Manville Building Marketing Division also offers a free, Do-It-Yourself Home Energy Audit brochure that lists the 10 most important steps to take to decrease the amount of energy use in a home.

To decide whether an attic will benefit from additional insulation, first determine the amount of existing insulation. If existing insulation is loose fill, measure its depth. If existing insulation is in the form of batts or blankets, the R-value will probably be printed on the top or bottom.

Use the following general guidelines to determine the R-value for existing insulation:

Depth of loose-fill insulation	R-value
3"	R-7
6"	R-14

9" R-21
The R stands for resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power.

Once you know how much insulation you have, you can determine how much more is needed by subtracting the R-value of existing insulation from the recommended R-value for your geographical area.

Some homeowners will want to re-insulate their attic as a do-it-yourself project. In this case, fiber glass batts or blankets are the best choice for ease of installation and to ensure proper R-value.

A retail building supply center will be able to help with determining amounts needed. Manville Best-Pak™ is a boon to the do-it-yourselfer because its compressed packaging makes it easier to transport and handle.

FLOWER POWER

Hybrid geraniums are grown from seed by commercial growers. They tend to be short stemmed with beautiful flowers that will last throughout the growing season. These newer varieties tend to be heat-resistant and thrive in summer and early fall when many other garden plants have begun to decline, says Tony Hogervorst, rural organizations co-ordinator (Horticulture) with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's rural organizations and services branch.

When installing insulation in the attic floor or crawl spaces, Manville insulation experts urge that care be taken to avoid covering air vents.

Ventilation above insulation in an attic floor is necessary both winter and summer. In winter, open vents let moisture vapor escape. In summer, the moving air lessens attic heat build-up.

Always provide at least two vent openings, located so that air can flow in one and out the other. A combination of eave vents, and continuous ridge venting works the best.

If the homeowner prefers, the entire job can be turned over to an insulating contractor who will help determine the insulation needs and install the product. Many contractors use blowing wool, a loose form of fiber glass insulation.

Whether as a do-it-yourself job or hired out, adding additional insulation pays for itself in the form of lower energy usage.

In addition to fiber glass insulation, there are a number of other methods which help reduce the amount of energy consumed in a home. Reducing outside air infiltration through the use of storm windows and doors, weatherstripping and caulking around window and door frames will add to the energy efficiency of the home.

And increased insulation and weather-tightness will not only improve the comfort level of your home and reduce energy usage, they can also help you get a tax credit of up to $300 from the Federal government.

Fifteen percent of the cost of insulating a home, up to a total cost of $2,000, can be deducted from Federal income tax returns.

To qualify, construction of the home to which insulation is added must have been "substantially completed" before April 20, 1977. Other energy-conserving improvements qualify for the tax credit also.

To receive a free copy of the "Home Energy Audit" brochure, #HIG-447, write to the Manville Service Center, 1601 - 23rd Street, Denver, CO 80216.

And to learn more about re-insulating your home, the Manville Corporation offers a free "Homeowner's Guide to Installing Fiber Glass Insulation" brochure, #HIG-505.

This 12-page, illustrated booklet explains how to insulate attics, floors, crawl spaces, walls and cracks around doors and windows.

HOME ENERGY EXPERTS say adding insulation to your attic is the most cost effective way to save money on heating and cooling bills. Manville fiber glass insulation in batts and blankets make do-it-yourself installation quick and easy.

Grow roses with ease

Roses are probably the most popular ornamentals grown in Ontario, says Horticulturist Patricia Harney of the department of horticultural science, University of Guelph.

Admittedly our climate is not ideal for roses because winters are cold and dry, often without adequate snow cover, and summers are hot and either too dry or too humid. Nonetheless, roses can be grown in many parts of the country and the following tips will help even the beginning rose grower.

First, buy the best grade roses from a reputable dealer. Do not be misled by "bargains". Grandiflora roses tend to be somewhat harder and more vigorous than hybrid teas. Cut off any injured or broken roots and prune back most canes to three or four buds.

Plant in a bright sunny location in deep, moderately fertile, well-drained crumbly loam. Dig well-rooted manure, compost or peat moss into the soil as well as a light application of a fertilizer high in phosphorus and potash.

Set each rose bush on a slight mound of soil so the roots will not be damaged and set the graft about two centimetres (one inch) below the soil surface.

Spray regularly, using a suitable fungicide, such as benomyl or captan, and an insecticide like carbaryl, malathion or diazinon every 10 days and following heavy rains to control black spot and insects.

In the late fall, bring in soil to a depth of 20 cm to 25 cm around the plants. When this has frozen, cover with evergreen boughs, if possible.

Add solar screens to make them save energy all year

ousands of homeowners install storm windows doors each year. If you one of those planning on installing storm windows this season, here's a tip on to make sure that the windows you buy will year-round energy savinstead of conventional screens that usually on most storm win- om half of the window. If you can't verify that your storm ows be equipped with a screen made of Sun- en solar screening.

ar-round effectiveness

his way, you'll get a low that will help you the heat inside during er months and outside during summer months.

you'll have a storm ow that will pay for it- much faster in the form er heating and cooling ow much faster? Well, a ey done by a Houston, as, utility company a years ago showed an es- ated pay-back period for rm windows to be from ut 10 to almost 30 years, ending on whether you all them yourself or hire contractor.

The same survey showed solar screens could pay themselves on summer rgy costs alone in two to three years, even if contrac- tor-installed. These screens block up to 70 percent of the sun's heat and glare for "in- stant" comfort on a bright sunny day.

The pay-back on a storm window equipped with a full-length SunScreen solar screen should be considerably shorter than that for a conventional storm window alone.

By "piggy-backing" the two products together, you'll save on installation costs and have a window that is year-round energy ef- ficient.

If full solar radiation is desirable on some windows, for example, south-facing windows, the solar screens can be removed and stored during winter months.

Most energy auditors agree that windows are usually the least energy-effi- cient part of any building. In the winter, heat escapes through and around win- dows to the cold outside.

Since heat always travels in one direction... from warm to cold... the process reverses itself in sum- mer... with outside heat radiating toward the cooler inside. The extra layer of in- sulation provided by Sun- Screen solar screens helps to keep the heat where you want it year-round.

Other benefits

In addition, solar screens work year-round to help protect draperies, carpets and upholstered furniture against fading. SunScreen solar screening comes in several colors and choices so you can enhance the ex- terior of your home.

Solar screens also pro- vide daytime privacy... you can see out, but not in. And, they keep the bugs out when your windows are open.

Since the solar screening is an open mesh, woven of fiberglass, gentle breezes can come in, allowing healthier, natural ventila- tion.

SOLAR SCREENS can make even storm windows more en- ergy efficient and help reduce fading and glare year-round. They can be easily installed on any type or size of window too.

WHITE ITALIAN CERAMIC TILES from Marazzi fit per- fectly in this sunny garden room, and will keep their bright color through years of feet tracking dirt or sand into the house.

Unclutter your kitchen

They are the oversized, deep cabinets that come all the way out flush with your refrigerator door. Then you can use it to store large items that are easily lifted out.

8) Folding furnishings: If you have a rigid kitchen table in a too-small kitchen, and you seldom need it at all size to serve all your family or entertain friends, consider a folding table.

Drop leaf tables snap quickly into place and can condense your table space by half. Drop-down tables fold down flat against the wall like a built-in ironing board. Attractive folding chairs slip out of the way between meals.

9) Window seat: Do you have a kitchen window that is not above a sink or table? Try installing a window seat. Simply take a couple of stock wall cabinets, preferably matching the ones on your walls, and secure them to the floor right beneath the window.

Top with a piece of wood to even off and add cushions for seating. The cabinet underneath gives more storage space, further contributing to the uncluttered look in your kitchen.

Garden room: touch of summer, all year round

Bringing spring and summer into your house year-round can be as easy as watering a plant. Create your own garden room out of an enclosed porch, or turn that empty playroom into a verdant plant nursery.

Start with easy maintenance flooring. A good choice is Italian ceramic tiles which are not scratched by sand and soil, nor stained by splashes of water. Add wicker furniture with bright cushions and throw pillows. Then decorate with cheery wall hangings.

Potted plants can be set on the floor or on wooden or wrought iron tables which will complement the natural feeling. Use cheerful blinds or light curtains at the windows to get maximum sunlight for those plants which need it.

Your new room is set for garden enjoyment no matter what the weather.

Bicentennial tree planted at township school

Pollock and Hastings County Board of Education Chairman Tom Burnside planted a memorial bicentennial tree in front of Madoc Township School.

Chairman Burnside said, "It is a very fitting memorial to our bicentennial celebration."

The public school students and staff were gathered around the tree planting party at 1:30 p.m., to applaud the bicentennial dedication.

Reeve John Irwin said council wanted to plant a tree in memory of the bicentennial, and so applied for one from the provincial government.

"We had to think of a place to plant it where it would survive, then we thought of the young people and decided to plant it here," said Reeve Irwin. "We're going to see whether the tree (white pine) or the kids are going to grow the fastest."

In addressing the gathering, MPP Jim Pollock said that the township council had the best interests of the school children and the people of the township at heart when they decided to plant a tree in memory of Ontario's 200th birthday. Pollock also explained the meaning of the bicentennial logo to the youngsters and said they would all be given buttons.

"When you get out of school, you will meet many visitors from the United States, and one difference they will see is the bicentennial flag," Pollock said to the gathering. "Now you will be able to explain what the logo means."

In all, the bicentennial

Jim Pollock, John Irwin, Mike Hailey (councillor) and township Clerk Bill Lebow.

with the students gathered in a circle watching.

Mary Pigden of Madoc was given an award in appreciation of her many years' service as 4-H leader at a Women's Institute meeting held at Madoc Seniors' apartments last Wednesday night. Seen here is Mary with her plaque.

4-H leader retires

Mary Pigden of Madoc has resigned as 4-H leader, and received a plaque from the Madoc Women's Institute in recognition of her many years of work last Wednesday night.

Sharon Phillips said Mary Pigden was responsible for starting the Madoc 4-H Homemaking Club in 1972 and has been acting either as leader or assistant leader every year from then until 1984. She has lead 21 different clubs.

"The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food sponsors two or three homemaking clubs each year. For personal reasons Mary was able to lead only one club a year, for a few years, but mostly she has been involved in two clubs each year. In 1975 she led three clubs," said Phillips.

Mary has received her 10 year Leaders' Certificate and in 1982, attended the Leaders' Conference.

"We thank you, Mary, for starting 4-H in Madoc and giving the village girls a chance to learn from the very worthwhile organization. We know there have been difficult clubs for you that required so much time that you didn't think you had. We appreciate the effort you made to put 4-H ahead of some of your other activities," concluded Phillips.

Quarter horse has twins and both survive

At 6 p.m. on Thursday, May 10, a colt and a filly were born to a Quarter Horse owned by Gord Johnston of Madoc and they both lived. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were in Vancouver at the time.

The colt was the smallest of the two, and Margaret Charlebois, Rawdon Township, who looked after the horses said it was in danger of dying.

"The colt had to be lifted up every half hour for two nights and three days, then he got up on his own for milk," said Charlebois. "It's rare that twins live."

Charlebois said she has been working with and around horses since she was "knee high to a grasshopper" and never saw a horse have twins. She said she heard of horses having twins, but only the biggest foal of the two lived.

On the night before the foals were born, Charlebois went to the Johnston home to care for the horses while the Johnston's went to Vancouver for a convention. But it wasn't her that first discovered the new born twins. It was 12-year-old Kristin Johnston.

Kristin's sister Jennifer, 14, said that when the new born were discovered, they were still in the after birth, so they immediately called the local veterinarian. Charlebois was not at home.

"I didn't think it was possible when my sister told me it was twins. I didn't believe it at first," said Jennifer.

The mother of twins called "Rosie" is a registered horse. So far, the young ones have not been named.

Junior C lottery held

The first season Junior C Lottery draw was held last Thursday night and the lucky winner of $1,000 was Eldon Grey of RR 3, Madoc. His lucky number was 267.

The MTM Junior C Hockey Lottery is now starting its second year, and all draws are to be held on the third Thursday of every month at Pigden television studio, Madoc. There are 400 tickets in the drum and all winning tickets will be put back in again for another chance at winning the prize. The lottery will last one year.

The Johnston family Quarter Horse usually called "Rosie" gave birth to twins on May 10 and both offspring lived. Now, after a tense few days with the small colt, both the filly and her brother are running around their mother happily. And Rosie seems to like the family situation just fine...

At Madoc Library

BY BARR CHAPPELLE

Lively! Exciting! Informative! Is it possible that these words describe a library? They do in Madoc! Your public library has been alive and well and living on Davidson Street in Madoc for many, many years. Have you stopped in to see what's happening lately? Perhaps we can rekindle your interest by letting you know how and why your library operates, by advertising the services that are available at the library, by tickling your curiosity with new books that are yours for the borrowing, and by announcing programs for all ages.

Reta Spurring, librarian, and Irene Newlands, our new assistant librarian, have been filling the Children's Room recently with delighted youngsters busily putting together a Mother's Day Card Book. On another occasion, the children were well entertained with films. This Saturday, May 26, at 11 a.m., Irene will share a book called Scary Poems for Rotten Kids. If you have a "rotten" kid, or otherwise, send her or her to the library. We guarantee they will return home much "rotten". Irene has some additional surprises planned for that morning also.

Spring seems to be the time of year when some adults plan house renovations and decorating. There. See Library page 12.

CHSC dance held

The Centre Hastings Snowmobile Club held their spring dance on Sat., May 5, 1984, at the Madoc Kiwanis Centre. A terrific crowd of dancers enjoyed the music provided by John Murphy and his music makers.

The club provided the cold plate buffet supper.

During the evening, several prizes were won. The first spot dance was donated by Francis Bosley and Ross Ladies Wear, won by James and Shirley Lahey. The second spot dance prize was donated by Today's Girl and Jerry Morrison, and was won by Mr. and Mrs. Guimond.

The raffle tickets were drawn and first was a 20" TV won by Ken Lavalle #809, Tweed, Ont.; second was a power saw won by Gordon Wood, Bancroft; third prize was a sewing machine won by Sheldon Johanson #623; fourth prize was a $100 bill won by Roddy Peters, 193; fifth prize of $50 was won by Pearl McCaw, Frankford, 2270.

We do appreciate Lela Gabel for decorating the cake with a compass on it for some last snowmobilers. It was lovely.

There are no words of appreciation strong enough for the gratitude we feel to John Murphy and his band; the Madoc Kiwanis Centre; the Merchants of Madoc and Madoc Township, who sponsored the prizes for which were used as door prizes. We also thank everyone who made this evening a success.

We held a potluck supper on May 12, at 6 o'clock at Angus Andrew's garage. We had a beautiful meal and a good turnout. This was to end our year of snowmobile meetings.

On May 16, Meredith Berry, age 10, of Madoc, was given a five pound chocolate bar for winning the Dixie Lee "World's Greatest Mom" contest.

Just before Mother's Day, children in the area were asked to submit stories of 25 words or less on why they thought their mothers are the best.

"There were a lot of good entries—it was hard to pick the winner," said owner John Holgate. Seen in the picture [left to

Quinte Conference

Homosexual ordination report rejected

The Bay of Quinte Conference meeting last Saturday night in Belleville rejected by a narrow margin the national report of the United Church which would have permitted the ordination and commissioning of self-declared homosexuals. It also rejected further study of the current report at voted 80 per cent in favor of a new church-wide study of the same issue, provided that any new task force appointed was representative of the United Church both geographically and theologically.

Charges of bias were levelled against the members of the current task force.

A resolution rejecting any further study of the subject was defeated about 60/40.

Many delegates voting against the current national report emphasized that they were accepting of persons whose orientation was homosexual while opposed to them being ordained or commissioned by the United Church.

Opinions voiced at the microphones showed a wide variety of viewpoints. Some spoke of homosexuality as a sin to be forgiven. Others saw homosexuality as a lifestyle which is given, not chosen. Their votes showed that a majority of delegates were not ready for ordination and commissioning but refused to turn their backs on the issue. Several delegates, with differing viewpoints, felt a new study would come out on their side.

Positions were strongly held by those who spoke in the debate, with those who differed obviously listening to each other. This came out of a study process in 20 'class meetings' in which delegates had studied the Bible and related it to the various issues coming before the Conference meeting.

In an earlier debate on Friday this controversial United Church report from the national Division of Ministry Personnel and Education had a varied reception from lay and clergy delegates alike.

The report recommends that self-declared homosexuals be eligible for ordination or commissioning, if they pass the same criteria as laid down for heterosexuals.

Opinions on the ordination question apparently ranged from "I don't know," to "No, never," through "No," to "Yes, if celibate," "Yes, but not yet" and "Yes, now."

Rev. George Richardson, Perth, chaired the debate. He pointed to the misunderstandings and tensions in the church over the report.

"The sexual drive is so strong that every culture uses powerful sanctions to ensure that sexual urges are so channeled as to promote stable human relationships. Such sanctions become internalized," he said. "We do not receive these taboos rationally and are, therefore, not accustomed to thinking rationally about them. They engender strong feelings which make it not easy to talk about them."

"It is when a generally held taboo gets challenged that we have to apply our minds and learn to think and talk rationally about it," he said.

He and Rev. Jim Beal of Lindsay guided the delegates through group discussion of Biblical, ethical, justice factors in the report, as well as concern for the welfare of the church.

No self-declared homosexual spoke in Friday's or Saturday's debates. Only one person referred to themselves as heterosexual.

Dave Callaghan from Bancroft said we need to go no further than the story of Noah and the ark where two animals of each breed were taken aboard. After the flood God commanded them to go forth and multiply and replenish the earth.

In discussing the relationship between one's lifestyle and one's fitness for ministry, one group said that 'accepting' a lifestyle and 'promoting' it were two different things.

Rev. Earl Taft of Harrow-smith wondered if having a homosexual minister is the best way to promote heterosexuality which, he said, most Christians feel is inherent in the Christian gospel. This is not meant to be condemnatory of the homosexual person but points out that the ministry should promote a role model.

Anderson McKee of Renfrew Presbytery said the report was biased in favor of the homosexual.

A delegate said that ordination of homosexuals is not a justice issue, but a moral, biblical and ethical one. "We know that homosexuals have suffered throughout history, especially in Hitler's Germany," he said. "It's going a long way to suggest that because homosexuals have been mistreated, and we certainly wouldn't disagree with that, the next step is that we ordain them."

Another delegate complained that "the church hasn't given enough time to St. James' CWL meeting was held on April 24, 1984. Some of the highlights of interest included an auction which is to take place at the Moffina residence on Wednesday, June 27. The CWL will be arranging a refreshment booth, a bake sale table and items that anyone wishes to donate for the auction would be appreciated. This is a great opportunity for our organization to work together and raise funds.

The Diocesan CWL convention will take place in Kingston at Queen's University May 26-27. There will be three representatives from our Parish Council. In conclusion of the activities, at the convention, there will be a dinner on Sunday and for members wishing to attend the CWL

Experience for urban youth

Junior Agriculturalists

Ontario's urban youth will have the opportunity to experience farm life again this summer.

The Junior Agriculturalist Program will place around 215 youths on farms throughout Ontario. The Junior Agriculturalists will learn through practical experience about working with livestock, operating machinery and general farm labor. Living with a farm family will give the urban youth an insight into a way of life similar in some ways, yet different in others, to his own.

If you are interested in being a host farmer, please contact your local Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food Office.

The Junior Agriculturalist Program will place approximately 13 students in the Counties of Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac this summer. ### Lakefield Youth Soccer Club

Lakefield youth soccer players are reminded to show up at the playing field even though rain may be falling prior to the game. The assigned referee will make the decision to play or postpone. Games are often played in light to moderate rain. All games start at 6:30 p.m. Rain was not a problem when the Lakefield Pee-wees took on the Phantoms last Tuesday night although the winds may have stiffened a few joints. After just one practice the Pee-wees showed a lot of promise but the Phantoms slipped by them 3-0. Comprising this year's Pee-wee team, under coach Harry Stegenga are: Scott Reid, Jim Wilson, Neil Davison, Jason Maxwell, Doug Hinan, Colin Booth, Andrew Robertson, Shaun Prikker, Frazer Smith-Ryan, Brent Collyer, Jason Myles, Stephen Underwood, Scott Pind, Perry Lee and Ty Clark.

Wednesday night's Bantam game against the Magnets was cancelled due to Musichord.

The sixth annual Norwood Lions Club White Water Race was held last Sunday in the best weather ever.

The race is a two part competition. In the first part, four person crews must paddle across the Norwood

Pond under the timer's clock. Then each crew must ride their raft down the slipway and into the pool below. The crowds turn out each year to watch the competitors get wet. They are never disappointed.

Eastern Ontario games for physically disabled

Everything is in readiness for this year's Eastern Ontario Games for the Physically Disabled, scheduled for May 25, 26, 27, at the Napanee and District Secondary School. The organizing committee, under the chairmanship of Ian Ricketts, is putting the final touches to their plans, to ensure that athletes and spectators alike have a memorable time in Napanee.

Events will be kicked off with the registration on Friday evening, May 25, in the Napanee arena. During this time, all athletes, support staff, volunteers and organizers will have an opportunity to get acquainted and entertainment will be provided by the Napanee and District Secondary School Stage Band. Registration commences at 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

On Saturday, May 26, athletes will meet for breakfast at the NDSS cafeteria at 7 a.m. Following breakfast the official ceremonies will begin at 9 a.m. with the lighting of the games torch, and official greetings from Mayor Lorne Smart and local dignitaries. Competition will begin with track and field events at 9:30 a.m.

A break in the competition will take place at 12 to 1 p.m. for lunch and events will continue with track and field events along with archery and table tennis.

Saturday's events will be topped off with a dinner and dance at the local Lions Hall at 7 p.m. Tickets are available to the public and are subject to availability.

On Sunday, May 27, the day's events will again begin with breakfast and the swimming competitions will begin at 10 a.m. at W.J. Henderson Pool, in Amherstview. Shooting events are scheduled for 9:30 a.m. at NDSS followed by lunch break at 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., followed by weightlifting, snooker, and bocce, in the afternoon.

To wrap up the weekend of events, an awards dinner will be held at 5 p.m. at the Lions Hall. Local politicians, MPP Jim Taylor, MP William Vankoughnet, Mayor Lorne Smart and other dignitaries will be in attendance to present the trophies to the winning athletes. The public is invited to attend and once again tickets will be available subject to availability.

The Eastern Ontario Games for the Physically Disabled will be an event which everyone will want to attend. Admission to all track and field, swimming and shooting events is free. Tickets are available for the social events.

Another softball season starts

The new MTM Hurricanes baseball club was formed this year under the leadership of Richard Chapman and Larry Bertrand. The boys, all under age 18, are presently playing in the Hastings-Addington Ball League, but will enter in the

The pause that refreshes

Some write it, some read it. Roger Gillespie, Editor of the Lakefield Chronicle does both as he rests between heats in the Lakefield Backhouse races held over the Victoria Day weekend.

Drinking drivers

The Ontario Provincial Police will be on a full-scale alert this summer for drinking drivers according to a joint statement made by Ontario Solicitor General George Taylor and OPP Commissioner Archie Ferguson.

The summer months of June, July and August are the worst time for accidents on Ontario highways. Deaths arising from traffic accidents also hit their highest counts in the same months.

Accident figures have been tumbling steadily over the past five years, but according to Mr. Taylor, it is not the time for complacency.

"The OPP will be using a variety of different tactics to reduce impaired driving during the summer," said Mr. Taylor. "The portable breath-testing device and the 12-hour suspension will be used to their fullest."

In a recent message to all 4,200 OPP members, OPP Commissioner Archie Ferguson said that the population in the OPP jurisdiction increases dramatically with the influx of visitors in the critical months of fine weather.

The OPP will be making a two-pronged attack on the drinking and driving problem. Enforcement of the Criminal Code will remain at the same high level as in the past few months, and a publicity blitz will be under taken so that visitors to vacation areas will not be taken unawares by the positive enforcement being done by the OPP.

Commissioner Ferguson said, "Let me make it plain. We don't want people drinking and driving. We don't have to put our lives in jeopardy by tolerating this sort of irresponsible behavior."

Solicitor General Taylor

said, "This government is committed to reducing impaired driving. The police forces of Ontario will be doing their part by taking positive measures to convince the drinker to stay off the road."

The OPP now has 585 ALERT breath-testing machines which can be used to test drivers at the side of the road. If a driver fails the test, he is taken to the local OPP detachment for a breathalyzer test. A 'warn' reading on the machine will result in a driver's licence being suspended for 12 hours. Last year, the OPP used the licence suspension procedure 10,000 times.

Wintario players

Wintario players who scratch and win instant Winfall prizes of five free tickets will now have a full year to collect their prizes at participating retailers, says D. Norman Morris, president of the Ontario Lottery Corporation.

"We extended the claiming period because some of our players found it difficult to redeem their prize under the previous one-week limit," Morris said.

Ross Lees (left) and Glenn Balsom look like they're actually having fun in the Lakefield Victoria Days Media Outhouse Race held in Lakefield last Wednesday. They're smiling despite the hard work because The Peterborough Examiner is trailing them and eating dust. In the final heat The Lakefield Chronicle team lost out to CHEX.

A celebration of the family

The Government of Ontario has proclaimed May as Family Unity Month in recognition of the many contributions the family makes to the quality of community life. The province-wide event encourages everyone to recommit themselves to the concept of the family by spending more time with family members.

"This month-long celebration is a perfect opportunity for all of us to reflect on the importance of the family to our well-being," said the Honorable Gordon H. Dean, Provincial Secretary for Social Development. "The preservation of cultural, religious and familial traditions begins with the family and provides a strong foundation for our country's future."

During May, municipalities, religious organizations, schools and community groups are being encouraged to organize special activities which focus attention on the family. In previous years various communities have hosted family day nature hikes, tree planting ceremonies, picnics, outdoor concerts and symposiums on the family. "By taking part in these and other celebrations it is hoped that family members will realize and appreciate the benefits that abound in family relationships and ties," said Mr. Dean. "That is why we have chosen 'Rediscover Each Other' as this year's Family Unity Month theme."

Hall in Marmora with Club 87 hosting. President Helen Hardy welcomed all. A potluck luncheon was served with Mr. Hardy saying Grace.

At 1:30, Wilfred Sager, President of Zone 18, opened the meeting by Thanking Club 87. Zone 18 prayer was read by Alma Blackburn. Minutes of the March 5th and April 9 meetings were read by Secretary Haddie Bailey.

Mrs. Lavina Hamilton, chairperson for July 5 picnic, asked all clubs to let her know how many would like the luncheon (cost $5 each) and if your club will help with the entertainment. Mr. Ford, of the Senior Council of Kingston, was guest speaker. He outlined the services for Seniors: day care, visiting shut-ins, transportation to medical appointments and more, even a widow's club. This service is funded by grants.

Mr. Lorne Williams will conduct a workshop June 5, at Club 105 Trenton, assisted by Jane Leach of Toronto.

Haddie Bailey, Secretary, and Clarence Whitmore, Treasurer, were elected as delegates to represent Zone 18 at the Seniors' Convention in Windsor, Aug. 5-9. Zone 18 would like to have bus trips one day or more. Bring your suggestions to the next meeting.

The newsletter was debated as some members think it too costly and news too late. It will be continued until the end of the term.

A suggestion box will be at the next meeting. All club members are asked to bring any suggestion or ideas.

Next meeting, June 19, at Senior Club 105, 61 Bay St., Trenton, at 1:30 p.m. President Jack Graham welcomes all members.

The ultimate survival

BY ARLIN HACKMAN

It's been said that the real armageddon, that will occur long after humanity has baked itself in a nuclear oven, will involve a titanic battle between cockroaches and gonorrhea. That's about as grim a view of life (or death) on earth as I've ever heard. And it may be premature to predict that evolution will discard human intelligence in this way. But the scenario hardly overdraws one fact: the awesome survival skills of the humble roach.

Despite its venerable age, the cockroach enjoys little more than our grudging respect. There are, at base, good reasons for this. Roaches do expose us to salmonella, typhoid fever and other nasty disorders. And it's true that they thrive in places we'd rather not live in. At the same time, like all "bad" animals, insects and plants, they're victimized to a degree by misconceptions. I'll grant you there's every reason to prefer the company of the family dog, or to be inspired by the beauty of a butterfly. But the fact is that roaches, at least the oriental, German and American strains that followed us indoors, are proliferating because of our habits.

In contrast to the common housefly, roaches on their own are clean, preening themselves the way cats do. So they become a health hazard largely by circulating our own filth. They don't need much of it to get by either, being able to survive on things like grease and wallpaper paste. Reproduction is equally secure. The female needs only one fertilization to produce egg capsules of 20 to 40 offspring and she can produce as many as 7 capsules in a lifetime.

Of course, the real issue that remains for most people, is how to get rid of the little critters. There's a lot you can do before engaging in all-out chemical warfare. Spring cleaning, and regular follow-up in one step. According to Janet Avery, a Toronto Public Health official and authority on the subject, roaches are also repulsed by such common substances as crushed garlic or bay leaves. More adventurous people have resorted to lizards. Other predators such as nematodes, as well as hormones which cause heart failure, are being used experimentally by scientists. Construction techniques including the spraying of diatomaceous earth in nooks and crannies of buildings, hold greater promise in the near future according to Ms. Avery.

The fact remains that whatever weapons we develop, peaceful co-existence is as close as many of us urban dwellers will ever get to winning the war with roaches. And unless they get overcrowded, roaches will keep their distance, using their sensitive antennae to smell our approach.

OFA

Ont. Budget ignores farmers' needs

The provincial budget blatantly ignores the immediate, critical needs of the farm sector, the president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA) said in Toronto today.

"This budget has no news as far as agriculture is concerned," Harry Pelissero said. The money for the programs outlined in the Treasurer Larry Grossman's budget, like the property tax rebate program, the Beginning Farmers Program and the red, meat initiatives, was all committed well before the budget was released. "The 16 per cent increase in the budget for agriculture is substantial. But it's extra dollars for existing programs."

"We see that the Treasurer is trying to deal with the long term concerns in the economy. But he has totally ignored the urgent needs of a growing group of farmers. They're in severe financial difficulty because of present economic conditions."

Pelissero said the OFA brought the needs of this group to the attention of the government "on many occasions." He said, "It's obvious that Mr. Grossman has chosen not to respond to these needs."

Pelissero said many red meat producers are among those having the most financial trouble. They have been waiting for a new stabilization plan. "Grossman said progress is being made in negotiating a plan. Unfortunately, for some farmers, that progress has not been good enough," Pelissero said. "They have needed help for about two years. And all they get is a message saying negotiations are continuing."

Pelissero said since the government's main concern is youth employment and job training, he will be meeting with the Minister of Agriculture to make sure that some of the programs will be available to young people who want to get into farming, and for farmers who want to be retrained.

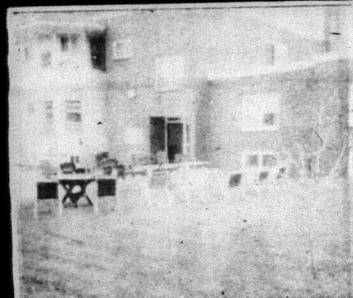

Pelissero said he was "disappointed" that no special programs were created to respond to the immediate demand for affordable credit but added he was encouraged by the government's commitment to agri-bonds.

The OFA originally brought the agri-bond concept to the government's attention. In this budget speech, Grossman said Timbrell is taking the lead to consolidate national credit programs under a Canada-wide agri-bond program. "That's a positive initiative," Pelissero said. "The OFA will meet with the ministry immediately and ensure that agri-bonds become a reality."

Farmers who incorporate will get some relief as well, Pelissero said. They will be exempt from Ontario corporate income tax for the first three years after incorporation.

Christian Youth Crusader awards

Christian Youth Crusaders (CYC) children's club celebrated the achievements of the CYCers' on Sat., May 12, at the Wesleyan and Free Methodist Church, Elgin Street in Madoc. A banquet was followed by the Honor Council program at which awards were presented.

The Tatton family from Inkerman, Ontario, and the Scott Sisters were special guests for the Honor Council and the anniversary services at the church on Sunday. Rev. Tatton, his wife, Rose, and their three young daughters plan to leave in August for their first term of missionary service in Haiti.

Christian Youth Crusaders is a club designed to help children develop in every way - physically, spiritually, mentally and socially. There are three age divisions: Joybells, age 3-5; Heralds, grade 1-3; and Cadets, grades 4-6. Heralds and Cadets work to earn awards which are presented at Honor Councils in January and May. Special events are planned as a group and in individual squadrons throughout the year. This year's calendar included a snow party, hayride, Hallo-wen party, missions emphasis, hikes and an exciting contest between the boys and girls, the winners enjoying a pizza party. Summer camps are also available.

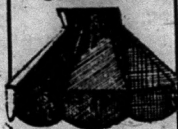

This year, three Grade six boys received the John Wesley Medallion, the highest CYC award. To qualify for this the CYCers must be in Grade Six, have received the highest Herald award in Grade Three and the highest Cadet pin in Grade Six, indicating all of the "required" pins and badges have been earned. Congratulations to Scott Holmes, Dale Sager and Shawn Wood on this achievement.

Any children from the community are welcome to attend CYC which meets Wednesday evenings, September to May. Mrs. Carolyn Mack is the CYC Director and would be happy to answer any questions regarding CYC.

'Chicken Hut' opens near Madoc

A new family business opened between Madoc and Marmora on Highway 7 recently called "Chicken Hut".

"This is a family business. We're just working to help my dad," says Gary Barker, second oldest son to owner Lorne Barker.

The Chicken Hut opened for business on May 17 (Thursday), and boasts a menu of barbecued chicken and ribs, a bake shop, fruit and vegetables, and Pro gasoline in the pumps out front. Customers can take out or eat in, says Gary.

Gary explains that his dad bought the land and building two years ago with the intentions of opening a business, but then a year ago fell with a stroke and became paralysed on one side.

"He had a stroke about a year ago, so the family decided to build it (the business) for him to give him something to enjoy in life," Gary says.

There are a total of eight children in the Barker family, and they all participated in transforming the shell of a building on the site into a warm, nicely decorated restaurant and bake shop. It took only two weeks for the family to do most of the work.

"My dad will be working mostly in the fruit and vegetable end of the business," explains Gary. "It is pretty hard when you're paralyzed down the left side, but Barkers are ones who won't say no just about anything."

Gary says that his wife Suzanne and mother Doreen do the home baking in the bake shop. His sister Barb works as a waitress, his brother David helps in the kitchen on weekends, his sister Pat also works part-time as a waitress. General clean-up is done with the help of Nancy, Doug and Gerald. Sister Cheryl gave them the secret recipe for the sauce.

The Barker family is originally from Lindsay, Ontario, but now half have moved into Madoc permanently.

"Myself and my wife have lived in Madoc and Marmora for 11 years," says full time Chicken Hut employee Gary Barker.

Before coming to help with the family business, Gary worked as property manager in Toronto for three years, and before that owned his own flower shop in the area.

"Our family has always been in business," he relates.

The business hours of the Chicken Hut are: from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekdays, and 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. on weekends.

The Chicken Hut recently opened on Highway 7 between Madoc and Marmora, boasts barbecued ribs and chicken in the restaurant, and a pair of giant chickens outside serving gas to customers. Giant chickens certainly attract a few stares from passers-by.

the Village of Madoc, but the Townships of Madoc, Elzevir, and Huntingdon, one of our aims is to, in some small way, help further unite our community; for in unity and with co-operation a community gains strength and pride.

Library hours: Tuesday, 5:30 - 7:50 p.m.; Wednesday, 1-5 p.m.; Friday, 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and 3:30 - 7:50 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Farewell party held

A community farewell party was held for George and Evelyn Palmer at Eldorado Township Hall on May 11, 1984.

Rev. Don McEwen was host for the evening. A lovely duet was sung by Gloria and Mrs. Gwen McEwen, followed by a social hour.

The presentation was given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blakely on behalf of all George and Evelyn's friends and neighbors.

After receiving gifts, they both spoke, thanking everyone for making the evening so special. The evening closed with a delightful lunch prepared by the ladies of the community.

Around Madoc

Alternative classroom voted down by Bd. of Ed.

The News Argus has been following the efforts of a number of local parents in their attempts to develop an alternative classroom situation within the Hastings County Board area for about the last year. At last week's meeting of the Hastings County Board of Education all of their concerns about the educational process that their children are experiencing within the public school system were ignored when the Board voted down their proposal to develop this different atmosphere of learning within the school system as it now exists.

The main fears expressed by Board members in reaching this decision were that (a) they did not see how you could control and ensure equal access to the classes, (b) parents could become involved in the regular school system as it now exists, (c) the development of such a class would fragment the school system, and (d) it would effect the number of teaching hours available in the schools from which the students were taken for this alternate class. Presently each student is entitled to .04 of a teacher and the Board does not want to see that ratio adversely altered.

Kay Manderville, Trustee for the City of Belleville and Ralph Swann, the Trustee for Thurlow were the only two members of the Board to vote in favor of the development of such a classroom where parental participation would have been a main feature.

Approximately twenty such classrooms are presently operating in the City of Toronto and Kingston has had such a program running for a number of years. Hastings County Trustees do not yet appear to be ready for any such approach to education.

Following is a copy of a paper handed out by one of the concerned parents at a meeting held in Stirling a few nights after the Board's decision was handed down. On it is outlined the view of the existing system of education as many of them view it.

The 20th Century has seen tremendous changes in the workplace. How would you feel about working in the following situation? You have just been hired and handed the list of workplace regulations.

1. Talking during working hours is not permitted unless you are spoken to by your supervisor. (Studies have indicated that workers talk only about non-work topics. Socialization will take place outside the work area.)

2. Further to #1: it has been observed that some co-workers have tried in the past to collaborate about how to do a job. This is not permitted. (Supervisors know best how to do a job. If workers understood anything they would be supervisors.)

3. Workers are permitted washroom privileges during two fifteen-minute breaks and lunchtime. (Studies have indicated that our employees exhibit better than average bladder and bowel control.)

4. Workers will take breaks when the bell is rung. Do not argue with the supervisor that your task is almost finished; just go. (The company demands obedience and just as important, work organization is a supervisor's job.)

5. The company has provided breaks so workers can leave the workplace to go into the yard and under supervision, participate actively in all manner of competitive and uncompetitive. (This is workers' socialization time.)

6. Daily and weekly evaluations of workers' performance will be based on what each worker has done incorrectly, not correctly during a set amount of time. (Speed and perfection are of utmost importance; understanding the work is the responsibility of the supervisor.)

7. The results of these worker evaluations will be prominently displayed in the workroom for comparison by co-workers, supervisors, etc. (Studies have shown that the worker consistently rated as the 'best' for the company enjoys a strong feeling of self-worth.)

8. Recently, some worker impertinence has been noticed so the company has had to add another rule. Workers are not to bother

Installation of our executive officers will take place this month and they are: President, Franklin LeMoine; Vice President, Julie Rivers; Treasurer, Marilyn Godbout; and Secretary, Irene Moffina.

Our next meeting will be May 22nd, and we encourage our members to attend and bring a guest as your individual ideas and varied talents contribute to make a more active and rewarding evening.

supervisors with information that workers might think is important to the workplace. (Our supervisors are older and understand more about workers than workers do.)

Quinte Bull Sale a first time success

The first Quinte Bull Test Station Sale proved to be a success with a good crowd and active bidding despite poor weather. The bulls were selected from the 73 completing test representing seven beef breeds. The top selling bull of the sale was a purebred Charolais which was also one of two bulls tied for the top gain in the station. The bull consigned by Dr. Keith Harrison of Roslin was purchased by Harold Buckley for $1,905. The second high selling bull was a full Maine-Anjou consigned by W.D. Caverly of Madoc which sold to Doug Farrell for $1,650. The 24 bulls representing six breeds averaged $1,149.

The Quinte Bull Test Station is a major project of the Hastings and Prince Edward Cattleman's Association.

Auctioneer Service was provided courtesy of Bob Sullivan of Plainfield who is well known in eastern Ontario. As a strong supporter of the cattle industry he donated his time and equipment to help get this first sale started.

The station holds 80 bulls and 75 completed the test. Twenty-four of the top indexing bulls were selected.

Breed averages were as follows: six Simmental bulls at $1,188; 5 Maine-Anjou bulls at $1,145; 4 Hereford bulls at $1,031; 5 Charolais bulls at $1,290; 2 Blonde D'Aquitaine at $1,050 and 2 Limousin bulls at $1,025.

Two trophies donated by the Belleville Purina dealer were presented by Mr. Bruce Thompson to Dr. Keith Harrison, a Charolais breeder and Mr. Keith Gilbert, a Maine-Anjou breeder for the top indexing bull. Both bulls tied for the high index of 139 and an average daily gain of 4.75 lbs.

John Field, Beef Specialist for OMAF who covers a large area from the Peterborough office commented: "There has been excellent support for this project since it was planned and put in place. Now the 'proof is in the pudding'." In particular it was encouraging to have the support of local buyers for the high indexing bulls in the sale despite the extremely wet weather. Excellent results were achieved in comparison to other test station sales currently in progress.

Integrated program needed in soil conservation

"Effective soil conservation programs require concerted action through education, research, technical assistance and financial incentives." This was the recommendation of the brief presented by the Ontario Institute of Agrologists to the Senate Committee hearing on Soil Conservation.

Soil erosion is a serious problem. A study by the Institute of Pedology and the Ministry of Agriculture and Food places annual soil erosion costs in Ontario at $74 million. This figure does not take into account the cost of soil degradation from compaction and other practices that reduce soil quality.

Responsibility for soil conservation programs is split among various government ministries, conservation authorities and other groups. Establishing overall authority and leadership will be a major step in implementing effective soil conservation programs in Ontario.

The Institute does not favor legislation to enforce soil conservation practices. It is our view that effective leadership combined with the program recommendations already stated will be the best means to achieve desired results.

Treasurer Larry Grossman's first budget is a fraud.

He says he's committed to "economic transformation". And then he spends one-third of 1 per cent of revenues on the programs he says will do it. The new money in his highly touted BILD program is less than 50 per cent of what the government takes in for licence plate fees alone! Some commitment to economic transformation!

Ironically, the Treasurer's own budget admits his failure. It predicts exactly the same unemployment rate for the year that we have now—9.1 per cent—despite all he's pretending to do.

Middle-income people in Ontario pay higher personal taxes than anywhere in Canada except Quebec. Mr. Grossman's "economic transformation" won't touch that. Since 1980-81 personal income taxes have nearly doubled, from $5.578 to $6.932 billion. In the same period, corporation income taxes have dropped by $17 million. And the 2,831 people who made more than $50,000 and paid no taxes at all have nothing to fear from Mr. Grossman. He's not making the tax system fairer.

Stripped of fancy titles and fudged figures, the real facts of this budget are:

nothing to improve pensions, or provide early retirement, for older workers; investment in education doesn't even match inflation;

tion;

investment in colleges and universities goes down in real terms; investment in the environment is down $19 million;

single elderly people will remain below the poverty line, and they'll lose their home heating tax credit as well;

investment in energy—except for the insatiable Hydro—is down spending on tourism and recreation is down $14 million; spending on Northern Affairs is down by $29 million over the level of two years ago.

Who, but Larry Grossman, could—in practically the same breath—announce a consolidation of youth employment programs by establishing at least five new ones? It doesn't much matter anyway. Nearly 170,000 unemployed youth aren't going to be working or going to school when the average spending on each is about $350.

The Treasurer's version of restraint means that corporations in Ontario pay less in income tax than people do in OHIP premiums.

His sanctimonious lecture on restraint to local government and school boards—whose funding is continually cut by the Tories—isn't matched by similar threats to government aid agencies, or Hydro bureaucrats, or Tory pollsters.

This budget seriously misunderstands, or ignores, the reality of our economy. By grossly overestimating the so-called recovery, the Treasurer has done the people of Ontario no favor. Hundreds of thousands of people in Ontario will remain without jobs. The Tories continue to tax those who can least afford to pay—low and middle-income families—instead of the wealthy.

Larry Grossman hasn't set off in any bold new directions, but he's good at the usual new titles and statistical tricks that have become the hallmark of Tory budgets.

Square dancers celebrate wedding

Fifty members of Frankford Square Dance Club attended the four o'clock wedding of Gayle Turner and Michael Summers at Frankford United Church on Saturday, May 5. Following the ceremony, the dancers, attired in their Ontario colors, ladies wearing royal blue skirts with applied white, trilliums and white tops and the men in royal blue trousers and white shirts, lined each side of the church entrance. The bride and groom came out and walked down the corridor of dancers to a waiting square where they danced to "Summer Sounds" while the guests gathered around.

Square dancers then went to the Masonic Hall where hors-d'oeuvres and punch were served.

Eighty-four square dancers were the guests of Herbert and Nellie Smith who were celebrating their forty-fifth wedding anniversary. Following grace, said by Ruth Margetson, a delicious meal of Chinese food was brought in by the Smith's daughter and son-in-law, Eleanor and Bill Davidson.

Toasts to the happy couple were proposed by George Striker and Eleanor Bailey. Best wishes and appreciation were expressed by club members Abel Parson, Ralph Margetson and Allyn Finkle.

A blue hydrangea plant and a monetary gift were presented to Hebert and Nellie by Betty Waddell.

The guests of honor cut their anniversary cake and served it.

After an hour of dancing, the dancers went to the wedding reception of Gayle and Michael Summers at AMDU Officers Club. They danced with and for the entertainment of the wedding guests, thus concluding a full day of fun and fellowship.

If the Shoe Fits

Can poor fit be responsible for Athlete's Foot?

In a study conducted by N.Y.U. School of Medicine, it was concluded that foot injuries such as blisters, caused by ill-fitting footwear, may lead to fungus infections.

One hundred volunteers (some whose feet were kept in a healthy condition prior to testing, and others whose feet were deliberately injured) were used in the study. The volunteers were subjected to direct contact with the fungus that causes athlete's foot. Many of the men and women with injured feet contracted the infection. It was found that athlete's foot failed to develop in any of the 23 uninjured volunteers. This is just one more evidence of the importance of correctly fitting footwear, and of proper foot care.

Crowe Bridge Conservation Area

The 10.5 hectare (26 acre) Crowe Bridge Conservation Area is bisected by a township road which separates the day-use area from the camping area. Parks gates open Fri., May 18, 1984. This lovely spot is leased each year from the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority.

The day-use area has a popular swimming area bounded by a limestone ledge leading into a weir dam. The weir was first erected by the Trent Canal Authority to measure inflow from the Crowe River. In 1966, the weir was renovated as a project of the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority and now serves a recreational function.

The camping area consists of 33 back-in campsites. The sites are located near the scenic river or on a hill.

Fishing is permitted, within provincial regulations, on the camping side only as to leave the swimming area clear of hooks and lines. Fish species present are Northern Pike and Pickerel.

So why not plan a visit? Camp over the weekend or just have a picnic.

For more information, contact the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority Administration Office, Box 416, Marmora, Ontario, K0K 2M0, (613) 472-3137 or visit the site during the season.

McGIBBON - In loving memory of a dear son,

Robbie, who passed away

May 25, 1983.

We often sit & think of him.

When we are all alone.

For memory is the only friend.

That grief can call its own.

Like ivy on the withered oak.

When all other things decay.

Our love for him will still be green.

And never fade away.

Sadly missed by Mom, Dad &

Anne.

Jr. Women's annual spring conference

The annual spring conference for Junior Women's Institute for District I was held at Solena on April 10th, hosted by the Village People.

Marilyn Sewell, the speaker for the morning session, spoke on "Stress and how it affects safety at home and at work". Stress will always be a part of our lives but with a proper attitude, it can be controlled. It is important to have goals in our life either short-term or for the future. Most of all, it is important to communicate with others to express our feelings.

A delicious lunch of

assorted casseroles and pies was enjoyed by everyone.

Debbie Johnston, representing Lishman Limited, introduced us to the technique of knitting with furs. Paula Lishman, a Canadian designer in the Fur Industry, has spent the last fifteen years experimenting and developing new techniques in everything from vegetable dying to knitting leather and then the knit fur. Debbie displayed fur jackets and hats from Paula's collection and some of our members had an opportunity to model a jacket of their choice.

Barbara Weese, ROS specialist, spoke on the Ten Commandments of a Good Shopper. Read ads carefully, comparison shop and don't buy on impulse were some of the tips discussed.

Refreshments were served to adjourn the conference. Hastings Junior Women's Institute will host the next spring conference to be held April 15th, 1985.

Turner historical plaque unveiling

The Heritage Branch of the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture for the Province of Ontario has arranged for the unveiling of a historical plaque in memory of Elder Asa Turner on Sunday, May 27, 1984, at three o'clock in the afternoon at Sidney Baptist Church, RR 4, Stirling.

Elder Asa Turner, an American Baptist Minister is said to be the first ordained Baptist Minister to preach in Upper Canada. In the late 1700s Elder Turner went up the Moira River and held services in the pioneer homes of Thurlow and Sidney Townships. The historian, Caniff, says that when Elder Asa Turner began to hold services in the district north of Prince Edward County in the late 1790s one of his preaching stations was at Gilbert's house in Sidney.

Along with preaching, Elder Turner took an active part in the life of the community as the record book of Sidney Township indicates. In 1807 Asa Turner was pathmaster of the Fifth Concession of Sidney Township, and later was one of the three road commissioners of Hastings County who laid out a new road from the second concession of Sidney to the front road of Thurlow. In 1810 he was poundkeeper. He moved back to the United States in 1811 to accept a pastorate in Scipio, N.Y.

Welsh Male Choir at Belleville Auditorium - June 2, 7 p.m.

The internationally acclaimed Froncsyllte Male Voice Choir of Wales, with special guest, Glyn Evans, will perform in Belleville's Centennial Auditorium, on Saturday, June 2nd, at 7 p.m. This gala benefit is being staged to raise funds for the inaugural season of Quinte Summer Music.

The Welsh Froncsyllte Choir was first formed in 1947 by men of Froncsyllte returning from war. Under the direction of Lloyd

Edwards the choir quickly established its reputation through competitions in the National Eisteddfod. In 1966, 1968, 1973 and 1976 the Choir achieved second place in the Llangollen International eisteddfod, one of Europe's major music festivals. The Choir has toured extensively throughout Canada, Belgium, France and West Germany. It is widely recognized as Wales' finest Male Choir. Joining the Froncsyllte Choir will be Canadian tenor, Glyn Evans. Mr. Evans, a native of Wales, has one of Canada's most beautiful and cultured voices. He continues to perform with leading choral and orchestral ensembles throughout Canada, and has sung several operatic roles with the Canadian Opera Company and opera companies in Winnipeg, Vancouver, Stratford, Ottawa and Victoria.

The Froncsyllte Choir, joined by Mr. Evans, will perform one performance only in Belleville before

study the report, like the next five to ten years, to gain more information on the subject before deciding official policy. One delegate said he thinks of homosexuality as a state of incompleteness.

Hilary Scrutton of Queensboro said that, if medical science can help homosexuals to be normal, we should await the results of medical research before voting on the report.

Another delegate questioned the view that homosexuality cannot be "cured". He felt that by ordaining homosexuals the church would be affirming homosexuality as an acceptable state and thereby be turning its back on further research into how they could be helped into "wholeness" as accepted by society.

Another delegate said the report makes him feel "belonged" — like a "strange creature" for his views that heterosexuality is a norm.

CHSS Martial Arts News:

Walther receives Ni-Dan rank

Local martial artists were treated to a return visit by Kai Shin Karate Sensei Monty Guest of Toronto recently at CFB Trenton.

A group of students from Frankford, Stirling and Madoc attended the seminar which dealt with Karate power through breathing and stances. Sensei Guest also gave the students an idea of what training during the early days of Canadian Karate was like under Masami Tsuruoka, considered to be the "Father of Canadian Karate". At the end of the seminar, Sensei Guest awarded Ni-Dan rank in Karate to his student, Bob Walther of Madoc.

Four CHSS Martial Arts

Club Yellow Belts will be trying for their Orange Belt in Karate and Jiu Jitsu at the end of May - Brian Armstrong, Dave Brooks, Barry Lewis and Greg Rosnuk. The four represent an average of a year's training at the Yellow Belt level.

Kubudo - the study of ancient martial arts weaponry, primarily Okinawan and Japanese - will become an optional part of the intermediate courses for students with excellent basic techniques and strong character. Already, the Orange Belts are working with the Bo, or staff, and in future the most sincere students will learn techniques of the Sai, Tonfa and Nunchaku (plastic).

The study of Kubudo, properly undertaken in the more traditional format, represents a "moving meditation" and has very little to do with the grunt and groan image portrayed in the movies, or for that matter, the "nunchuks" kids think about when they imagine two sticks swinging about their heads in desperate fury.

Local martial artists should not forget the Kai Shin Open tournament in Mississauga, the Kai Shin work-out in Toronto, the Steve Menardo Memorial Youth Champs in Oakville and the Trent Valley Karate Club Camp-out Session on the weekend of July 7, at Vanderwater Park. For information, phone 395-2855 or 473-4366.

On April 27, 28, 29, the Madoc first scouts sent two teams of boys to Operation Alert competitions. They are: [front] Steven Longworth, Danny Green, Jude Handley, Dennis Green; [back] Jamie Mosterakas, Scott Mosner, Owen Forde, Mathew Hickey and Scouter Barry Cbe.

Scouts attend Operation Alert

On April 27, 28 and 29, the first Madoc Scouts sent two teams of four boys each to Operation Alert. This is a yearly exercise in traditional scouting skills and was held at Presquille Provincial Park. As our present scout troop has only been in existence for less than two years, this was their first chance for most of the boys to attend such a camp. There were over 160 teams in attendance from Canada, the northern U.S., and even a team from as far away as Norway. Our boys came sixth and 26th in the point standings at the end. This was all due to their own hard work and skills taught them by their leaders, as adults were not allowed to assist in the competition.

On May 16, MPP Jim Pollock presented Madoc Township Council a cheque for $1,000 from the Solicitor General as half payment for equipment the township bought to save lives at car crashes. The Ministry of the Solicitor General pays 50 per cent of costs for any equipment bought to save victims of traffic accidents, and the township fire department now has some new equipment ready for use in case of an emergency. Pollock and Township Reeve John Irwin pointed out that the equipment purchased was comparable to the "Jaws of Life". Seen in the picture is Reeve Irwin receiving the cheque from MPP Pollock.

Last Saturday afternoon, the St. Peters Presbyterian Church Women's Club held their Bicentennial Lilac Tea visitors were free to tour through the historic manse built next to the church. Women's Club President Edith Aylesworth said she was pleased with the turnout at the annual event. Seen here pouring tea to Thelma McCoy, is Mrs. Prudence McCoy.

Wayne Martin leaves OMAF

After working with the OMAF office in Stirling for 17½ years, Wayne Martin called in for his last day there at the end of April 1984. Prior to those years with the Department of Agriculture, Wayne was employed for three years with the International Nickel Company. Now, he has moved on to a challenging position as the Program Manager/Agrologist for the Indian Agricultural Program of Ontario.

Indian farmers have developed this effort as a private corporation with some help in the initial funding from the federal government. Wayne Martin's job will be to develop programs for Indian farmers working land on any of the thirty-three reserves in Ontario. With his extensive experience with OMAF, Mr. Martin will ensure that none of the already existing programs are duplicated. The aim of the group of Indian farmers is to create specific programs tuned to the needs of agriculture on the individual reserves, because such a service is not available to them now.

Ontario is the territory for which Wayne will be responsible and he will be working with the Department of Indian and Northern Affairs to some degree. Presently, the head office of the Indian Agricultural Program is in Lambeth (down in SW Ontario) but they are in the process of relocating that office, so for the immediate future Wayne plans to reside in Stirling and "see how things go."

This is a first for this type of program in Ontario, although Manitoba and Saskatchewan have such works in place. It is a credit to Wayne's reputation that he was chosen for this position and if Stirling is fortunate, perhaps they will re-locate their head office here, and the Village will not lose such a valuable member of the community.

Wayne Martin, who has represented the Stirling OMAF office for the last 17½ years, has recently accepted the position of Program Manager/Agrologist with the Indian Agriculture Program of Ontario.

Around Madoc

Mrs. Hattie Bronson with son Jack and his wife Sharon of Belleville, spent a week in Halifax and attended the wedding of her grandson John Bronson to Janice Ashe of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Winner of the Canadian Legion Canoe is Gwen Ready of 221 Tamarac Street, Dunnville, Ontario.

Editor's Note:

Social news needed

Anyone in Madoc and area interested in seeing more local news in the paper need only volunteer their help. What is needed is a weekly column about social interaction and events taking place, written by someone in touch.

Right now the only consistent social columnist is Goldie Holmes, author of the weekly "Queensboro News". Goldie never fails to get her write-ups in on time for the next paper. The deadline is the Friday before the next issue is to hit the stands. We appreciate it if it comes in early Friday so that the copy can be edited properly.

Some of the areas we are looking to cover are Cooper-Remington, Ivanhoe, Madoc, and Eldorado.

Recently, we have tried to improve the quality of the local paper by publishing news from 10, 20 and 30 years ago that seems of interest to readers. So far, we have been receiving positive response. A second step we have taken is to initiate a library column to keep Madoc residents informed with that area also.

Since it is impossible for one man to cover every news event going in a community as active as Madoc, he must rely on your help with the social news. It would also help to give The Review office a call a week or more in advance of a news event to set up an appointment for coverage. If the Madoc editor is not available, there may be another way to arrange coverage. Given some time, there is usually a way to resolve timetable difficulties.

Another good reason for calling us ahead of time, is to make sure we know about the event taking place. Often people take it for granted that we already know.

Last Sunday afternoon, the Madoc Legion honored their dead during a Zone Drumhead. The parade started at Madoc IGA parking lot and proceeded down to the cenotaph for service. The local gathering enjoyed solo music from the trumpet and bag pipes. Seen above is the bag pipe soloist; MP Bill Vankoughnet (light pants) and legion members all facing the village cenotaph. The Drumhead is held every year in a different zone community. Following the cenotaph service, cadets and legionnaires went to the Kiwanis Centre for speeches and more services.

At The Library

by BARB CHAPPELLE

The topic of discussion at the last Library Board meeting, held on May 15, was advertising. Although a public library is not in the money-making business, advertising does play an important role in the library's main concern: service to the community. The board members are blabbing over with ideas for new programs and library notices, in addition to plans for acquisitions in audio-visual materials. The library has such activities as any as good as the response they receive from the public, so it is our duty to be sure that word of these services and services reach as many people as possible.

Library Board meetings are usually held the second Tuesday of each month (except July and August) at 8:30 p.m. in the reference room at the library. There are a total of 15 lively people who gather to conduct the business of running the library. Your library board members are: Linda Dandford and Marjorie Holland representing Huntingdon Township; Sandra McNeil representing Elzevir Township; Florence McCoy representing Madoc Township; Mary Pigden, a representative from Madoc Township Council; Jim Watson representing Madoc Village Council; Rita Sporrington, librarian; and the following representatives from Madoc Village: Barbara McCann, Buddy Pigden, Kathleen Kompass, Kay Peacock, Colleen Parks and Barbara Chappelle.

Library board members are volunteers appointed by their home council to serve on the board. If you have any ideas or questions about the library you may contact any board member, or better yet, plan to attend a board meeting whenever you wish. Our only request is that if you want to make a presentation to the board, please contact the librarian during library hours a week in advance, so that your presentation may be included on our agenda. The next board meeting is June 12 at 7:30 p.m.

All the young gardeners in the area are invited to join the library staff this Fri., June 1, between 10:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. for a flower-planting party on the library grounds (weather permitting). In the afternoon, cartoons will be shown in the children's room from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. These activities sound like a fun way to spend a few hours of a school PA day.

Madoc IOOF

Madoc IOOF Lodge 179, on the evening of May 16, hosted representatives from five lodges at which time six candidates were granted six degrees.

The degree team was captained by Bro. Leo Coveney.

A light repast was enjoyed by all after the meeting.

Turn back in time

TEN YEARS AGO

May 22, 1974 -- The Kiwanis Club of Madoc has proposed the forming of a health club here.

The proposal includes the construction of a building large enough to house change rooms, sauna, sun room and an exercise room to be outfitted with the necessary equipment. Plans also call for having an instructor on duty at all times.

The dance held on May 3, at the Madoc Kiwanis Centre was highly successful. John Murphy's orchestra provided the music. Through their combined efforts, a total of $271 was raised to help send a team of Bridgewater students to the Canadian Special Olympics.

Inflation has struck again for Hastings County operations. The county roads and bridges committee told councillors last week that a result of bids for brush kill chemicals, calcium chloride and other materials, road construction and road maintenance costs will be high this year.

Also, county workers are looking for higher pay and in keeping with the trend, councillors have voted themselves a raise in pay for attending committee and council sessions. The honoraria paid to councillors for attending council and committee sessions will be raised from $27.50 a day to $30 and will be retroactive to January 1 this year.

Also, the honorarium paid to the warden will be increased from $5,500 to $6,000.

One of the events during "Fifties Week" held recently at CHSS featured a dress up day. Robert Thurston, with "girlfriend" Cathy Rombough, won a dinner at Mother's Restaurant. The winners were chosen by CHSS students during an activity period. They were judged on the basis of clothes and personal appearance. No one can deny that Cathy and Robert caught the feelings of the Fifties well.

May 15, 1974 -- Constable Bob Whitehorn of the Madoc OPP investigated an early morning single-vehicle crash on Highway 62 on Sunday.

At 12:55 a.m. on May 12, a southbound car was reported to have crossed the road where it struck the railway warning light valued at $500 at the CNR.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

May 28, 1964 -- An estimated nearly 500 persons attended the official opening of the new Toronto Dominion Bank building last Saturday afternoon. Manager Percy Rowe and Mrs. Rowe, along with members of the bank staff were on hand to meet the many visitors.

Following an inspection tour of the new premises, refreshments were served and souvenirs presented to those present.

The election of J.J. Baker to the board of directors of The House of Seagram Limited, and his appointment as a vice-president of the company, were announced by Charles R. Bronfman, president.

Formerly vice-president and general sales manager for Joseph E. Seagram and Sons Ltd., with headquarters in Montreal, Mr. Baker will now be located in Toronto, and will administer the marketing activities of The House of Seagram Limited and its Canadian subsidiaries in the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba.

A former resident of Madoc, Mr. Baker first became associated with the distilling industry in 1946. Resident of the Madoc area for the past 65 years, Mr. John Bailey, RR 4, Madoc, died at his home on Tuesday. He was in his 71st year.

In failing health for the past two months, William James Ramsay, of Millbridge, died at the Belleville General Hospital Saturday morning, May 25. He was in his 65th year.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Faulkner Ashley, of St. Marys announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Lynne, to Cecil Roger James Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil A. Ball of Toronto. The marriage will take place on Saturday, June 27, 1964 at 4 o'clock in St. Marys United Church, St. Marys.

Thirty years ago May 20, 1954 -- Mr. and Mrs. George Watson, of Wellmans, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Brownson, in Madoc.

James Ruxton has taken over his duties at District Forester in Tweed, succeeding A.W. Leman, who had been transferred to the Lake Simcoe District with headquarters at Maple, Ont. Mr. Ruxton went to Tweed from Dorset. Mr. and Mrs. Ruxton and their family made their home in the Forestry residence in Tweed, when Mr. and Mrs. Leman moved to Richmond Hill.

Ronald Sharpe, of Hamilton, spent the summer with Mrs. Anne Sharpe and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Delyea, in Queensboro.

Mrs. Armour Reid, of Rednersville, was the guest of her cousins, Misses Ethel and Sylvia Richmond.

Mr. Wm. Casselman, Mrs. John Moon and Mrs. Geo. Casselman attended the funeral of the late James Casselman in Bancroft on Tuesday.

4-H Calf Club meets

The second meeting of the Madoc 4-H Calf Club was held at the Madoc Township Public School on May 15.

The president opened the meeting by the 4-H pledge. He then turned the meeting over to the secretary. Roll call was answered by each member following the name of his/her calf. Minutes of the last meeting were read.

Mr. Wannamaker then handed out some literature for us to read. He announced that the next meeting would be held on June 25, at Wannamaker's at 7:30 p.m. Jim Timbrell from the Eastern Breeders will be talking to us.

The topic of this meeting was "Introduction to cows". Mr. Wannamaker told each of us to read a part of a cow and define it. The leader then gave us a hidden word puzzle on the parts of a cow.

The meeting was closed

eral leadership candi- breakfast in Peterborough here [left] beside a young Jean Chretien had last week. Chretien is seen Liberal.

In a breakfast speech to about 150 Liberals, Chretien traded on his 17 years as an MP and his rejection of "new right" solutions to the country's economic woes and was enthusiastically applauded, getting two standing ovations.

Asked at one point if his long-time association with the government of Pierre Trudeau didn't pose a problem to his being seen as bringing a fresh approach to the party's leadership, Chretien responded that given his dearth of cabinet support in the campaign he carried "very light luggage". The bulk of Trudeau's cabinet has come out in favor of former finance minister John Turner.

Chretien said it was "fantastic that after 17 years" he was fighting the party establishment. He vowed there would be "poking maker and no rain maker" in his coterie of advisers.

He distanced himself from Trudeau by pointing out his style was different, claiming he was "a product of the party, a small town person, a populist."

In an obvious shot at Turner, who resigned from the cabinet and parliament in 1975, Chretien said, "I can't be accused of coming back when times were good."

He met criticism of the federal deficit saying "government is government, business is business" pointing out they were not the same. He said, "You don't take money out of the economy when 1.4 million people are unemployed." He said government had to "recycle money" in the economy because Canadians are savers not investors. He warned that the right wing approach to the economy of politicians like U.S. President Ronald Reagan had already been proven a mistake. He told his audience that in 1980 when Reagan won the election, the American deficit had been $50 billion, while it has now climbed to $218 billion despite Reagan's approach.

Chretien said he would like to "balance the books" but the times weren't right for such a move. He said deficit cutting was only appropriate in times of economic growth.

He went after Tory leader Mulroney with a deft attack on both Mulroney's inexperience and his business history. "Brian has gone abroad many times," Chretien said with the appropriate pause, adding "to Cleveland, Ohio." There he said Mulroney was told to close the Iron Ore operation in Shefferville, Quebec. (Prior to his election as party leader Mulroney was the president of Iron Ore. The company closed its Shefferville operation just prior to Mulroney's bid for the Tory leadership, effectively closing the one industry town.)

Chretien said once Mulroney found himself unemployed, as a result of the shutdown, "he kicked Joe Clark" out of the Tory leadership.

He said Mulroney demonstrated his "wisdom" with recent $100,000 renovations to Stornaway, the official residence of the Leader of the Opposition, "so he will be comfortable for a long time."

Chretien said the honeymoon between the public and Mulroney is over and "the dishes have started flying in the Tory kitchen." He said that while Liberals "fence a little, drawing a little blood," Tories "shoot in circles."

Provincial budget a disappointment to farmers

in financial assistance that has been promised for the agriculture industry in purely illusionary. The agriculture budgetary expenditures will remain at one percent of the total budgetary expenditures. The budget for the Ministry will do little more than approach the levels of expenditures of two years ago. While the Government intends to spend $355 million on the whole agriculture industry compared to $330 million in 1982-83, it will collect $583 million from the tobacco tax alone.

Contrary to the statements of the Provincial Treasurer, the new Ontario Budget offers no assurance to Ontario farmers that the recession is over for them. There is little evidence that the immediate critical requirements of this vital sector of our economy is being given any serious consideration by the Government.

The additional funds allotted for 1984 will go for programs previously announced and committed before the release of the budget, such as the Farm Tax Reduction Program, the Beginning Farmers Program and the red meat initiatives.

No new programs have been announced.

The one area that requires immediate financial assistance, namely the red meat industry, continues to be neglected. In fact, there is no financial commitment to a Tripartite Stabilization Plan which the Minister of Agriculture and Food has claimed would be introduced this summer and which he has held up as the solution to farmers' financial problems for the last two years.

This budget will do nothing to help farmers begin to pay back the huge debts which they have accumulated over the last few years. Many proposals have been made by farm organizations to address these problems, which have been totally ignored by the Treasurer.

They were named Annette, Cecile, Yvonne, Emilie and Marie and they became known as the world-famous Dionne Quintuplets. The parents of the five little girls were Elzire and Oliva Dionne and on May 28, 1984 we remember the birth of these identical sisters.

Two of the Quints, Emilie and Marie are dead, but the other three sisters all live near Montreal, in the suburb of Saint-Bruno-de-Montarville. Their father Oliva died in 1979 but the rest of the Dionne family still live in the North Bay area.

To help celebrate the Quints' 50th birthday, a variety of events will be held in North Bay this summer:

-- The North Bay and District Chamber of Commerce has arranged the striking of coins, legal tender in North Bay, to recognize the occasion.

-- The North Bay and Area Museum has an exhibition of original photographs and reproductions of postcards from the collection of Robert Atkinson of Toronto. (A copy of one of these postcards is enclosed.)

-- The Unicorn Theatre will be presenting a play about the Quints' story during two weekends in late August.

-- The original Dionne Homestead, where the Quints were born, will once again be open for visitors on the grounds of the Pine-wood Park Motor Inn.

-- Future plans for this special building include the City of North Bay purchasing the 100 year old log and clapboard cabin with the assistance of the people of North Bay and the Province of Ontario.

Wilderness in the heart of Toronto

By ARLEN HACKMAN

To many of us, the term wilderness usually involves images of boreal forests. But to thousands of Toronto area residents, wilderness begins at the foot of Leslie Street in the heart of an industrial section of downtown, where the four kilometre long Leslie Street pit winds out into Lake Ontario.

The landscape is of recent origin, built up by almost four million truck loads of fill over the past 25 years. Yet, despite its artificial beginnings, the evolution of this landfill site as natural habitat has been spectacular. In the short space of 10 years, it has been transformed from a hunk of raw rubble into a well vegetated area, with an amazing abundance of animal life. Though dominated for now by the world's largest colony of Ring-Billed Gulls, the Spit's shallow bays and willow thickets have drawn 200 species of birds, including Hudsonian Godwits, three species of phalaropes, Horned Larks and Ringed-Necked Pheasants. For the botanist, there are more than 150 species of plants to be seen, including two considered rare in Canada: Englemann's Umbrella Sedge and fragrant Cyperus.

Originally designed as part of an enlarged harbor, which later proved unnecessary, the Spit has become instead the scene of a high profile tug-of-war between user groups who have different dreams of its future. Naturalists, cyclists and joggers, who enjoy it virtually year round, want the Spit to continue its uncharted course of biological development as an aquatic park. Recreational boaters and ambitious city dwellers want to exploit the Spit for its real estate potential and see it as a prime construction site.

The climax of this struggle is now approaching as the Metro Toronto and Region Conservation Authority prepares to hold public meetings and develop a master plan. It's not coming a minute too soon. Car traffic and boating facilities have already gained a secure foothold on the headland in the absence of a plan and in the face of three public opinion surveys which revealed majority support for leaving the area to grow wild.

Unfortunately, the very same Conservation Authority which is to sort out the conflicting demands, has also entertained proposals which envision the Spit as a veritable Coney Island. But it will do well to remember the story of the Spadina Expressway before adopting them. This is not a minor skirmish between "Birders and Boaters". It is a more fundamental issue of "People or Cars". And the Leslie Street Spit is widely recognized as a unique opportunity to recoup some of the ground we have lost to machines. Left as an urban wilderness, it would offer a far more rare and refreshing experience to any and all, than is available within most city limits. As the thriving organization called Friends of the Spit has shown, this opportunity must not and will not slip by unnoticed.

Madoc Women's Institute meets

By A. HAGERMAN

Mrs. Ruth McCurdy, provincial president of Junior Women's Institutes, was guest speaker at the May meeting of Madoc Women's Institute. The Junior WI was founded eight years ago and there are now 23 branches with over 400 members, mainly young farm women.

Mrs. McCurdy reported that the Grade nine science curriculum is to be altered to science and energy and will include farming - the use of human and machine energy and how the chain of food goes - for example, from grass, to the cow, to the plastic bag of milk in the supermarket. Lennox Addington has the only school with a barn and animals and a greenhouse. The barn was built by pupils on summer vacation.

They started bringing in bus loads of children and had 1500 visiting last year.

Mrs. McCurdy said environmental science should get the same recognition as chemistry, physics and biology, and it is hoped that this will be incorporated in the public school curriculum.

The Junior WI fall conference "Flavors of Quinte", hosted by the Belleville branch, will be held in Belleville in October. Roy Bonisteel will be a speaker. Local artisans and craftspeople will have a display at the Four Seasons Hotel.

Mrs. Jean Keene gave a lively report on the WI conference in Guelph. One in five persons in Ontario are involved in food growing or processing. In the 1940s there were two women graduates from Guelph Agricultural College. Now, over one third of the grads are women, many of whom are taking positions as farm managers.

Of 2000 persons taking seminars last year, 1600 were women, and 900 of those were WI members.

The first concern at the conference this year was educating young people. The second was day care for farm wives. Jean left us with the thought: "No one will stub her toe if she stands still - but she won't get anywhere, either."

President Wilma Patrick reminded us of the District Tweedsmuir Tea to be held at Ivanhoe Hall on June 9, 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Mary Pigden was presented with a plaque in recognition of her work with the 4-H girls' homemaking clubs since 1972.

Lottie Bailey discussed laundry labels using an illustrated chart. Lou Phillips for consumers spoke about condensation in chimneys from wood stoves. She also reported that many businesses prefer credit cards to cash and we should use our influence to reduce the use of credit cards.

Jean Scott requested that we support the campaign for dialysis machines in Belleville General Hospital. The June 15 meeting will be in the form of a trip, dinner out and home for supper.

The president closed the meeting with The Queen and hostesses Loren Connor and Myrtle Gates served a tasty lunch.

On Thursday, May 24, the Eldorado Combines met the Flinton Eagles in Eldorado and won, 5-4, during a regular Hastings-Addington league ball game. Pitcher Earl Alexander [above] threw well until the seventh inning, when the Eagles began a four point comeback that nearly tied the game. When the score hit 5-4 for Eldorado, pitcher Brian Plumb was substituted for Alexander and the Eagles were stopped.

Douro downs Reid's Lakefield Bantams 2-0

BY MARG HILL

Bob Reid's Lakefield Bantams kicked off their season last Tuesday night with a challenging match against Douro. Classified by the referee as a good game because the players listened, it exhausted every man's potential trying to stop the larger and more aggressive Douro players.

Even with some exciting breakaways, Lakefield failed to score against high-kicking Douro. The final score was 2-0. Exceptional goaltending was provided by Keith Myles and Phil Ferrey. Most valuable player was Blair Walsh.

When the schedule announced that the Major Mosquitoes were up against the Reg Conley Oldtimers last Wednesday night, this reporter expected to see Lakefield's twelve year olds battling it out with a senior citizens' squad. Not so. The Oldtimers is a scrappy little outfit from Peterborough that more than gave the Lakefield team a run for its money.

Obviously hurting from a 6-0 defeat, some of the Lakefield players called it a "lousy" game. From Chris Buddle's point of view though "it sure beats nine to nothing", the score from their last game against the Redskins. Goalie Peter Grant found one bright spot: "We played as a team and did a lot of passing." That's the spirit.

For the second year, the Norwood Juniors are taking part in the Hastings Civic League. The Juniors were guests of PBL in their season opener.

This game proved evenly matched. PBL took the lead at the bottom of the first inning with Kevin Hie crossing the plate on a hit

Most valuable player was Ryan Stupavsky.

Other results:
Thurs., May 17 - Lakefield Minor Mosquitoes 2, Crows 0.

MVP: John Anderson; goalie: Eric Honig.

Wed., May 23 - Lakefield

Thurs., May 24 - Lakefield Minor Mosquitoes vs. Scott's Colonels, forfeited by the Colonels.

A reminder to Lakefield senior team players: The Peterborough city soccer club has free passes for all Peterborough Lions Youth soccer players who go to the Red Oak home games. To get your free pass simply wear your PLYSC game sweater to the Red Oak's games and ask for your free pass at the entrance gate. Soccer trivia: Did you know that not all divisions play with the same size ball? The Squirrels, Atoms and mosquitoes use a #4, the Pewees and Bantams a #5.

Norwood Juniors open ball season

by Glen Acorn.

The Juniors remained calm and added three runs in the top of the third; Rob Buchanan and Mike Lytle each scored on a hit by Gary Wilson; and Gary Wilson crossed the plate with Jeff Towns' high. The PBL team also added a run in this inning. Danny Selby managed a hit which scored Kevin Hie.

The PBL team added two runs in the bottom of the fourth to take the lead. Larry Wrightly scored on Bernie Gannon's hit; and Bernie Gannon crossed the plate on Kevin Hie's hit.

The Juniors tied the score in the top of the sixth,

Bernard Crowley scoring on Gord Durmin's hit. The Juniors played a super game, but the experience of the PBL team gave them the one run to win the season opener 5-4. Bernie Gannon got a two-base hit and went on to steal home to win the game for PBL.

Winning pitcher was

Larry Wrightly, five strikeouts, and faced 20 batters. Losing pitcher was Rob Buchanan with 11 strikeouts and faced 28 batters.

Upcoming games: Wed., May 30th, Juniors at Hastings; Mon., June 4th, PBL at Juniors (Norwood).

Norwood No-Stars win season opener

The "Norwood Lakeway Automotive No-Stars" opened their "ball hockey" on a winning note. The locals are the defending champions from 1982; there was no ball hockey in Warsaw last year due to no arena. They faced a team called the Warriors and this game proved evenly matched with end to end action.

and the locals coming out on top by a 5-3 count.

Scoring were: Rob McCrae and Steve Cavanagh each with singles, while Mike Lytle added a hat trick.

The locals play all their games in the Warsaw arena every Monday night. Team members: Sean Olan, Mike Lytle, Kirk Snider, Greg

Cavanagh, Jay Irwin, and Donnie McIlmoyle. "Go! No-Stars. Go!"

Switzer Sports leads Lakefield League

Switzer Sports has taken an early lead in the search for first place in the Lakefield Men's Softball League.

Picking up five out of a possible six points last week, Switzer Sports have compiled a record of five wins, one loss, one tie, for a five point lead on Home Hardware, although Home

Hardware has three games in hand.

NEW ONTARIO GOVERNMENT GUIDE BOOKS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS AND DISABLED PERSONS.

Senior citizens, disabled persons and concerned agencies will be interested in two new publications published by the Provincial Secretariat for Social Development. The "Guide for Senior Citizens" and the "Guide to Programs and Services for Disabled Persons" each offer a complete listing of government programs and services available to assist disabled persons and seniors.

These guides are excellent reference publications for any senior or disabled person who wants to make the most of the many opportunities which are offered in the Province of Ontario. The Secretariat will automatically send the "Guide for Senior Citizens" to every person in the province when they reach 65 years of age.

To obtain a copy of either the "Guide for Senior Citizens" or the "Guide to Programs and Services for Disabled Persons," write the Secretariat for Social Development, c/o Government Services, P.O. Box 102, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1N3.

Combines down Eagles

On Thursday, May 24, the Eldorado Combines met the Flinton Eagles in Eldorado and won 5-4, during a regular Hastings-Addington league ball game. The first run for Eldorado came in the third inning of seven, when catcher Dean Harris ran home. Then in the fourth, Scott Shaw ran in for the second. On top of the seventh, Eldorado again scored when Randy Wilson went in on a single hit by Scott McCormick to make it 3-0 for Eldorado. Then Harris and McCormick ran in for two more on a hit from Scott Shaw. Shaw was thrown out on third. The score going into the final inning was 5-0 for Eldorado. The Eagles made a four run come-back bid, but couldn't go all the way and the game ended 5-4. Seen above is Eldorado catcher Dean Harris getting thrown out on first after he bunted.

Agriculture brief

Soil salinity is serious in western Canada but nobody knows just how serious a problem it is today. To help answer this question, Agriculture Canada scientists are studying the spread of salinity with the use of earth-orbiting satellites and advanced map-producing techniques. This will show the scientists to produce a salinity map for the entire prairie region. For the first time, researchers will have a reliable estimate of how much land is affected with or being threatened by salinity.

Township diamond back in full use

By ISABELLA SHAW

Softball is again very active on the diamond despite cool temperatures and the mosquitos.

In the men's league, the Factory team defeated Tannery and the Elders defeated Cooper on Friday evening. On Sunday, O'Hara's defeated Moore's Corners and the Elders defeated Queensboro.

In that game, Shaw was on the mound for the Elders and chalked up 16 strikeouts as well as collecting a solo home run. On Monday evening the Panthers defeated Bannockburn Devils 6-5.

On Tuesday, the Angels, our PeeWee girls representative suffered a loss to Queensboro. Our Atom boys bounced back from a tie the previous evening to defeat Springbrook quite handily. Scott Tracey collected 13 strike-outs for Eldorado.

In the ladies' division, the Cooper Connection and Hannah Electric emerged victorious over the Goldiggers and the Whirlwinds respectively.

In Springbrook the Beauties continued from where they left off last season winning with a 10-5 score. Strike-outs were again the name of the game with a total of 18. Suzanne Franks had 11 in 4 1/2 innings and Andrea had seven in 2 1/4 innings. Andrea and Paula Harris both had triples.

On Wednesday this same team hosted Belleville and handed them a 5-4 loss in a game which could have easily went either way. Eldorado bounced back from an early 2-0 deficit to score five runs in the bottom of the fourth on runs by Andrea, Patti, Paula, Suzanne and Candy.

Belleville scored two in the top of the seventh and had the tie run at third when the third out was made. Suzanne had three strikeouts in 1 1/2 innings and Andrea had 11 in 5 1/4 innings.

Also on Wednesday evening the Squirt boys handed Madoc a 6-4 loss.

In Queensboro the two ladies' expansion teams met in a game which saw the Cheddolettes hand the Cougars a 2-9 loss.

On Thursday evening, the PeeWee boys hosted Stoco and handed them an 11-2 loss. Shawn Gray collected 15 strike-outs in this game.

In the Tweed Hungerford league the Combines kept their record in tack collecting a 6-2 win and a 10-10 tie over Flint. This makes their record for the year 4-1-0. We have 21 teams using this field this year and with the possibility of two more, it means there will be 166 games of ball on the diamond this summer. This means that there will never be a night that the diamond will not be used. A schedule will be posted at the booth and a schedule will be kept in the paper. Pick your team or teams and give them your support.

Our Minor ball system has its own executives this year and has been involved in three money making ventures this spring to raise funds for the support of minor ball in the township. These being namely, the "500" draw which is six draws for $500. There are still four draws left and remaining tickets have been reduced to $8. This only averages out to $2 per draw, next draw is three weeks away. Get yours today.

The second venture was a dance last Saturday evening at the arena. Two hundred people attended and enjoyed an evening of fun and fellowship. Thanks to all who helped John Murphy and his band; sponsors and all who attended.

And the third was a walk-a-thon which will be history also by the time this is printed (weather permitting).

We wish to thank all who participated or supported in any of these ventures, for our children are our future and what better use of our support. See you next week with more news from the township.

P.S. Congratulations to Tim and Judy McCann on the birth of their daughter. Judy is a member of the Bandits and the treasurer of the Township Field and Recreation Association.

If the Shoe Fits

Should the feet be pampered?

Millions of dollars are spent yearly in beauty salons to beautify the American woman. Yet neglected feet and ill-fitting shoes will ruin the face, dampen the spirits, and can be related to more serious physical ailments. Because feet get more wear and abuse than any other part of the body, it is important to give them the living care and pampering that is given to the most beautiful face.

Your feet will appreciate a refreshing daily bath; a foot powder will aid in drying. When your feet are tired, stimulate them by immersing alternately in hot and cold water. A vigorous massage with a rough towel is good. Apply lanolin, cream or lotion to areas of feet that are dry or cracked. Trim toe nails straight across. Raise your feet 2 or 3 feet above the floor to stimulate circulation. It's relaxing for the whole body, and good for the feet.

Fishin' with Frank

By PHIL TUNKER
"Have you seen them yet, Frank?"
Again no answer as I extended my arms to a distance of three feet. We had been fishing the creek for three hours and Frank had not seen them yet. That smirk on his face revealed that old Phil was lying again.

Moments later Frank hooked into a beautiful seven inch speckle, which, with a smile, he showed me, and then released.
"Are these them?" he asked.
"No Frank, honest, there are monsters in here."
The creek babbled so loud

I could hardly hear the muffled guffaws from my old fishing pal's throat.
I had been watching huge shapes drift under logs for two hours and my bespectacled pal had seen nothing. I had almost stepped on a pair of mating rainbows, their fins sticking two or three inches out of the shallow water. The splash and noise of retreat made my heart jump as my foot almost touched one of them.

I tried worms, flies, even plugs but non response. They were only interested in spawning. I finally quit fishing and just watched. Soon a large pair of coho entered a shallow.

"Incredible!" I shouted to Frank. "They are both over 30 inches."

He came cautiously over the rise, but upon hearing his approach, water splashing and churned up mud were the only fleeting evidence.

"Must've been a beaver," said Frank.

"No Frank, there was a pair of immense coho here two seconds ago."

"Don't fish!" I screamed at my partner. "Just watch the creek and you'll see them."

I knew Frank wore glasses, but I didn't think he was blind.

I continued downstream observing different pails spawning. I must have seen 14 or 15 monsters, some with speckles on their backs the size of 25 cent pieces. Upon reaching the bridge, a single rainbow lay in six inches of water. Well over forty inches! The biggest trout I had ever seen was just three feet away!

I had been watching it for 10 minutes, when heavy boot steps and a rattling tackle box sent the fish away with a giant splash.

"Time for a beer," Frank shouted.

"Good God Frank!" I sighed, "the largest trout in the world was lying here right before my eyes, and you want a beer!"

The water below my feet was still churned up, murky with silt.

"Must've been a beaver," replied Frank.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Frank and Phil may have been shut out this week but the fanatic fishermen will regale you with tales of their tails throughout the summer. No doubt before too long we'll hear a tale of a tail that sounds fishy. Phil swears all his tales are of real tails and in the months to come we'll have picture proof positive.

Editorial: Ken Dryden named Youth Commissioner

By ROSS LEES

A press release received this week from the Ministry of Treasury and Economics informs us that Ken Dryden, an author, lawyer and member of the Hockey Hall of Fame, was appointed Youth Commissioner for Ontario.

The press release went on to say that treasurer Larry Grossman said Dryden will begin immediately to implement Ontario Youth Opportunities, the 10-point program to provide money and direction for the training and experience young people require to find and keep jobs.

That sounds commendable but, according to Professor David Foot in an article in The Globe and Mail this week, it's a case of too little too late. Professor Foot teaches economics at the University of Toronto.

Foot raises some good points. He says the problem is not new, that it has been with us for more than a decade since the baby-boom generation of the 1950s and early 1960s entered the labor market in the late 1960s and 1970s. He says, "Moreover, it was a problem that was easily predictable and emerged gradually, at least in the context of most economic problems. Why has it taken our governments more than a decade to recognize its existence as a continuing policy problem?"

Foot's point throughout his article is that the government is way behind the times with the problem to begin with but he adds that their new proposals will see to it that they remain behind the times although they are just in time to appear to be doing something about it.

Foot gives some figures to back up his theory. He says there are about 754,000 15- to 19-year-olds and 820,000 20- to 24-year-olds in Ontario - the age groups most commonly identified with youth. "In 1983, almost 1.1 million of these people were on the job market and 885,000 were employed, leaving 192,000 searching for work - a historically high unemployment rate of 17.8 per cent."

He goes on to say that over the next five years the 15- to 19-year-olds will become 20- to 24-year-olds and a new group of 15- to 19-year-olds will enter Ontario's labor market. These will come from the current crop of 10- to 14-year-olds, of which there are only 665,000, a reflection of the continuation of the baby-bust of the 1960s.

Assuming, he says, this new youth adopts similar labor market characteristics to today's youth and that the economy still generates the same number of jobs for youth workers in 1988 as it did in 1983, the youth unemployment rate in Ontario will automatically fall to 9.7 per cent, a decline of more than 18 percentage points, or nearly 50 per cent. "Of course," he says, "if youth employment grows with the economy, as might reasonably be expected, the decline will be even more dramatic."

What he says makes sense. Youth unemployment is one of those problems that is very shortly going to solve itself, but I'll bet since this is an election year that we'll hear plenty of people taking credit for solving the problem.

Note we said "youth unemployment" will solve itself. Foot's point again is that we have all these new measures and a new youth commissioner to solve youth unemployment problems just as the problem is about to graduate to an adult unemployment problem. Foot says you can look for the adult unemployment rate to climb to 16 per cent in five years time. Unless the government takes steps right now to do something about this foreseeable problem, our next government can then appoint Mr. Dryden as Adult Commissioner for Ontario just in time for the next election.

Mr. Dryden, fortunately, belongs to the baby-boom era and he will be able to follow the problem up through the system to a ripe old age. Once all of these terminally unemployed people reach the age of 65, they will be retired and the problem will be solved. Or is that another problem that our government will wait until it solves itself and then jump on the bandwagon. Hopefully, there will be enough government funds at that time to rescue them and every other Canadian, especially the working Canadians.

The decreasing number of children now - our children - are not going to have an easy time carrying that load, but this may be way too early for it to make any sense to this or our next government. Besides, by that time, we may have another government that will inherit the problem.

Editorial Comment:

Banned film should be seen

By JOHN BENNETT

If the crowd of six people is any indication, the Ontario Film Censor Board has a very great impact on controlling public discussion of issues. Last Friday the Hastings Resource Centre held a special showing of the film "Not a Love Story". It is a documentary about the pornography industry in North America and was made by two Canadian women at the National Film Board. When it was released, a few years ago, the Ontario censors banned it from public showing.

The censors' restrictions severely limited the Centre's ability to promote the film without violating the regulations. As a result the showing didn't receive the publicity it deserved.

The film reveals just how extensive the pornography industry has become in the last decade. It now grosses more than $5 billion annually.

It also tries, through interviews with experts and artists, to discover what impact it has on our society.

In examining its topic, the film does show some of the porn material now readily available, but the context is always one of examination and not exploitation. However, it is at times very shocking and at points disturbing as its subject is both of those things.

The interference of the showing of this film by the Ontario Censor Board is clearly political. It was an opportunity to appear to be working hard to maintain community standards while merely attacking the federal government.

It also is a method of limiting public discussion of the entire topic of pornography. As the film pointed out, the porn industry is a multi-billion dollar one. It is on all the magazine racks and in all the video stores. It needs to be addressed by informed discussion, but because of the Ontario Censor Board, the discussion will remain at the emotion level only.

This allows the government to continue in its paternalism towards us all. Limiting the information flow keeps the public ignorant of the issue, giving the government a free hand to act.

It has begun to act already announcing in the Throne speech that the Censor Board will be censoring videos offered to the public. That may be a good thing, but it might also be a bad thing. There has not been the kind of informed debate needed to make the determination.

Do we need a big brother deciding these things for us or can you and I study and discuss issues and come to our own proper conclusions?

Banning and censoring are words that wrinkle the skin on the back of my neck. As much as some of the things I saw in "Not a Love Story" turned my stomach, I am better for having seen it.

The question of what impact seeing things of this kind has on people of any age is still very much unknown. What is known is that the problems of the latter twentieth century are far greater and too fundamental to be helped by banning or censoring the information we receive.

Please Big Brother, give me: good roads, a social safety net, and clean air, but don't mess with my mind, it's mine!

Agriculture

brief - sheep

Better production for Canadian sheep breeders is possible with Romanov rams say Agriculture Canada scientists.

Romanov ewes average more than three lambs per gestation. Through crossbreeding with Romanov rams, Canadian producers could increase lamb production in their flocks.

In 1981, Agriculture Canada imported a flock of 14 ewes and five Romanov rams from France. This flock is kept at the federal department's Lennoxville, Que. Research Station where it has grown to 120 head and is being used in sheep research.

Trent-Severn water stats

The average Haliburton Lakes storage percentage reached 95.2% on the 14th of May. By May 17th a small decline (the first this spring) occurred so that the amount was 92.9%. This small decline was generally the result of releasing water from some lakes which had exceeded 100% earlier. Some moderate rains in Haliburton would really help to top up the reservoir lakes.

The Kawartha Lakes which were overfilled to some extent last week on May 11th, were pushed even further by the rain that day and throughout this week large flows have been discharged down the Ontoabee to return them to lower levels. Flow reductions on Thursday and Friday (17th, 18th May) have resulted in river section currents that are still tricky, but not hazardous to navigate. The canal opening is occurring today with precautions issued to warn boaters about the swift currents especially near water control dams.

If the forecasted rain produces modest inflows the situation should not change much. Heavy rains especially south of Haliburton could result in flows too high, and navigation might have to be suspended. Dry weather could be a help for a week or so in the south of the Trent Watershed.

Property pointers by John Ward

Contrary to public opinion the majority of lawyers, realtors, surveyors and other property professionals are ethical. However, they view the management of a conveyance whether purchase or sale from their own unique perspective.

Like the vendor the professionals are also in business to make a profit. Suggested minimum fee guidelines quoted the consumer will rarely accommodate the resolution and management of severe complications. Also the client is often referred; for example to the surveyor by a lawyer and to the lawyer by a realtor. These referrals may represent a substantial percentage of the practitioner's gross revenue.

Obviously it is everyone's objective to complete or 'close' the transaction on time. Complications may thwart the closure. Financially everyone loses. The clients are often upset and unable or unwilling to pay the professional's fee. The client may blame the professionals. Future referrals are in jeopardy.

Anticipation of the scenario can encourage a 'gun shy' perspective. Professionals are retained and marched off to hunt down title problems all the while hoping they won't have to fire. I have seen the attitude develop to the extreme. Professionals may avoid retaining another professional service in the hope of avoiding complications.

For example, recently a purchaser was encouraged to 'save' six or seven hundred bucks by avoiding a survey. He wasn't advised on the flaws in title that a survey might reveal or the future benefits derived from a survey. Now as owners they own a two thousand dollar problem. Similarly, a purchaser recently argued that he did not require a lawyer. A technician was processing his purchase. He reported that a professional had suggested that lawyers are expensive and "just complicate things".

I asked him if he would be prepared to purchase the property regardless of the condition of the title. He responded he wasn't. He did not know whether the technician was certifying title nor whether he had liability insurance.

Another recent example involved an inadequate property description. The day the offer is signed the description should be submitted to the registry office for approval. Your surveyor will usually manage this service as a courtesy or for a nominal fee. In this case the shortcoming presented itself three days before closing. Obviously the deal failed to close.

These examples underline the need for management. As outlined in my last article the team needs a captain. Ask the individual selected as manager for an estimated fee in addition to those quoted for routine services. Inform him or her that he or she is responsible for the co-ordinating of professional services and the early detection and if possible resolution of complications. Inform him or her that you expect to be kept informed. If complications arise encourage him or her to call all the parties involved to a meeting. This often settles in minutes what can take weeks to resolve.

Hastings County 4-H

The second meeting of the 4-H Judging Club was held at the farm of Bob Burkitt on May 9, 1984. The meeting commenced with the members going to the barn and Bob went over the aspects to look for in a good dairy cow.

We then proceeded into the barn to judge a class of four mature cows.

The members then proceeded to the house where the business of the meeting was taken care of and the members enjoyed a hearty lunch supplied by Mrs. Burkitt.

Darren Lockwood then thanked Mr. and Mrs. Burkitt for having us to their farm and the meeting was adjourned.

The next meeting is to be held at the farm of Doug Rollins at a later date.

The next meeting was discussed and is to be held at the farm of Mel White's on June 20, 1984. Our guest speaker, Joe Preston, then arrived and gave us an explanation of what the somatic cell count meant and explained what the different kinds of mastitis were and how they affected the cows.

The meeting was then adjourned with the members saying the 4-H motto and Robin Kooistra thanked Mr. Preston. The members enjoyed a hearty lunch of cookies and milk, which was supplied by the Kooistras.

We are not sure whether there is any political significance to this race, but

The next federal election will tell whether this omen was accurate or just an anomaly in the rising and falling tides of political races.

Salami, salami, baloney!

Hon. George Hees [Northumberland]: Mr. Speaker, my question is directed to the Prime Minister, whom I will not abandon as he goes out with the tide.

Some Hon. Members: Hear, hear!

Mr. Hees: The 1984 report of the prestigious European Management Forum on International Competitiveness indicates that Canada ranks twenty-second of the 22 principal industrial countries in receptiveness to investment capital from abroad. Our country desperately needs all the investment capital we can get to help us expand our economy and to provide the jobs which our people need. In view of those facts, why do the Prime Minister and his Government persist in making it more difficult than in any of the 22 other industrial countries for investment capital to come to this country and help us to do the job that so desperately needs to be done today?

Right Hon. P.E. Trudeau [Prime Minister]: Mr. Speaker, I did not quite hear what authority the Hon. Member was quoting.

Mr. Hees: I will repeat it.

Mr. Trudeau: Before he repeats it, Mr. Speaker, I want to say it's baloney.

Mr. Hees: Mr. Speaker, my authority is the 1984 report of the European Management Forum on International Competitiveness. It has been quoted many times in this House. It is a well-known economic study group.

Effect of Foreign Investment Review Agency

Hon. George Hees [Northumberland]: Mr. Speaker, I will ask a supplementary. Does the Prime Minister not realize that billions of dollars of potential investment capital have been driven away from this country by the unbelievable delays and bureaucratic bungling of the Foreign Investment Review Agency which he and his Government announced with such fanfare and praise just a short time ago? When is he

Business consultants

The fees of management consultants are often prohibitive. The Small Business Consulting Service at Queen's University is designed specifically with these enterprises in mind. The service is particularly attractive to small business owners/managers because it combines high quality work and low rates, subsidized by the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Trade.

The consultants are graduate business students and final year commerce students enrolled in the School of Business at Queen's University. They draw information from their studies, their own widely varied work experiences, the faculty of the School and the local business community.

The SBCS has serviced more than 500 clients over the last 12 years. These have ranged from larger firms to one person cottage-type industries.

The staff have consulted in all the functional areas of business including: finance, marketing, accounting, production, personnel, operations and computer applica-going to get together with his Government and do something about that which is stopping badly needed investment capital coming to this country?

Right Hon. P.E. Trudeau [Prime Minister]: No matter how you slice it, Mr. Speaker, it is still baloney.

Mr. Hees: The unemployed people of Canada will be interested to hear what the Prime Minister has to say about this very important matter.

How does the service work? After a client makes the initial contact, he or she is interviewed by a team of two consultants to determine what type of work is required. There is no charge for this initial interview. The consultants then prepare a proposal letter outlining the work they will do, the time it will take to complete the project and an estimate of their fee. Work will commence once the terms of the proposal have been accepted.

"We know that the small businessman is an expert when it comes to running his own business. However, even the most capable manager can benefit from the objective advice of an outside consultant," says Mr. Stan Simpson, the new manager of the Small Business Consulting Service.

Any company located within a 150 kilometre radius of Kingston is eligible for the service which can be contacted by phoning (613) 547-2675.

Marmora boy first

Twelve-year-old Colin Amey of Whitehorse, Yukon, (formerly of Marmora) has just returned home to Whitehorse from Edmonton Alberta where he won first place in the annual "Search For Talent" series, sponsored by the Edmonton Club Associated Canadian Travellers.

Colin won the semi-finals two weeks before and then continued on to win first place in the finals that were aired on CFRN TV Station in Edmonton, Alberta. The young winner received a large trophy and a bursary of $150.

Colin is well known in the Yukon for winning talent shows for the past four years doing Elvis Presley music. He won the "Search For Talent" doing a Billy Joel song. Colin does mostly pop rock music and plans to make a career of this. He will be competing in Edmonton sometime again this summer and is also doing a video-tape to be sent to CBC in Toronto.

Colin is the youngest son of Roy and Diane Amey of Whitehorse and the grandson of Dick and Bernice Lummiss of Whitehorse. Yukon (formerly of Marmora).

Vankoughnet Report

Bill Vankoughnet, MP for Hastings - Frontenac - Lennox and Addington recently rose in the House of Commons to register on behalf of all Canadians the deep disappointment that would be felt should the visit of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II be cancelled. "I believe it is a slight to all Canadians that the visit would be cancelled for partisan political reasons, particularly in light of the extensive preparations that have been completed in anticipation of her presence," remarked Mr. Vankoughnet.

1984 marks 200 years as a province in New Brunswick, and is the Bicentennial of the arrival of the United Empire Loyalists to Ontario; two very significant anniversaries in the life of our nation.

"The suggestion by a quoted 'Liberal source' that people who vote for the Liberal party do not respect the monarchy and therefore constitutional parliamentary democracy, which is part of that tradition with the Queen as our Head of State, is a real slap in the face to all Liberals. The attempt to associate Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II with partisan politics is a cheap shot at best and slanderous at worst. Canadians are offended by such remarks and I have indicated to the Liberal Government that it better consider the seriousness of such irresponsible statements before any decision is made to cancel the Queen's visit for any reason," stated Mr. Vankoughnet.

Ross Cooney and his 1952 Chevrolet pickup truck are new characters on the local scene. Ross himself has returned to the area after a 29 year absence. East or

Former area man returns home

Ross Cooney spent a good deal of his youth helping his father on the farm on the 5th of Rawdon Township before moving to Toronto in 1955. Recently, he decided that he was "tired of living in the city and decided to make a change while I was still young enough to do it."

Thus, last September he and his wife and two daughters moved into a home on Henry Street in Stirling and their son headed for the University of Waterloo.

Mr. Cooney gave up 27 years of seniority with C.P. Transport to make the change but he has no regrets. He does part time driving for R&M Leasing which suits him fine, because he no longer wants "a regular road run". Instead, Mr. Cooney has started the Stirling Home Maintenance Service that he feels is needed in this village. As he stated in The News-Argus: "I figure I am fairly versatile and I don't want to be tied to one routine. I'm not what you could call a carpenter, but I can do repairs or put up small buildings. I can fill in for businesses while regular staff is on holidays or help farmers for a few days. I'm available for any type of day work really."

So, if you have any jobs about your home that you cannot find anyone to do, there is now a new service in Stirling that may be just what you are looking for.
